NO CONCESSIONS TO U. S.! BRITISH DEBTS DICTUM

Insists on Outright Cut by America.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Great Britain has no intention of returning to the gold standard in the near future. It has no intention of offering any advantages, commercial or territorial, to the United States in exchange for a revision or modification of its war debt. It does not intend to agree to link debts to disarmament, and it proposes to try to persuade the United States that it is as much to its advantage as it is to Europe's advantage to wipe out intergovernmental obligations.

These facts emerged from an informal talk by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, who was a guest of the American Newspaper Correspondents' association in London at a luncheon today.

Blames Debts for Crisis.

Chamberlain began by saying that in the present state of affairs he did not want to discuss war debts. He said he understood a lot of people in America are sick of hearing about them. If that is so, he is in complete agreement with them, he said.

He paid tribute to President Elect Roosevelt's action in inviting Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, to consult with him at Warm Springs, Ga., and said such an interchange of views could do nothing but good. Intergovernmental debts, he said, are not the only but they are the chief cause of the troubles of the world, and every one must face the fact that interdependence of nations is a modern condition.

Countries must exchange products if they are to exist, he continued; and he added that neither the United States nor the British empire could be self-sufficient.

Holds Key Is Prices.

The key question, he said, is that of prices, which have fallen more than one-third in the last three years, and some way must be found of restoring them. The fall of prices and international borrowing have led to difficulty in meeting obligations, to unemployment, to trade losses, and to budget deficits, and if not corrected, he asserted, wages, salaries, and all payments in money must come down, involving the danger of wrecking the entire social system.

The United States has tried reflation and the result is not satisfactory, he said, although the factors of success are present, and he would be sorry to see America abandon it. Britain, on the contrary, has cheap money and plenty of it, but advantage is not taken of it because of a lack of confidence, he declared.

Other problems, he continued, partly economic and partly political, must also be tackled by the world economic conference, which, it seemed to Chamberlain, is inextricably interwoven with the debts meeting.

Balks at Return to Gold.

"It is important that there be a stable international money standard, but we cannot return to gold until we know that the gold standard will work better than it did before," he said. "A system by which prices are depressed and debts increased does not make for stability."

Artificial barriers, the chancellor declared, must be removed before world prosperity can return. Among these he listed tariffs, which he, as a protectionist, said had been abused.

He hoped that among the subjects discussed at the coming war debt negotiations at Washington would be conditions for a return to gold, settlement of intergovernmental obligations, modification or removal of trade barriers, and correction of the maldistribution of gold in the world, as well as political questions in which should be included, it seemed to him, armaments and European boundaries.

Refuses Concessions to U. S.

Replying to a question as to what Britain is prepared to offer for debt revision, Chamberlain declared that Britain did not take that view at all. It refused to look on the debts as ordinary commercial transactions between debtor and creditor, in which the debtor might ask relief and offer something in return, he said.

"Our view is that a settlement is as much in the interest of the creditor as of the debtor," he said. "We don't want a swapping bargain, but want to find an agreement to our mutual advantage for solving the problem in

FATHER INVOKES ANCIENT LAW TO SEIZE INFANT SON

Old English common law, on which American jurisprudence is based, provides that wife and children are "goods and chattels of the husband."

Under this ancient rule Leroy Wiskur, 22 years old, yesterday obtained from Justice of the Peace Lester Galvin of Aurora a writ of replevin for his son, Leroy Jr., who was described in the writ as "One baby boy, 19 months old; said goods and chattels are of the value of a least $500."

The writ was directed at Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spack, maternal grandparents of the infant, whose mother is dead. The Spacks, who live on a farm south of Aurora, were reluctant to surrender little Leroy. The grandmother wept and the grandfather stormed. But they did not question the force or authority of the document and the baby was given to his father. Wiskur had posted a bond of $1,000 to guarantee the return of the "goods and chattels" in the event it should be determined in court he is not the rightful owner.

WIFE TRAPS HER ERRANT HUSBAND WITH TWO GIRLS

Ralph Fryer of 5476 Ingleside avenue, owner of a small sheet metal plant, is 57 years old, and for almost half of his life—27 years—he has been married.

Last night Fryer started out in his coupé. His wife, Florence, suspicious, followed in a taxicab. At 55th street and Lake Park avenue Fryer stopped his car. Two girls standing on the corner stepped into the car.

Just at that moment Mrs. Fryer alighted from her taxicab and, running to her husband's car, also stepped in. For a moment everything was confusion. The two girls fled, screaming. Then, indignant, Fryer allegedly devoted some fistic attention to his wife. This all ended when Policemen Joe McCabe and Orville Christensen interfered. Fryer was arrested. He will be arraigned in Wabash avenue court this morning.

FRENCH WOMEN DEMAND BOYCOTT OF FOREIGN GOODS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A massmeeting was held tonight by French women's clubs and housewives and shoppers' leagues in the Salle Wagram to demonstrate in favor of French products and against foreign goods.

The organizations represented included the Women's Social Action, French Housewives' league, French Feminine union, Taxpayers' confederation and Union of French Workers.

Andre Failliet, the principal speaker, proposed reduction of taxation and reduction in the quantity of foreign imports, as well as education of French buyers to demand French goods as means of economic recovery.

Depositors in Noel Bank Get Lesson in Fees

A number of depositors who lost their savings with the closing of the Noel State bank in June, 1931, yesterday afternoon trooped into the offices of the law firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage, at 1 North La Salle street, where Master in Chancery George E. Gorman was scheduled to conduct another hearing into charges that $105,000 attorneys' fees requested by the law firm of Judah, Reichmann, Trumbull & Cox are grossly excessive.

The law firm based its claim for $105,000 on a showing that 6,519 hours of legal work had been rendered in connection with the receivership over a period of 16 months. It had already collected $65,000 when Attorney Thaddeus R. Diadul, representing the depositors, who lost $4,000,000 and have received only a 10 per cent dividend, filed objections before Judge Joseph Burke which were referred to Master Gorman.

Master Gorman Reads.

The hearing was scheduled to start at 4 p. m. and the depositors, who have already attended five such hearings, sat apathetically in seats along the wall. Minutes passed. Master Gorman read a law book peacefully. A stenographer whittled pencils. The attorneys smoked cigarets.

At 4:12 p. m. Attorney Diadul announced that witnesses he had subpoenaed had failed to appear and he asked a continuance. Master Gorman, who is paid by the hour in addition to receiving 15 cents for each hundred words taken in testimony, said, "O, let's wait a while."

The depositors stared into space. The stenographer announced that he got paid for his time whether he worked or not. At 4:35 p. m. a witness appeared and the hearing was started.

Attorney Charles E. Carpenter, questioned by Mr. Diadul, was asked to give his opinion regarding the reasonableness of the $105,000 fee.

Fees for "Skilled Lawyer."

"I think a skilled trial lawyer should receive from $125 to $150 a day for each court day," he said. "A law clerk ought to get $15 to $20 a day and an attorney with not much experience shouldn't get over $35 per day. For office work alone a good lawyer should charge about $100 a day."

Upon this basis, which, he pointed out, was an exceedingly liberal one Attorney Diadul argued that the $105,000 fee was far too large. Attorney Carpenter was given a lengthy cross-examination by Attorney Randolph Thornton, representing the bank receiver's law firm.

"What do you call a day," he was asked.

"Eight hours," returned the witness. "I think a lawyer should work eight hours a day, although there are lawyers who disagree with me."

"Isn't six hours considered a day?" asked Attorney Thornton. "Do you think $100 a day for office work or $12.50 an hour is a fair charge for a lawyer?"

"Giving Profession Bad Name."

"My honest opinion is that attorneys should be more careful of their fees in these bank cases than in other cases," returned Attorney Carpenter. "The money belongs to depositors and I think attorneys are running away with themselves in these bank cases. In these times when conditions are so bad, these law firms charging $100,000 and more are giving the legal profession a bad name."

Many thousands of words went into the stenographer's notebook at 30 cents a hundred words, 15 cents for the master and 15 cents for the stenographer. At length the hearing was adjourned until next Monday when there will be another session. The depositors trooped out sighing.

Boy Unintentionally Joins His Mother in Gas Suicide

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The bodies of Mrs. Zelda Johnson and her two small sons were found in their gas filled apartment by her husband, Howard C. Johnson, when he returned from work today. Dr. Ferdinand C. Link, coroner, termed the death of the two boys as accidental. Howard C. Johnson Jr., 6 years old, had returned from school and finding the doors locked asked a playmate to help him through a pantry window. His body was on a bed beside his mother.

FIND 20 MILLION WASTED ON IDLE SCHOOLROOMS

829 of Them Unused, Survey Reveals.

The number of vacant rooms in Chicago's elementary schools is 829—four times as many as school officials have reported—according to a statement made public last night by the citizens' committee on public expenditures. The unused classrooms are computed to represent idle capital of $20,725,000.

The committee's report indicates that boards of education since 1924 have overbuilt the system and have erected schools with little regard for proper location or cost.

The report shows that although the number of pupils in kindergarten and the first eight grades has remained practically stationary since 1924, new building projects have added 68,220 seats in the elementary schools.

$87,672,252 in Seven Years.

The total cost of new school buildings and additions from 1925 to 1931, both inclusive, was $87,672,252, or equal to approximately 37 per cent of the $238,000,000 paid out in teachers' salaries for the same period.

The statistics gathered by representatives of the citizens' committee in a recent exhaustive survey of all the schools disclosed that there were 260 elementary schools and branches which have more classrooms than regular classes. The excess of suitable rooms over regular classes amounts to 1,629 rooms, not including 96 rooms in closed schools, according to the report.

"Last semester there were 800 of these 1,629 excess rooms being used by kindergarten and special divisions and by senior high school branches," the report says. This left a net excess of suitable classrooms in this group of schools of 829 over the number of rooms required as home rooms by regular, kindergarten, special divisions, and the branches."

Room for 37,000, if——

"At 45 pupils to a room these 829 suitable rooms represent seating capacity for 37,000 pupils if there were pupils available to use them."

The average cost of constructing and equipping a classroom is estimated at $25,000, exclusive of the cost of the school's site. Thus the idle investment in 829 vacant classrooms would be $20,725,000.

School officials made a survey of the schools at the same time as the citizens' committee and completed their tabulation of vacant rooms before Christmas. Supt. William J. Bogan has since declined to make public the figures.

When Mr. Bogan learned yesterday, however, that the citizens' committee was about to announce its findings he issued a statement charging that the committee had counted "307 one room, movable, stove heated, tin portables as suitable classrooms."

Committee Denies Charge.

The charge was denied by the citizens' committee. "When we talk about suitable classrooms," asserted one member, "we mean suitable classrooms and not tin shanties."

The citizens' committee report, which was made public by the director, John O. Rees, calls attention to the fact that school officials have made changes this semester which will utilize 110 of the excess rooms by further extension of the branch school system. In conclusion the report says:

"The uncompleted school buildings, now under construction, will account for approximately $4 per $100 of each of the 1931 tax bills which will shortly be sent out to the Chicago taxpayers. In the opinion of the committee on public expenditures a much more complete utilization of the unused seating capacity should be brought about before any considerable amount of taxes is levied to provide additional seating capacity."

Issue Up in Council.

The question of utilizing excess classrooms was injected into the city council meeting earlier in the day when Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] introduced a resolution asking that Hirsch Junior High school at 7740 Ingleside avenue be converted into a senior high school. The resolution was passed unanimously by the council.

A group of parents of eighth grade pupils in the south shore district, headed by Mrs. Ray Gibson, has protested against the changes made by Supt. Bogan for the utilization of vacant rooms. As a result of the superintendent's program, seventh and eighth grade pupils are allowed to attend

Pegler Finds Each Senator Has His Forte

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Something seems to have happened to the official senatorial beer evening or keg party which was proposed some time ago by Senator Clarence C. [Daffodil] Dill of the state of Washington, to test the offensive power of 3.20 beer and the beer resistance of a mixed jury of statesmen and citizens.

The proposal was received with enthusiasm by a number of Washington citizens and many names were quickly volunteered for jury duty, but up to this time there has been no keg party in the senate. In the meantime, too, the strength of the beer proposed in the beer bill has been reduced from 3.20 to 3.05, which is a good deal like putting a muzzle on a stuffed lion, and the net result has been some publicity for Senator Clarence C. [Daffodil] Dill.

Don't Mind "Losing Jewels."

You might think that a senator, being a member of the world's greatest deliberative body, would be above caring for theatrical publicity, but some of the brothers are chorus ladies at heart and are always losing their jewels in one way or another next to pure reading matter. It is very enlightening to hear Washington journalists plotting certain types of stories and deciding which senators to go to for coöperation in putting them over.

If something pops having to do with foreign affairs, they may get their heads together and decide to go down and poke up old Borah on the matter. The next morning the citizens around and about may read where Senator Borah has reared back and let fly an awful roar, without knowing that the initiative lay with a couple of bright, mischievous newspaper reporters who went down and said, "Roar, senator; roar for the boys."

Their Acts Vary.

Of course, each of the reliables has a characteristic act and is mentally pigeonholed according to the specialty on which he may be poked up. Senator Dill's proposal to give a senatorial keg party may give you a fair sort of idea of the sort of senator that Senator Dill is.

It is barely possible, of course, that the senator had some idea of going through with the keg party because there is no telling what some of them will do, just out of boredom. After listening just so long to an involved discussion of the tariff or thirty minutes of intensive effort to understand a financial statement, a statesman may get stuffy and restless like a second grade child trying to keep up in the fourth grade in school.

In despair of ever understanding what it is all about, the brother then breaks into the order of business to start a legislative children's hour and this is why you sometimes read about statesmen playing with blocks or pouring things out of bottles or drawing whirligigs on blackboards. It would be unfair to blame them for being what they are when the citizens are to blame for sending them to Washington.

Have Bush League Training.

Back home they do very well as aldermen or county commissioners and the local reporters learn to poke them up on all sorts of matters, particularly the goofy subjects which lend themselves to the type of copy known as the feature story. Every local reporter knows one or more reliables on the city council or the county board who can be poked up on the subject of the old fashioned night shirt versus the pajama, cigaret smoking by women, or the legal length of a kiss in the moving pictures.

FASCIST CHIEF SEEKS MAJORITY IN REICHSTAG

Hindenburg Backs New Chancellor.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—President von Hindenburg today dissolved the German reichstag and ordered new elections on March 5. Chancellor Adolf Hitler's National Socialists [Fascists] and his new allies, the Nationalists, will sally forth on their campaign to strengthen the power of the Nazi party with a joint slogan, "With Von Hindenburg and Hitler for a new Germany." The Hitlerites are confident of obtaining an absolute majority in the new reichstag.

This majority would make it possible for Hitler, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, and Alfred Hugenberg, the Nationalist leader, to govern according to their own wishes and yet be within the provisions of the constitution, which Von Hindenburg insists must be respected.

Text of Decree.

"Since it has proved impossible to form a government with a workable majority in the reichstag, I dissolve parliament under the provisions of paragraph 25 of the constitution to give the German people a chance to take a stand toward the newly formed government in a new reichstag."

Chancellor Hitler addressed the nation over the radio tonight. He announced that his government has two four year plans which he wants to enforce simultaneously. While the chancellor did not reveal the details of the plans, he said the first one is to "save the farmer" and the second is to provide work "for the army of idle created in 14 years of Marxist mismanagement in Germany."

Speaks with Austrian Accent.

In the excitement of addressing the nation for the first time as chancellor, Hitler spoke with a strong undeniably Austrian accent, the softness of which he has lost somewhat in recent years of contact with north Germans. Speaking with his usual fire, the Nazi leader declared:

"Since the days fourteen years ago when we forgot the precious heritage of the past and betrayed past blessings, the Almighty has withdrawn from Germany. The historically established balance of power which formerly helped nations in their economic intercourse was destroyed. The insanity of thinking in the terms of victor and vanquished destroyed the mutual trust between nations in their business with each other.

Assails "Insane Communism."

"The misery of our people is harrowing. Final decay is becoming evident. In an unheard of storm of violence, the insane methods of communism are attempting to poison and destroy a weakened nation. Nothing is being respected by this new insanity, which is undermining the family, all ideas of honor and loyalty to nation and fatherland, culture, business, and the foundation of our morality and faith.

"Fourteen years of Marxism have ruined Germany. A year of bolshevism would annihilate it. The suffering of the last decade and a half would be as nothing compared to the misery of a Europe in the heart of which the red flag of destruction is raised."

Pays Tribute to Hindenburg.

The Nazi leader then paid tribute to the aged President von Hindenburg. He said:

"As in the days of the world war, our venerable leader has generously summoned men of national parties to fight jointly as at the front to save the reich.

"The new government will protect the foundations which made the strength of our nation. Christianity will be the basis of morals and the family will be the core of the nation. We shall fight for old spiritual ideals. Germany will not and cannot drown in anarchistic communism."

Hitler promised that in four years the rescue of the farmers and the idle will be completed. He did not say how, but he promised the strictest economy all along the governmental line.

Compulsory Labor Service.

"Compulsory labor service and settlement of the idle on the land are among the pillars of the new program," he said.

"In foreign policy the national government sees as its highest mission protection of the vital rights of our people in their full equality among other nations and in the conquest of freedom.

"Great as is our love of the old army, we would be happy if the world by restricting its own armaments would deprive us of the necessity of increasing our present armament.

"If Germany is to be resurrected and fulfill her obligations to other nations conscientiously, communism must be vanquished. We men of the new government feel responsible to history for the restoration of an orderly commonwealth. May God Almighty give us grace, bless our work, and bless us with the faith of our countrymen."

Prussian Diet to Dissolve.

The Prussian diet will meet on Feb. 4 to decide on dissolution and the holding of new elections simultaneously with the reichstag election, according to a motion to be brought in by a Hitlerite member of the diet.

The decision of Hitler and Von Hindenburg to dissolve the reichstag and call new elections, which will be the sixth in Germany in eleven months, came after the Centrist party refused to coöperate with the new chancellor without written specific guarantees that he would respect not only the constitution, but also the laws now being enforced by the republic. Hitler needed the votes of the Centrists for a majority in the reichstag.

Von Papen and Hugenberg wanted Hitler to ask President von Hindenburg for a proclamation of a state of emergency and so disregard the wishes of parliament.

Hitler Refuses Plan.

Hitler, however, believes that this is the time when he can obtain a real majority in parliament by riding on the crest of his wave of success. He therefore refused to ask "unconstitutional rights" and asked the president only to dissolve the reichstag to enable the German people "to express their wishes clearly in a new vote."

At present the Hitlerites and Nationalists control 43 per cent of Germany's vote. If they succeed in carrying on a joint campaign and make the voters forget the fundamental differences in their programs they hope to gather 51 per cent of the votes, or enough to control the national parliament and rule the country according to their own wishes. This would be entirely constitutional and silence Von Hindenburg's fears about violation of the constitution.

Ever since the day when, shortly after the war, he was haled before a court in the reichstag to establish whether or not he was responsible for prolonging the world war Von Hindenburg has been in terror of being subjected to new court procedures.

Fears He'll Be Trapped.

Time and again he has told his friends that "if I do not watch closely all provisions of the constitution, I will be trapped somehow, and I do not want the old name of Von Hindenburg, honored since the 13th century, to be dragged into court for violation of promises made by one Von Hindenburg who failed to watch out for pitfalls."

The bloody wave of violence sweeping over Germany since Hitler's appointment as chancellor has resulted in eight deaths and scores of wounded as Nazis and Nationalists celebrated and communists protested Hitler's ascension to power.

At Homberg a battle between Nazis and communists today resulted in the slaying of three Nazi storm troopers and one state constable. Clashes also occurred in Berlin and Hamburg was in an uproar all day long.

280 Lb. Convict Escapes; Caught When His Feet Tire

John Behr, cook on the honor farm at the Joliet penitentiary, is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 280 pounds. Tuesday night he escaped from the farm by simply walking off into the darkness. Guards took up a pursuit, and yesterday morning found Behr huddled in a shelter near Marley, seven miles from the prison. He was cold and disconsolate. His feet ached from the unaccustomed tramp, and he was quite happy to go back to his kitchen. Behr was sentenced from Bureau county for murder.

WORLD GOODWILL URGED AT SCHURZ MEMORIAL RALLY

International good will was the language spoken last night at the inaugural dinner of the Chicago branch of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation in the Palmer house.

Before an audience of 300, many of them of German descent, Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, former German minister of foreign affairs, made note of the contributions exchanged by Germany and the United States in the last three centuries and called upon his audience for a closer cultural relationship in the future.

"Science already has gone far to bring us together," explained Dr. von Kuehlmann. "It is nothing unusual for a speaker in Berlin to receive responsive postcards from Kansas City. But in a cultural way there are walls that let us see each other but hold us apart. Here lies the need for an organization such as the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation."

Looks to Rising Generation.

It is in the younger generation in this country and Germany that Dr. von Kuehlmann sees the possibility for a closer cultural exchange.

"Germany, bounded by Russia with its bolshevism, France with its conservatism, and Italy with its fascism, is trying to evolve a new structure of social economic life," he went on to explain. "The younger generation has freed itself from the old idea that piling up property is happiness. This is the greatest change, the biggest hope. The older generation was brought up to love possession of all sorts. But now there is a disappearance of wealth and class and prejudice. In this spirit the problems of state are going to be treated."

Recalls Civil War Loans.

Dr. von Kuehlmann pointed out the loans of money by Frankfort banks for the support of the northern cause during the civil war as one of the most important contributions ever made to the United States by Germany.

The motion picture is to him one of America's most significant contributions to his fatherland. "It educates the masses," he explained.

Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, who presided at last night's dinner, is one of the founders of the Chicago branch of the Carl Schurz Foundation, which was organized two years ago in the east in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the American patriot whose name it bears. During the past two years the foundation has gone far to maintain an exchange of teachers, scholars, lecturers, artists and men of affairs between the two nations. Dr. Albert Einstein, now in California, was the first exchange professor brought to this country by the foundation.

Jane Addams Introduced.

Ferdinand Thun, of the Philadelphia branch of the foundation, was another speaker. Others introduced by Mrs. Baum were Jane Addams and Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.

Among the dinner guests last evening were other founders of the Chicago branch—Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, Ernest J. Kruetgen, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Eitel, Oscar Heinemann and Richard Wassermann. Hugo Simon, the German consul general, with Mrs. Simon, were host and hostess to a party that included Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager and Judge and Mrs. Martin M. Gridley.

AILEEN PRINGLE, LIKE OTHER FILM STARS, VISITED BY ROBBERS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Aileen Pringle tonight added her name to a growing list of Hollywood motion picture notables who have been robbed recently in their homes by armed men. The screen star told police her beach house was raided by four masked bandits last night.

She said they bound her, her two servants and Howard Dietz, film advertising man, and took $1,000 from Dietz. She said she lost nothing as she had no money on her person and the men made no demand for jewelry, as robbers did last month in the case of Betty Compson.

She said Matt Moore, motion picture actor, had left her home only a few minutes before the robbery.

"After they had tied up and robbed Mr. Dietz, they turned the radio on louder and sat around and enjoyed themselves," she said.

$1,090,000 SUIT IS FILED AGAINST CONTRACTING CO.

Suit for $1,090,000 was filed yesterday in the Federal District court against the John Griffiths and Son company, general contractors, with offices at 228 North La Salle street, by the estate of John C. Ruettinger, former superintendent and general manager of the company, and his son, John W. Ruettinger. The elder Ruettinger died in May, 1930.

The bill of complaint, filed by Attorney John G. Campbell, charges that the Ruettingers executed a contract with the Griffiths company under which the father was to receive a salary of $10,000 a year and the son $3,000 a year. The elder Ruettinger was also to get 18 per cent of the net profits of the company and the son 10 per cent, it is charged.

The bill of complaint, which asks an accounting of profits and independent audit of the defendant's books, charges that the company owes the total asked in the suit.

Germany Asks U. S. Bankers for $500,000,000 to Aid Idle

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader and now "economic dictator" in the new cabinet headed by Chancellor Adolf Hitler, will call upon American members of the bankers' conference on German debts tomorrow in an effort to perfect a $500,000,000 loan to Germany, negotiations for which were started secretly several weeks ago through a London bank, the Henry Schroeder company.

Hugenberg will try to lure the American financiers by offering to use part of this long term loan to pay off some of Germany's short term indebtedness to the United States and by offering to put up important parts of the income of Germany's national railroads as security for the loan.

Seek Money to Provide Jobs.

The loan would be used "to finance labor projects, to provide constructive work for patriots of the Hitler storm troops and Steel Helmet veterans, settle them in the country as homesteaders and small farmers, and restart the national process of labor and production."

Informal negotiations on the possibility of taking up the loan through American banks were started in Cologne recently when Hitler's friend, Herr von Schroeder, a German banker, warned the Nazi leader that he must get into the government and "do constructive work" if he wanted to keep the confidence of his financial backers. Von Schroeder helped Hitler to reëstablish contact with Franz von Papen, who is now vice chancellor and who is President von Hindenburg's man of confidence.

Luther Opposes Plan.

Financial circles in Berlin assert that Hitler and Von Papen have both agreed it would be possible to mortgage a part of the proceeds of the German railroads and other assets if the government could obtain sufficient credit to finance work on a wide scale for the idle and the settling of the idle in the less populated areas of Germany.

Count Lutz von Schwerin-Krosigk, finance minister, and Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, oppose the plan to mortgage the railroads. They hope Hugenberg in his negotiations with the American bankers will succeed in outlining a new loan agreement with more favorable terms, "since Germany in the last two years has shown itself a sound debtor, fulfilling its obligations to the limit of its ability."

Threaten a Moratorium.

Hugenberg's friends and Nationalist news organs are warning the bankers, now assembled in Berlin, that "unless they grant Germany favorable terms and a new agreement on loans and rates of interest thereon, Germany will resort to other measures, such as autonomous decisions." This, according to a statement in the industrialist Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, is tantamount to a threat of a moratorium on foreign debts.

Von Schroeder has told Hugenberg that Germany must not expect that it will be possible to get this credit until President Elect Roosevelt has been inaugurated, since this is to be a loan advanced by banks under the indirect influence of Roosevelt's friends and will not be floated publicly.

harmony and partnership rather than by the give and take of debtor and creditor."

Replying to another question as to how far Britain's hands are tied by the Ottawa trade agreements, Chamberlain said they are tied absolutely, as far as those agreements went, but that that did not prevent Britain from trying to arrive at nonconflicting agreements with other powers as it is already trying to do.

Denies Tieup with France.

He also said that Britain's hands are not tied by any understanding with France except that it wanted the Lausanne provisional agreement on reparations to be a success and would try to avoid doing anything which might cause France to withdraw from that agreement.

As to disarmament, he said this could not be made part of a debt agreement but that it would undoubtedly be influenced by the restoration of confidence following a general economic settlement.

DEBT SPEECH RESENTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Administration enthusiasm for the widely heralded British-American war debt and economic conferences now scheduled for March was further dampened today by the London speech of Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer.

Immediately following publication of the Chamberlain remarks, in which the Britisher asserted that England did not expect to engage in a "great swapping deal" with the United States at the approaching debt conference, Secretary Mills went to the White House to confer with President Hoover.

Later, officials close to the President and Secretary of State Stimson stated the administration felt that the wide publicity given the Britisher's remarks was jeopardizing the conference. Chairman William E. Borah [Rad., Ida.] of the senate foreign relations committee asserted that if Chamberlain represented the British attitude then the conference had better be called off.

Called Cancellation Propaganda.

In other Republican and administration quarters, the Chamberlain speech was referred to as a part of a general European propaganda drive to force cancellation of the debt.

"If Mr. Chamberlain means that his government is unwilling to consider any question at the economic conference other than the debts," said Mr. Borah, "then we should save both time and expense and call off the conference.

"It will be difficult, indeed, I think impossible, to secure even a postponement of these debts, much more difficult to secure reduction, unless other economic problems are considered and adjusted at the same time. So if Great Britain has already reached a conclusion on these matters we have no alternative but to stand by the debt settlement heretofore made.

"Mr. Chamberlain speaks of its being 'as much in the interest of the creditor nation as the debtor nation' to adjust the debts. I am of the opinion that it is as much in the interest of one nation as another to adjust all these economic problems which stand in the way of the economic world recovery, and to reopen markets, to revive trade and commerce, and to rebuild the purchasing power of the masses."

The Chamberlain statement that his country did not regard the war debts as trading material was discussed at length by President Hoover with Mr. Mills, Assistant Secretary of State Harvey H. Bundy, Edmund A. Day, and John H. Williams. The latter two men are the American experts to the international economic conference.

CUT CITY'S CASH FUND LEVY FROM 4 TO 1 MILLION

Council Reverses Stand to Reduce Tax Bills.

The city council voted yesterday, 33 to 10, to reduce the city's 1931 working cash fun levy from $4,000,000 to $1,000,000. A copy of the ordinance will be sent immediately to County Clerk Sweitzer, whose deputies are now figuring the tax rates on 1931 bills which are to be sent out in a few weeks.

The reduction of the working fund levy by three-fourths will mean a reduction of about $1.25 on each $100 of the bills of Chicago taxpayers. Complete abolition of the 1931 working cash fund levy, designed to build up a fund which in time would make it unnecessary for the city to sell tax warrants to finance its activities, was suggested last spring as an economy measure by the citizens committee on public expenditures.

At that time Mayor Cermak sponsored the council's action in refusing to strike out the levy. The action yesterday, however, was taken on the mayor's recommendation, and after the council finance committee had on Tuesday filed without action a similar proposal. The proposal came to the council in the form of a communication from City Controller Szymczak, who had suggested the same action, unsuccessfully, to the finance committee the day before.

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] spoke at length against the economy proposal. A motion by Ald. Hodes to cut the levy of two million dollars as a compromise was beaten by a single vote.

Vote Bank Referendum.

The council passed a resolution by Ald. John Toman [23d] to place on a referendum ballot at the judicial election on June 5 an amendment to the state banking act permitting the city to deposit its idle funds in banks outside the state of Illinois. A similar amendment was beaten in 1929. At that time, however, there was tied to it as a rider another proposal to extend the powers of the corporation counsel's office, then occupied by Samuel A. Ettelson under the former Republican administration, and part of the opposition to the amendment was because of the rider.

The purpose of the city in seeking authority to deposit its funds in other cities is twofold. If they were allowed to make deposits in New York banks, city officials believe, they would get higher bids than the present one-half of one per cent which Chicago banks now pay on city deposits. Also, they believe, deposits in New York or other cities might induce out of state banks to purchase Chicago tax warrants.

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] aroused considerable comment and some merriment among his colleagues by the presentation of a resolution limiting the expenses of an aldermanic candidate to 10 per cent of the two year salary of an alderman, or $1,000.

"I don't believe any alderman ever spends a dime of his own money in running for office," said Ald. Toman as the resolution was referred to the judiciary committee.

Ald. Toman's resolution, instructing the judiciary committee to examine all bills presented to the legislature which might affect the city, and to make weekly reports upon them to the council, was passed.

Seek Track Elevation Penalty.

Ald. Hodes sought an amendment to the ordinance passed several months ago by the council, requiring the Illinois Central railroad to depress its tracks on the South Chicago suburban branch. The amendment, which would fix a daily penalty for failure to start work after Jan. 1, the date fixed by the ordinance, was referred to the track elevation committee, which will fix the amount of the penalty. The railroad has never accepted the ordinance and an order of the Illinois commerce commission is necessary to enforce the council's order.

Ald. Irving J. Schreiber [5th] introduced a resolution directing the health committee to study pollution of water on the south side by industrial wastes from the Calumet district, and suggesting the advisability of an interstate water commission to deal with the matter. It was referred to the committee.

Two visitors who occupied the rostrum with Mayor Cermak were Scott Lucas of Havana, Ill., a member of the new state tax commission, and Gerson Lybert, an alderman of Warsaw, Poland.

Marian Nixon Sues for Divorce

MARION NIXON SEEKS DIVORCE FROM HILLMAN

Marriage Harmful to Career, She Says.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Marian Nixon, blonde film star, this afternoon filed suit for divorce from her husband, Edward Hillman Jr., member of the Chicago department store family. The couple were married in Chicago Aug. 11, 1929. They separated last Monday, according to her legal papers. A statement given out by her attorney, W. I. Gilbert, follows:

"Because of conditions which interfered with her work as an artist, Marian Nixon requested that I file suit for divorce from her husband, Edward Hillman Jr. No particular event led to this decision. It was arrived at as the culmination of a series of events."

She Issues Statement.

"I am sorry it was necessary to take this action. However, I have looked frankly at the situation and I realize that it is impossible to continue as husband and wife. While I regret exceedingly that this step is necessary, I feel that for our own good and our own future happiness, it is better that it be this way. I still entertain the highest respect and admiration for Mr. Hillman."

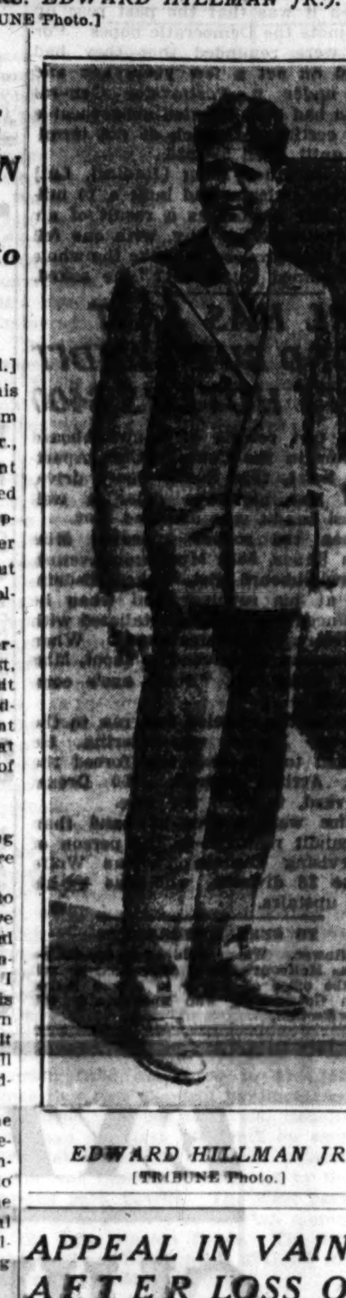

The divorce papers show that she bases her charge on the alleged repeated use of abusive epithets, intoxication which lasted all night to the disadvantage of her work the next day, and various acts of mental cruelty. She also charges that Hillman struck her last Thanksgiving day.

Asks No Alimony.

Miss Nixon, who is a beauty from a Finnish family in Michigan, asks no alimony. The couple have no children, although they were engaged in preliminary steps for the adoption of a four month baby boy last autumn.

Miss Nixon moved from the couple's home in Beverly Hills two days ago and took an apartment of her own. Hillman remained in their lavishly appointed home in Beverly Hills here.

Miss Nixon formerly was the wife of Joe Benjamin, professional boxer, with whom she eloped to Riverside, Cal., in August, 1925, and divorced here in September, 1926, on charges of cruelty.

Increase Jurisdiction of Election Commission

The board of election commissioners yesterday reported that the number of precincts under its jurisdiction has increased over last year. The redistricting process has created 26 new precincts in Chicago, raising the number from 3,029 to 3,055. The number of precincts in the country towns under the board's jurisdiction formerly was 129. This has been increased to 131 by redistricting and by the inclusion of one precinct in Morton Grove which voted at the last election to let the board control its elections. Other country towns in the board's territory are Berwyn, Chicago Heights, Summit, Evergreen Park, and Stickney.

APPEAL IN VAIN AFTER LOSS OF ALIENATION SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Efforts of Mrs. Mattie Dean Hutchinson, former Chicago club woman, to reverse a Superior court judgment in an unsuccessful $300,000 suit for alienation of affections against Edith P. Taylor proved unsuccessful in a ruling handed down by the state District Court of Appeals today.

Mrs. Hutchinson charged that Miss Taylor, otherwise known as Mae Patterson, wilfully enticed Samuel S. Hutchinson, former Chicago film corporation head, away from his gold coast home in the Illinois city. In litigation here Miss Taylor testified that relations between her and Hutchinson began in 1912 and that she did not learn until a child was born to them in July, 1914, that Hutchinson was married. The child, a girl now 19 years of age, is in a private school.

Miss Taylor recited in her defense that a second child was born to her and Hutchinson in 1919. In 1925, she testified, Hutchinson came to California and induced her to leave Chicago and come here. They lived together in Santa Monica as Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Taylor.

ASSEMBLY VOTE SAVES CHICAGO ADDED $100,000

Second Election Economy Bill Passes.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Another $100,000 was saved Chicago taxpayers today when the house of representatives sent to Gov. Horner for his signature the second of the Jarecki-Cermak series of election economy bills. It was the second bill enacted this session.

This measure, which the governor is expected to sign as soon as it reaches his desk, will permit the Chicago commissioners to lower the cost of the approaching aldermanic election by cutting down the number of polling places in any ward in which there is only one candidate for the city council.

Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], who is handling the program in the house, explained that the measure was strictly one for economy, calling attention to the unnecessary expense of opening 50 or 60 precinct polling places in a large ward and manning them with five judges and clerks to elect one candidate. There must be a few polling places open, however, in order that voters may have their privilege of writing in any name they choose.

Before the house began its work this morning, it heard a lecture on legislative economy delivered by its leader, Speaker Arthur Roe. Beginning next week, the speaker announced, the house will meet three full days each week—Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday—so that "we can materially shorten the session," in Roe's words. This is one of Gov. Horner's aims.

There will be committee meetings Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and calling of bills for passage Thursday morning, an unusual procedure. This will necessitate roll calls on the third day and would put the members "on the spot" by disclosing their attendance.

Mr. Roe has also cut running expenses of his chamber $136 per day by reducing the number of employés and lowering the salaries, without exception, of all those retained.

While the house was thus keeping step with the Horner administration's pledge of cutting the costs of government, the senate was engaging in a lively verbal tilt over the 2 per cent sales tax bill during an all day meeting, which gave every member a chance to air his feelings toward this sweeping measure.

Amendments Pour In.

Scores of amendments poured in and it was agreed that none would be voted upon until next Tuesday, when an attempt will be made to send the bill to third reading. But all senators who wished took the floor to advocate their pet changes, so that when they were through the tentatively corrected bill looked like a patchwork quilt.

First fun came with an amendment from Thomas P. Gunning [Rep., Princeton] to exempt all foodstuffs from the tax.

"How about clothes, coal and medicine?" inquired Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], an advocate of the proposed levy.

"They should all come out," replied Gunning. "The necessities of life should be exempted and the 'little fellow' given a chance."

"Are you trying to kill this bill?" asked Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago], who is handling this legislation for the administration.

Objectors Changed Minds.

"This reminds me," Barr interrupted, "of a meeting on this bill that I had with merchants in my district [Will and Du Page counties] recently.

"First the lumberman wanted his products exempted, then the shoe man, next the grocery man and when they had all claimed that their wares should be taken out from under the tax, they laughed at the situation, and I laughed, and we all agreed that we would have to do the best we could."

"Was this a dream you had?" asked N. M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], incredulously.

Charles H. Thompson and Mason had similar amendments which would give the county boards the right to handle the sales tax refunds instead of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who would administer them as idle relief under the bill's present provisions. Thompson claimed that this would cut the costs of administration.

Has 31 Amendments.

Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], an opponent of the sales tax, drew a gasp from his colleagues when he announced that he had 31 amendments to present.

Among other things, these amendments would include as taxable such services as those rendered by physicians and dentists, insurance, radio broadcasting, advertising, and, for good measure, "any person furnishing service for which compensation is furnished."

"And if all these were adopted, would you vote for the bill?" Barr asked Monroe, but the latter hedged.

Barr then took the floor to tell of a trip to Mississippi last week-end, during which he and Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield] investigated the workings of that state's sales tax. Both described its success in glowing terms. Huebsch said that its average cost per capita to all citizens of the state was 9.7 cents annually.

"When I learned this," said Huebsch, "I lost all sympathy with the theory that this tax would be an added burden on the taxpayers."

Before it adjourned for the week the senate passed bills authorizing the Lincoln park commissioners of Chicago to issue almost $3,000,000 in refunding referendum bonds to care for their present financial emergencies. The bonds will mature over 20 years and bear six per cent interest.

LINDBERGH URGED TO VISIT FRANCE AGAIN AS GOOD WILL ENVOY

PARIS, Feb. 1. — "Lindbergh is needed in Paris now as a good will ambassador from the United States more than he was in 1927 because Franco-American friendship is in greater danger at present than it was then."

This statement was made today by Benjamin Conner, prominent American lawyer, as he prepared to leave for New York. He is taking with him an invitation to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to attend ceremonies in Paris that will mark the sixth anniversary of the flyer's arrival at Le Bourget May 21. The invitation is signed by Hugh Robinson, president of the Paris chapter of the National Aeronautic association.

Ambassador Walter E. Edge has written his friend and ex-colleague in the senate, Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, who is president of the National Aeronautic Association of America, stressing the diplomatic importance of Col. Lindbergh's making a return visit.

"The tragic loss of the Lindbergh baby made it necessary to abandon similar plans last year," Mr. Edge said.

FIND MECHANIC SHOT TO DEATH; WOMAN QUIZZED

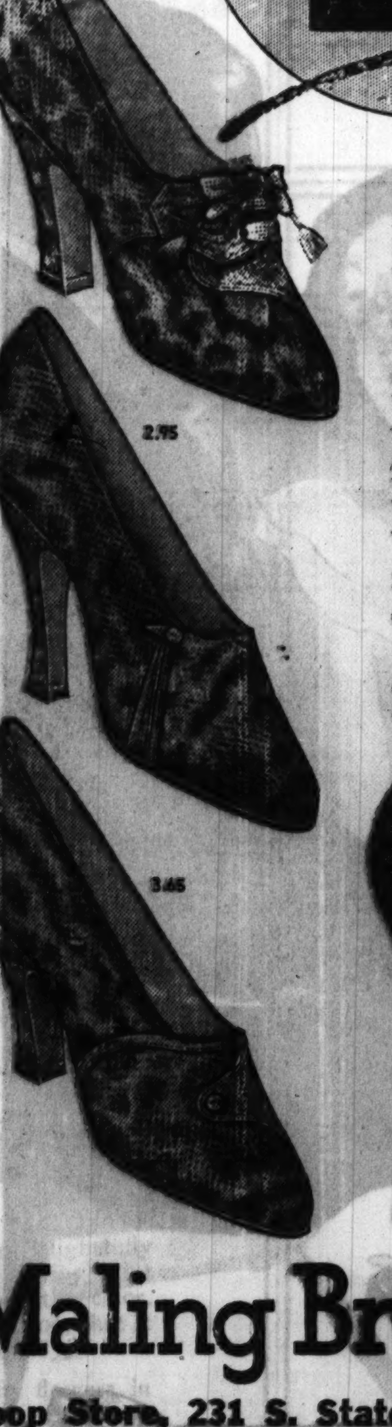

A man about 38 years old, known as P. P. Callahan, was shot to death last night in a room at the Bel-Ray hotel, 3154 North Racine avenue. The police said they learned that "Callahan" really was Edward Kolman of 4233 North Francisco avenue, a garage mechanic.

In the room when the police arrived was Mrs. Nora Koven, 23 years old, formerly of Grand Haven, Mich. She said that she was released only three weeks ago from a hospital for the insane. Her story of the shooting was incoherent and the investigators were unable to determine whether Kolman had killed himself or been shot to death by Mrs. Koven.

JUDGE DEFENDS MINORITY GROUPS OF BONDHOLDERS

Intervention Sought in Foreclosure Case.

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday told Attorney Amos Miller, counsel for the First Union Trust and Savings bank, trustee of the Edgewater Beach apartments at 5555 Sheridan road, that bondholders' committees should welcome rather than oppose the intervening petitions of minority groups of bondholders in foreclosure proceedings.

"From the statements made in the courts every bondholders' committee—no matter how eminent or respectable—should be glad to have the minority bondholders represented in foreclosure proceedings," said the judge.

"It has been my experience that the committee usually is selected without the knowledge, consent or even inquiry of the real bondholders. The selection usually is made by the house which floated the bond issue and by the owner of the property which is in default. Most of the time the men on the committee don't own a dime of the bonds.

"I can't see why the claims of any bondholder, regardless of how small his interest in the original issue should be, are inferior to those of the bondholders' committee, or in other words, those claims of men who have no interest in the property and are not serving on the committee exactly altruistically."

Lawyer Opposes Intervention.

These statements were made after Judge Lindsay heard the arugments of Attorney Miller, who opposed the intervention of Robert L. Straus, a former professor at Cincinnati university, in the foreclosure proceedings against the Edgewater Beach apartments. Through his attorney, David Brill, Straus charged that the trustee should be removed and a receiver appointed. He also alleged that the $50,000 fee which Miller seeks for his law firm, Miller, Gorham, Wales and Adams, of which he is senior member, and a $10,000 fee asked for the trustee of the property are exorbitant.

Attorney Miller asked that Straus be denied the right to file his petition, and urged that he be refused representation in the court proceedings which are yet to be carried on. Attorney Miller informed Judge Lindsay that the assertions made in Straus' petition were unfounded allegations.

Tells of $180,000 Loan.

The Edgewater Beach apartment managers, prior to the foreclosure which followed a default on the $6,000,000 bond issue in October, 1931, were employed by Benjamin H. Marshall, Attorney Brill told the court. The management loaned $180,000 to the Edgewater Golf Hotel of Biloxi, Miss., an affiliated corporation, Brill charged, shortly before the $200,000 default occurred.

He also alleged that the bank as trustee should have taken immediate possession of the apartment building after the default instead of waiting until Dec. 12, 1931. During the interval, Attorney Brill charged, $250,000 was accumulated by the owners in rental collections which should belong to the bondholders.

Judge Asks for Proof.

"What about this $180,000 loan?" asked Judge Lindsay when the lawyer completed his statements. "Have you facts upon which to predicate a petition, or is this only rumor?"

"The books of the Title and Trust company as depository for the bondholders' committee will show the loan," replied Attorney Brill.

"If your story is true it would reflect seriously upon the trustee's judgment in allowing the same building management to remain in control of the property after the default," said Judge Lindsay.

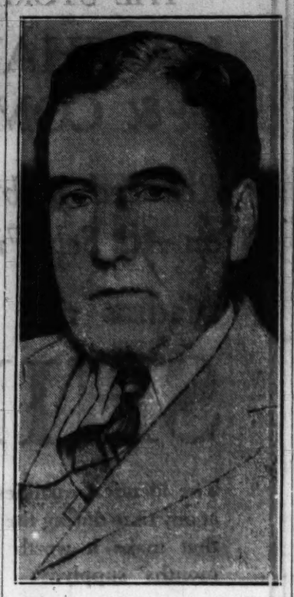

"Well, I think it would have been within the province of the trustee," said Judge Lindsay, "but none of the real charges are incorporated in this intervening petition. I will therefore deny the filing of the petition in accordance with Attorney Miller's pleas.

Rights for Bondholders.

"At the same time I am going to allow Attorney Brill to file his appearance as an attorney of record in the case. I believe that the minority bondholders should be represented, and should be informed of developments. He will represent a class of bondholders, not an individual."

"The representation of the minority bondholders tends to alleviate public feeling that bondholders' committees, racketeers.

MASTER BEHAN IN FLORIDA BUT HIS FEES GO ON

'RemoteControl' Chancery Hearings Disclosed.

Attorneys desiring immediate hearings in chancery matters in the office of Master in Chancery Louis J. Behan are being promptly accommodated, it was learned yesterday, despite the fact that Mr. Behan is in Florida on a vacation.

Attachés at the office explained that the absence of Mr. Behan is not vital, that a lawyer having a rush matter simply presents his evidence, as though the master were present. The evidence is taken down and the transcript will be presented for certification to Mr. Behan on his return, it was explained.

Several lawyers described this system yesterday as a form of "remote control in chancery." Fees are required just as if Master Behan presided in person, they said.

In Florida with Gentzel.

Master Behan has been in Florida two weeks. With him is his sponsor, Judge Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court. The judge is expected in Chicago next week. Behan and Gentzel are former law partners. They were associated from 1915 to 1920 with Homer K. Galpin, west side politician.

The "remote control" in the hearing of chancery cases in Master Behan's office was learned yesterday in a study of a recent report on masters in chancery which appeared in the Illinois Law Review. The report was prepared by Homer F. Carey, John W. Brabner-Smith, and David V Lansden of Northwestern university.

$4,163,190 in Six Months.

The first six months of 1932 brought Mr. Behan 111 cases, involving $4,163,190. Master Wirt E. Humphrey had more cases—173, but they involved only $2,376,063.

Master Behan was listed in the report as having heard 34 cases, each involving mortgage foreclosure amounting to $100,000 or more. These cases alone gave Mr. Behan a total fee of $72,540, or an average of $2,132 a case. In several of these cases the fees were approved by Judge Gentzel. The report said that six other masters heard 59 cases in the $100,000 bracket and received fees of $92,774—an average of $1,572 a case.

The report showed that Mr. Behan had 166 cases referred to him in 1930, 253 in 1921, and 220 in 1932 up to Sept. 1. These 639 cases, at an average fee of $600 a case, which lawyers declare "modest," would amount to $383,400 in fees.

In addition to his master's fees, Mr. Behan, the study showed, has an income as attorney for the receivers of three closed banks. His fees in these cases amounted to $105,000. Divided, the fees are as follows: $15,000 from the Roosevelt State bank; $10,000 from the Immel State bank, and $80,000 from the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank.

Judge Gentzel confirmed Master Behan as attorney for the receiver of the Roosevelt and Northwestern bank. Judge Ross C. Hall confirmed him as attorney for the receiver of the Immel bank. The receiver for the Immel bank is Richard F. Gentzel, a brother of Judge Gentzel.

DEFINE TERMS USED IN RECEIVERSHIP AND FORECLOSURE CASES

Following are brief and nontechnical definitions of legal terms often used in receiverships and mortgage foreclosures:

MORTGAGE—A conveyance of real estate as security for a loan. The borrower retains possession and control of his property as long as he makes his payments and complies with the other terms of the conveyance. Small mortgages usually secure the promissory notes of the borrower.

MORTGAGE BONDS—Certificates of debt issued to be sold to investors in the case of large loans secured by mortgages. The bonds correspond to the promissory notes secured by small mortgages.

TRUST DEED—The usual method of putting a mortgage on real estate in Illinois. The owner who is borrowing money on the property deeds it to a trustee who holds it for the benefit of the lender or holder of the mortgage notes or bonds until the mortgage debt is paid. A trust deed usually confers large powers on a trustee in case of foreclosure.

FORECLOSURE—The legal process by which property is taken from the owner who has mortgaged it for a loan and who has failed to keep up his payments, and then is sold under court direction for the benefit of the lender.

REDEMPTION PERIOD—The time during which the owner, whose property has been sold on foreclosure, has a right to buy back, or redeem, the property by paying all sums due against it, including the costs of foreclosure.

DEFICIENCY DECREE OR DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT—When property is sold at foreclosure it sometimes does not bring enough to pay the claims of the mortgage lender. A court judgment for this difference is sometimes taken against the borrower under which the lender seeks to force collection against the borrower personally.

RECEIVERSHIP—A legal process by which a business or property is turned over to a receiver who operates or manages or sells the property or business under court order for the benefit of creditors.

ATTORNEY FOR RECEIVER—The lawyer or legal firm who gives legal advice to a receiver in the management or sale of receivership assets.

BANKRUPTCY—A federal court action through which the property of a debtor who is unwilling or unable to pay his debts is turned over to a trustee who handles the property for the benefit of the creditors. If the bankruptcy proceedings are started by the debtor, it is called voluntary bankruptcy. If the action is brought by creditors, it is called involuntary bankruptcy. In either case the debtor who is adjudged a bankrupt is, in proper cases, discharged from liability for debts properly listed in the bankruptcy proceedings.

INSOLVENCY—The condition of a debtor when his debts are greater than his assets. A bankrupt is usually insolvent, but not always.

MOKATORIUM—An authorized delay in the payment of debts after their due date. A moratorium is usually put into effect only at a time of great public emergency, such as a sudden outbreak of war or a financial panic. It may be either by a legislative enactment, or by an executive or military order.

JUDGMENT CREDITOR—A creditor who has a court judgment on which he can proceed to enforce the collection of his claim.

PREPAYMENTS—A provision in a trust deed or mortgage for partial payments of principal before the date on which the entire mortgage debt becomes due.

INDENTURE—Any written contract.

SENATE BLOCKS $19,000,000 FOR FLYING OF MAIL

Contract Quiz Likely After March 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Realization that the government is their job, beginning March 4, hit Democrats in congress today. It swept out of the treasury and post-office bill, now pending in the senate, a 19 million dollar appropriation for air mail subsidies.

The elimination of the subsidy item in its turn fired the Democrats with a zeal to explore the whole air mail system. They paid particular attention to charges, made and denied, that Postmaster General Walter F. Brown has played favorites in granting air mail contracts.

Air Lines Must Explain.

The air mail appropriation is not out for good, but a day of warm debate made it plain, and Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader, made it plainer that the air lines get no money until matters are explained. The air mail appropriation probably will have to be made in a deficiency bill at the coming special session.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] led off today declaring "this government's credit is in jeopardy," Bryanesquely adding:

Favors 10 Million Cut.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] moved to cut the 19 million air mail appropriation to 9½ millions. Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] was for that. "We must," he asserted, "think about another kind of national defense."

Senators Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] and Gerald Nye and Lynn J. Frazier, North Dakota radicals, wanted the appropriation wiped out altogether.

Republican radicals, almost to a man, were for the Democratic effort to smooth Mr. Roosevelt's financial path.

"We talk about economy and do nothing!" stormed Senator Robinson. He wanted air mail made self-sustaining.

A Republican amendment lessened the McKellar cut, making the appropriation $16,000,000, and this was adopted, but later stricken out on motion of Senator Robinson.

Find Routes Provided For.

Senator Robinson, in moving to strike the whole thing out, declared "It's useless to talk economy and then make petty cuts."

Then it was that the past rose up and smote the Democratic hopes. For they were reminded that they had passed an act a few years ago and that under it Postmaster General Brown had been granted nonrevocable route certificates which do not terminate until April 5, 1936.

Senator Huey Long [Radical, La.] said New Orleans had built a 10 million dollar airport as a result of air mail contracts. "Why, with one fell swoop they propose to strike the whole dad gummed thing out?" he asked.

GIRL HAS LAST WORD BUT BANDIT GETS HOTEL'S $400

The tart retorts of a switchboard operator in the Country Club Apartment hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, failed last night to deter a well dressed bandit who obtained $400.

When the robber appeared Miss Helen Bauer, 9810 Muskegon avenue, the switchboard girl, looked disdainfully at his revolver and when he announced his purpose retaliated with the retort: "Horsefeathers!" When the gunman threatened to shoot, Miss Bauer whispered, "Some one's coming in."

The bandit wheeled and ran to the doorway. No one was entering. He returned to the desk and forced the clerk, Arthur Carroll, 4300 Drexel boulevard, to open the safe.

Police were nearer at hand than the bandit realized—in the person of Supervising Captain Thomas Wolfe of the 2d division, who was in his room upstairs.

TO SEEK MAYORALTY.

U. S. CONTROLLER WARNS AGAINST FORECLOSURES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Acting Controller of the Currency F. G. Awalt today ordered receivers of closed national banks to avoid farm mortgage foreclosures wherever possible.

Awalt's announcement came as the latest development in a movement which has brought foreclosure moratorium announcements from leading life insurance companies. Administrative officers are doing all they can to hold up foreclosures pending legislative adjustments by congress, it is said.

Laying down what was called a lenient policy for handling mortgages held by closed national banks, the controller's office said that generally speaking a mortgage would not be foreclosed if the owner remained on the farm and continued to develop it.

A similar policy for the handling of home mortgages was laid down by the controller last year when the home loan bank system was formed. National banks, however, are not important holders of farm mortgages having only about 291 million dollars in the entire system last year.

COURTNEY GETS FACTS ON WEST PARK DEFICIT

Probes Audit for Fraud Clews.

State's Attorney Courtney moved yesterday to investigate possible misuse of the tax-gathered funds of the west parks board, which is estimated to have a deficit of $10,000,000.

Definite figures which would disclose accurately the parks' financial status are contained in a report of an audit turned over on Oct. 3 to the Republican controlled board which has retired.

This audit was suppressed and no inkling of the disclosures it made was available until Tuesday night, when the new president of the board, Harry Joseph, appointee of Gov. Horner, allowed representatives of the press a brief glance at it.

Covers Finances Up to July 1.

The report, covering park finances up to July 1, 1932, was signed by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, as head of the accounting concern which made the audit. It was made up for the information of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, headed by Fred W. Sargent.

At the state's attorney's office yesterday it was pointed out that the suppression of the document by all who had access to copies might prove a hampering influence if it is found advisable to institute action against those responsible for the muddling of the finances.

As a specific instance it was recalled that the law provides that any prosecution charging conspiracy must be started within 18 months from the time of the last illegal act alleged in an indictment. The statute of limitations then operates.

James Blames Previous Board.

The recently retired west park board president, W. R. James, yesterday issued a statement in which he said the previous board had built many new boulevards and buildings and consequently left his administration with enlarged bond issues and operating expenses when it took office in 1930.

If it could be shown that any blame for financial wreckage can be assigned to the pre-James administration, Mr. Courtney's aids said, the suppression of the report might make it impossible to proceed against the older board because of the statute of limitations.

Courtney Starts Inquiry.

Mr. Courtney yesterday demanded to be allowed to see the long hidden report. After a brief examination he made a pithy comment.

"From a hurried glance," he said, "it is obvious that the west parks' financial situation is a matter that warrants investigation by the state's attorney—possibly by the grand jury. I have asked for a certified copy and will assign an assistant prosecutor to go into it thoroughly."

The prosecutor indicated that he had taken special notice of two significant disclosures in the report. One was that, although it would have taken $10,000,000 in cash to put the board on its financial feet, spending went on as though all taxes were being collected when due and in full. The second was that the board under James had taken money from pension funds, bond and interest funds and other segregated accounts and used it to pay salaries and other current expenses.

James' statement, seeking to cast some blame for conditions on the previous administration, was met by a return statement from Sol Westerfeld, who served on the board when Dr. John Dill Robertson, now dead, was president. Westerfeld declared his board's report was unimpeachable.

His Reply to Audit.

The statement made by James was as follows:

"In the first place, the audit is not an audit of the retiring administration alone. It goes back to the year 1926, and the board of which I was president did not take charge until January, 1930. Many of the matters discussed in the audit have to do with the period prior to our assumption of office.

"For instance, the anticipation of 1929 taxes to the extent of 113 per cent on the corporate fund levy was made by the previous board on July 18, 1929, and the amount sought to be anticipated was based on the 1927 assessed valuation. The total amount of these anticipated taxes was $3,000,000.

"The board of which I was a member had nothing to do with this excess anticipation, yet it constituted one of its chief liabilities.

"The audit shows that on July 31, 1932, for the years 1928 to 1932 inclusive, there was a total of $10,007,841 in uncollected taxes.

"It is quite evident that the difficulties of the west parks are due primarily to the interruption of the orderly collection of taxes and in this respect they do not differ from any other local government in Cook county.

"The previous administration issued many millions of dollars' worth of bonds and spent the money in constructing new boulevards and buildings. This necessarily increased the cost of operating the parks because of the interest on these bonds and the necessity for policing the boulevards and maintaining additional buildings."

Despite the fact that uncollected taxes amounted to $10,000,000, however, the spending by the park system went on as if the taxes had been collected, according to the audit.

Former Board Member Replies.

Westerfeld, replying to the James statement, said: "I have in front of me the financial statement of the board on Dec. 26, 1929, shortly before we turned the park affairs over to the James board. This showed we had cash on deposit as follows: general fund, $1,054,634; petty fund, $3,667; bond redemption and interest fund, $4,746; special assessment fund, $229,891; highway improvement fund, $7,194, and tax warrants amounting to $400,000 held in the improvement fund."

Politicians said President James dealt out many patronage jobs in an effort to bring about the nomination of Omer Custer, head of the state tax commission, as the Republican candidate for governor to succeed Gov. Emmerson, who favored Custer.

The audit revealed that his pay roll exceeded the park's corporate income by $1,500,000. Other commissioners said it was a one man board, with James wielding all the authority.

Probe Pension Fund Use.

The auditor's report commented on the diversion of money that should have been paid into the pension funds. An investigation on this subject was made yesterday.

Daniel Roberts, attorney for the west park board during the James administration and also the Robertson board's tenure, is president of the two pension boards to which employés of the west parks, the Lincoln park system, and the south park system belong.

One pension board is for the policemen of the three park systems. The other board acts for all employés other than police and includes all three park systems.

Debt to Pension Boards.

As nearly as could be ascertained yesterday, the west park board, for which Roberts was and still is attorney, owes the two pension boards, of which Roberts is president, $825,801. Figures supplied by the secretaries of each board, with Attorney Roberts' permission, were as follows:

Deductions from the salaries of west park employés (other than police) up to July 31, 1932, and not paid to the pension fund amounted to $104,713. Since that date the debt has increased by $45,038. A tax is levied, usually less than one-sixth of a mill on each $100 valuation, for the two pension funds, and this tax is collected by the various park boards. The west park board owes $643,618 of this tax money to the two pension funds. The tax debt to the police fund is $341,355 for 1930 and $109,500 for 1931.

The salary deductions not turned over to the police fund are $10,842 for 1931 and $21,590 for 1932. The Lincoln and south park boards have paid every cent they owe the pension boards.

President Joseph said the Rossetter audit would be presented to the full board of commissioners for action at the meeting this afternoon.

DEPRESSION NIL FOR BROWN RACES REPORTER SAYS

Kinsley Tells Business Men of Tour.

World depression is an unknown word in the countries bordering the Pacific and adjacent waters and in the mystic isles of the South Seas, Philip Kinsley of THE TRIBUNE staff declared yesterday in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle.

Mr. Kinsley, recently returned from a year's trip as special correspondent in the antipodes and orient, took his audience on a panoramic descriptive journey through China, Japan, India, New Zealand, Australia, Java, Borneo, the Philippines, and other lands and remarked that in his twelve months of travel "the depression became an echo of a forgotten dream."

How the Orient Lives.

In an interpretation of human life and how it is lived by the various peoples—mostly brown—on the other side of the world, he painted sweeping word pictures of conditions in lands and cities where nature is opulent, life is simple, wants are few, and oriental philosophy that time and space are phantoms, life is what one makes it, and paradise is where one looks for it, per cates the people. He linked up teachings thousands of years old with Einstein, Compton, and other moderns, as standing on a common ground.

Mr. Kinsley, whose theme was "The World Depression—Where Is It?" was introduced by Harold C. Cheney, toastmaster, as "one of America's outstanding journalists, known for his sanity, freedom from personal bias, keen insight, and clarity of expression."

"Because of Mr. Kinsley and his colleagues," he said, "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is acknowledged by many to be the world's greatest newspaper."

A Reporter's Conclusion.

Summing up his observations on the outlook upon life in the lands on the Pacific, Mr. Kinsley voiced a conclusion:

"This simple dependence of the children who people three-quarters of the earth," he said, "on powers beyond their comprehension, cannot be the answer. And what has all this to do with world depression?

"I have reached a conclusion which may sound strange coming from a fact finding reporter and offered to a group of practical business men. But it is no more strange than electric light or radio waves. It goes back to Him who walked the dusty roads of Judea long ago and who would be at home in the dusty roads of India today.

"Thinking in Headlines."

"Our thinking is headline thinking, event thinking, rather than the substantive, dynamic thinking which Christ taught. It is not the Christ of narrow creeds, not the pale Galilean of Swinburne before whom all the world turned gray, but a Christ who came to our human road to show us the way to power and freedom and dominion.

"He comprehends and makes practical not only the dimly perceived truths of the ancient philosophers, but the farthest flights of our modern thinkers, and also the simple trust of the children of the brown world in powers beyond this life.

Where Depression Is Meaningless.

Sailing from Hawaii, Mr. Kinsley took his audience on a voyage through lands where the word "depression" has lost meaning.

"South of Honolulu," he said, "these dwellers on golden beaches and in green gardens, where existence goes on without effort, have no more comprehension of America-Chicago depression than the fabled people who may live on Mars. There is no way to explain it to them. Does not the earth endure forever?

"New Zealand is on the other side of the hemisphere, but its development has been much like that of our New England states. State socialism, unemployment, riot, unbalanced budgets—yes. But I would give you a picture of New Zealand, a land as distinctive and lovely as the Vermont hills which carved the career of Calvin Coolidge.

"This is a decentralized farming population, a land of prideful homes, even in the coal regions. The earth is green all winter, and planted with a special grass which produces the world's best mutton.

"What will a people like this do in a depression? When they went there they had nothing but their strength and hope, and they still have those substantive things. They are farmers on the land and nothing is going to take that land and home from them. The bankers who loaned them too much money will have to take the consequences, and the politicians who are taxing them too heavily will have to tax less or get out.

"Australia is another bankrupt experiment in state socialism, according to the bookkeepers and economists. A militant Red labor movement, a politically timid business group. The future mortgaged for generations. Yes, but here are the people.

People's Wants Simple.

"Java is close by with 40,000,000 people in an area about the size of New York state. Java is often spoken of as a land of economic slavery and starvation wages, but the wage is relative. It suffices to keep them happy and content as a whole, better fed and housed than many who do the same sort of work in other lands. There are no wars, no pestilence, no floods or drought. A single cotton garment suffices in this country; a little fish and rice cakes, a few nuts and vegetables and fruits.

"The ocean trail leads to Manila, passing New Guinea, Borneo and hundreds of islands of the Celebes and Sulu archipelagoes, old centers of trade when America was founded, still unexplored in part.

"Manila gives no feeling of depression. These are a simple, abstemious people. Neither politics nor sugar can make a vast difference in their lives. They have lived under many rulers and have survived. The laws at Washington are less to them than the laws of God. They have been taught through old and new religions not to strive too hard for things; that they must first look to the kingdom of God and all necessary things will be given to them.

Talk Turns to India.

"India is something so different that words can only hint the meaning of it. It is not to be found in Bombay or Calcutta, old English port cities where life takes much the same texture and strain as in any big city. Sacred cows wander along the shopping street or lie down in the doorway of a bank, where no one disturbs them. Holy men nearly naked, lepers sitting on the sidewalks, snake charmers, ragged untouchables, beautiful Parsee women, yacht clubs with Englishmen drinking tea, cabarets, vast government buildings, towers of silence where the dead are burned.

"All these things, but still a city in the western sense, with banks, hotels, cinemas, park riots, and a campaign to buy Swadeshi, or Indian, instead of British. Here is the struggle for material wealth, undaunted by any talk about depression. In fact it is not talked about at all unless it be how the Indian merchants are boycotting the English at the dictation of a little lean man over in prison, a man who doesn't own anything and doesn't want to, a man who talks about soul force and the hand of God in all things. The most powerful man in India and one of the great figures of the world—Gandhi."

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A sedative brought rest here today to Corliss Palmer, former screen actress under the name of Edith Mason, who was taken to a San Francisco emergency hospital last night and booked as an alcoholic patient.

Sleep came to Miss Palmer after a period of irrationality during which leather handcuffs were used to prevent her from acting violently, and after she had told a story of thwarted love punctuated by frequent calls for "Al."

The actress identified "Al" as Albert Cohen, screen writer, who was sued for divorce in Los Angeles several months ago by Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen. Mrs. Cohen named Miss Palmer as co-respondent.

At the hotel where Miss Palmer had registered a letter signed "Al" and referring to the breaking up of a "marvelous friendship" was found among Miss Palmer's effects.

SEE WAY TO CUT FEDERAL COSTS OVER A BILLION

Unnecessary Items Above $100,000 Listed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Of the four billion dollars a year that the federal government costs the taxpayers, more than one and a half billions is accounted for by pork barrel, extravagant or otherwise wasteful expenditures, by subsidies to states and to favored groups or interests, by the cost of services for which the government could be reimbursed by fees or taxes assessed on the beneficiaries, and by expenditures on paternalistic and regulatory activities which encroach upon the functions of the states.

FIND BODY IN RIVER.

The body of a man about 40 years old, tentatively identified as that of William Cosgrove, was taken from the river near the South Damen avenue bridge yesterday and removed to the county morgue.

COUNTY DROPS 145 EMPLOYES FROM ITS HIGHWAY PAY ROLLS

President Emmett Whealan of the county board announced yesterday that 145 employés of the county highway department have been dropped from the pay rolls. He said that a cessation of road building activities caused the action. The department still employs 175 men.

Among those discharged were laborers, tracers, engineers and draftsmen. Approximately 100 of the discharged employés were of civil service rating. These, Whealan said, would be kept on the eligible lists and rehired with the first available jobs.

Whealan explained that the expected revenue for 1931 for the highway department was drastically cut by reductions in the county budget and by the application of funds from the gasoline tax to the relief rolls.

FIND 20 MILLION WASTED ON IDLE SCHOOL ROOMS

829 of Them Are Unused, Survey Reveals.

Hirsch Junior High, while children going into ninth grade are sent back to elementary schools to be handled by "makeshift" high school branches.

When the parents took their protest before an open school board meeting several weeks ago Mr. Bogan declared that a conversion of Hirsch into a senior high school would injure the junior high school system. This system, if spread over the entire city, would effect a saving of $400,000 a year in operation, he said. He did not mention the cost of building more junior high schools.

High Costs Hit by Sargent.

In a recent statement Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, declared that the question of school financing was "greatly complicated because of a number of uncompleted contracts for expensive junior and senior high schools let in the last half of 1930 and in 1931, when there were no means of financing in sight."

"Through the generous donation of services by Ernest Graham," said Mr. Sargent, "the working drawings of the new schools were examined and were compared with plans for schools of like character and similar capacity in districts just outside Chicago as well as in other cities in the country. This examination revealed that in many cases Chicago schools recently constructed and others now under contract were of extravagant design and excessive in cost.

"Of the schools now in the course of construction the proposed new Lane Technical High school is an extreme and outstanding example. The building is of huge proportions and is one of the largest, if not the largest high schools ever designed. The building, if completed according to present designs, will cost approximately $5,800,000, with an additional $900,000 to equip it as contemplated.

Cost of $1,100 a Seat.

"If and when completed it will have a seating capacity of approximately 5,200, which will represent a cost of about $1,100 per seat, exclusive of the value of the land. We find that this is far in excess of costs of satisfactory schools in other large cities, where the cost ranges from $250 to $400 per seat."

Since 1924 the school boards have increased seating capacity 21,300 seats in nine new junior high schools and 16,300 seats in new senior high schools and additions. This, with the 68,220 increase in elementary school seats makes a total added capacity of 105,820 seats and does not include many special purpose rooms suitable to be used as classrooms "if there were pupils to use them," according to the citizens' committee.

A table showing the amounts expended out of the school building fund from 1916 to 1930 for new and permanent improvements, which includes new buildings, and for repairs and maintenance, follows:

Year.	New and permanent improvements.	Repairs and maintenance.
1917	3,496,941	1,031,964
1918	4,356,776	924,634
1919	3,568,427	1,284,360
1920	4,091,242	1,888,331
1921	4,679,905	2,237,778
1922	6,120,792	3,427,971
1923	5,959,524	2,345,329
1924	9,041,368	2,207,908
1925	12,537,659	2,509,966
1926	21,416,449	2,497,374
1927	14,368,880	3,378,196
1928	18,068,360	3,791,854
1929	11,238,778	4,040,972
1930	16,243,592	6,981,542
Totals	$139,541,248	$39,453,435

The addition of these two totals gives $178,994,683, or the total expended from the school building fund from 1916 to 1930.

In its $15,000,000 slash in tax levies last summer the school board trimmed $13,000,000 out of the 1932 building fund levy. For 1933 the board has passed a building fund levy of $2,441,568 to finance the completion of several of the ten schools upon which work has been at a standstill.

It is said that the citizen's committee has taken under advisement the argument that it would be cheaper to complete the buildings which are in the last stages of construction than to allow them to deteriorate. Another factor is the school board's recent decision to pay a 6 per cent carrying charge to contractors for material purchased.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE DENIES IT HAS PLAN FOR 'CHICAGO R. F. C.'

It was denied yesterday on behalf of the citizens' committee on public expenditures that the committee has discussed the organization of a Cook County Finance corporation, which would act as a sort of local "reconstruction finance corporation" to absorb the floating debts which various local governments have accumulated due to non-collection of taxes.

Such an organization was suggested some weeks ago in a resolution submitted to the city council by Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. He proposed that such a finance corporation be given legislative authority to sell its bonds and make loans to local governments, the bonds to be retired by tax levies. The citizens' committee received copies of Ald. Massen's proposal at the time, but has done nothing about it, it was learned yesterday.

Frank M. Gordon, vice president of the First National bank and president of the Investment Bankers' association, was asked yesterday about the proposal.

"A plan of this kind has been talked about by various people for two or three years," replied Mr. Gordon. "Thus far, no one has been able to explain just who would purchase its bonds."

HUMANE SOCIETY WORK SHOWS A LARGE INCREASE

The sixty-fifth annual report of the Illinois Humane society, 1145 South Wabash avenue, will be read this afternoon at the meeting of officers and directors. The report will cover 1932.

No change in the official personnel is expected. Richard R. Schmidt is president; James Curtiss, first vice president; Walter O. Wilson, second vice president, and George A. H. Scott, secretary. It will be shown that despite a great increase in volume of business—in some activities as high as 100 per cent—the society operated at an actual deficit of only $1,700 during 1932. The book deficit will be $2,600.

Thousands of cases involving human beings and animals were investigated. More than 1,700 complaints involved 4,014 children. In the report, Mr. Scott points out that horses are still much in use in Chicago, 23,509 being examined by the society's veterinarians and assistants. Dogs—11,427—led the list of animal pets requiring investigation.

SKULL FRACTURE VICTIM DIES.

Edward Bornhall, 60 years old, 4639 Broadway, a stationary engineer, was found Tuesday night in the rear of 4725 Winthrop avenue, and died yesterday in the County hospital of a fractured skull without recovering consciousness.

Pepsodent Antiseptic makes $1 equal $3 in fighting colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THE children—the whole family—can escape more colds this year. Can get quicker relief from those they catch. And you can save $2 out of every $3 by using Pepsodent Antiseptic. The money you save results from Pepsodent's remarkably high germ-killing power.

Here's the difference!

It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics—by adding water you make it go three times as far—get three times as much for your money and extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath. The old-fashioned mouth antiseptics must be used full strength to be effective. So Pepsodent Antiseptic was made powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet it is completely safe when used full strength.

Don't risk health

It's costly enough to use a mouth antiseptic that should be used full strength. But it's more costly to dilute that antiseptic and not kill the germs. That's why we advise you to choose Pepsodent Antiseptic . . . it kills germs even when it is diluted.

IMPURE BREATH
(Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

HEADS OF BOYCE PUBLISHING CO. INDICTED BY U. S.

George W. Weatherby, president of W. D. Boyce & Co., 508 North Dearborn street, a large publishing house, and two other officials of the corporation were named yesterday in a federal grand jury indictment charging use of the mails in a scheme to defraud. The alleged scheme consisted of misrepresentation in offering prizes for the solution of puzzles in various publications.

Besides Weatherby, who lives at 1648 East 50th street, the indictment names Frank G. Reynolds, vice president and treasurer, 301 West Laurel avenue, Lake Forest, and Arthur A. Meske, secretary and general manager, 6146 North Washtenaw. Judge Charles E. Woodward set bail at $5,000 and issued warrants for the arrest of the defendants.

17 Counts in Indictment.

Seventeen counts are listed in the indictment, all charging a "scheme and artifice for obtaining money and property by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises," in connection with the company's circulation program. The evidence was presented by Assistant United States District Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy. An investigation of the company by Postoffice Inspectors V. E. Albertie and E. N. Davis has continued for 10 years, during which thousands of complaints have been investigated.

During 1930 and 1931, the years covered by the indictment, it is charged that over $2,500,000 worth of subscriptions were sold by means of fraudulent contests. Among the publications of the Boyce company are the Blade and Ledger, Movie Romances, and Extra Money. Several of the company's publications have a subscription price of 50 cents a year.

Advertise a Puzzle.

As outlined in the indictment, the scheme originated with the insertion of a puzzle in newspapers and magazines throughout the United States. Prizes of money, airplanes, automobiles, homes and like inducements were promised for a solution to the puzzle. No mention was made in the puzzle caption to a subscription campaign.

After the interested party sent in the solution to the puzzle, the indictment alleges, he was deluged with literature extolling W. D. Boyce & Co. and its various publications. A prize of several thousand "votes" was given for solution of the puzzle and more votes promise for each subscription obtained. These letters, the indictment charges, falsely represented the contestants' position in the subscription campaign, and held out promises which are misrepresentations. Over fifty such alleged fraudulent letters are cited in the indictment.

Goes Back to 1915.

According to Prosecutor Healy the company has followed this method of securing circulation since 1915. On the basis of the income derived during the years named in the indictment Inspectors Albertie and Davis estimate that over $25,000,000 has been obtained by the company by the same methods.

The publishing house was founded in 1893 by the late W. D. Boyce and is incorporated at $1,000,000. Mr. Boyce was a widely known sportsman and had a reputation as an African explorer. He was instrumental in the organization of the Boy Scouts of America and was interested in numerous social and philanthropic enterprises. Control of the company was gained by the defendants subsequent to Boyce's death in 1929.

Four Others Indicted.

Also named in a similar federal grand jury indictment returned yesterday were four officials of the Helen Dawn company, 427 Randolph street, who describe themselves as dealers in fine toilet preparations. Those named are Sibley F. Everitt, president, 342 Sterling road, Kenilworth; William E. Duff, vice president, Crystal Lake; John E. Woodman, secretary and treasurer, Waukegan, and James M. Woodman, manager, Waukegan. Warrants were issued for their arrest and bonds set in the sum of $5,000.

According to Prosecutor Healy the company advertised prizes of $2,700 or a high priced automobile for solution of a puzzle, "Find the Faces in the Clouds." The indictment charges that in 1931 more than 500,000 persons paid in $1,300,000 for cosmetics which they hoped to sell in order to win the first prize.

The indictment lists seventeen individual counts and names a score of individuals who paid in sums ranging from $2 to $3,000 for cosmetics which they were unable to sell.

Conviction of mail fraud carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000 on each count.

14 Dachshunds Poisoned; Dogs Valued at $6,500

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Fourteen dachshunds, valued at $6,500, two of them world champions, owned by Mrs. J. J. O'Donahue, New York society woman, were found dead of poison today at the Dachshund kennels here. County Police Inspector Walter Baker said scraps of meat found in the kennel yard early today had been sprayed with poison.

LEGION TO STAGE AIR MEET IN FALL; $25,000 IN PRIZES

Will Be Feature of Its National Session.

An air meet surpassing anything yet attempted by an American Legion group in number of spectacular events and total of prize money will be held in Chicago the first week in October under the auspices of the Cook county council of the Legion. This was decided last night at a meeting of the council in the Great Northern hotel.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chairman of the council's aviation committee, announced that the prize money total would exceed $25,000 and that outstanding flyers from many countries would compete in the races. The meet will be a feature of the Legion's national convention which will be in session in Chicago at that time. An effort will be made to have the President, Gov. Horner and Mayor Cermak issue proclamations declaring the first week in October as "Aviation Week" for the purpose of centering national attention on the Legion's air races here, Maj. Schroeder said.

Finals in Boys' Contest.

Finals of a national airplane model building competition in which groups of boys organized by Legion posts throughout the country are now taking part will be an important event on the program of the air meet.

Following the report of Maj. Schroeder, the council was addressed by Howard P. Savage, past national commander, who urged the Legion members to greater efforts in the membership drive now in progress and by State Commander James Ringley, who reported on the recent activities in Washington of a Legion committee which appeared before a senate committee investigating costs of the Veteran's bureau.

Tells of Error on Figures.

Commander Ringley asserted that the Legion committee forced recognition of an error of 1 billion 500 millions in the estimate of future Veteran's bureau costs, that amount being in excess of a reasonable estimate, he said.

After a discussion of relief plans for unemployed veterans the meeting was adjourned. Joseph De Lacour, commander of the council, presided.

HUEY LONG 'FRANKS' PLEA FOR STEAGALL AS TREASURY CHIEF

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana is conducting through the mails and under the senatorial franking privilege a quiet campaign for the naming of Congressman Henry B. Steagall, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, as secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt administration.

The senator's letter, mimeographed on the stationery of the United States senate, urges that pressure be brought on the President elect for the appointment of Congressman Steagall, "opponent of the principal candidate for the nomination, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia," in that he would constitute "a real secretary of the treasury who is for all of the people and business, and who understands all problems."

Congressman Steagall, a Democrat from Alabama, recently has been reported in strenuous opposition to the Glass banking bill which Senator Long in his letter terms "inequitous" and against which he has led the filibuster fight.

TWO KILLED AS IRISH TRAIN HITS TORN UP TRACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 1.—Sabotage resulting in two deaths marked the second day of the northern Island railroad strike over pay cuts. The Great Northern mail express from Dublin to Belfast, operated by a volunteer crew, was derailed while traveling at a high speed at Dromiskin, County Louth, in the Free State.

The wreck was attributed to the removal of a rail. After the express had negotiated a bend it suddenly left the rails and plowed its way for nearly 100 yards along the line. The engine and two coaches tumbled down an embankment into a field and the coaches telescoped. Two Dublin railroad workers were killed; the engineer, the fireman, and two passengers were hurt.

FRANCE HONORS WOMAN SPY WHO DUPED GERMANS

Was "Insider" in Nest at Spanish Town.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Way down in the latest list of those decorated with the French Legion of Honor, obscurely placed, is the curt citation: "Mme. Crompton, for extraordinary services to her country."

It required no little investigation to learn who Mme. Crompton is and what were her extraordinary services to her country.

She was France's most sensationally successful woman spy in the world war. The belated reward is in return for exploits that would be first class material for the most exciting scenario writer. Tales like those about Mata Hari and X-27 are feeble by comparison with the feats of this woman, who is the first to be decorated by France for espionage.

First Husband Killed.

In 1914 Mme. Crompton was Mme. Marthe Richard, 22 and beautiful. Her husband was killed in one of the early battles. Nervous, unhappy, hungry for revenge against the enemy that had robbed her of her mate, she called one day on the chief of the Counter Espionage service and offered her services. He knew of her as one of the first women to win an air pilot's license, and for her daring escapade in circling the Eiffel tower in 1913.

The chief of this dangerous unit looked across his desk into turquoise eyes as calmly resolute and unflinching as the soft, drawling voice which insisted on being accepted. She was given $150 and instructed to go to San Sebastian, Spain, to play the rôle of double agent: pretending to be a German spy while representing France.

In San Sebastian she met and made an easy conquest of Baron von Krohn, who was stationed at the Spanish port to assure the provisioning of U-boats off the coast. She became known as "The Lark," and the amorous Baron set her up in a beauty parlor known as The Lark's Mirror. She gave fictitious information about the French, but, on the other hand, gathered plenty of valuable information about the U-boats, which she sent through to Paris. From those of Von Krohn's friends whom she met she also wheedled other important information. She lived that hazardous life for three years.

The Germans proposed that she go to South America for them on a particularly important mission. She was afraid to decline, because it would have aroused fatal suspicions. They gave her a quantity of insects with which she was to infect South American wheat destined for France. She sailed with the deadly package, but destroyed the insects one night in the boiler room of the liner.

Escapes Being Shot.

In the winter of 1917 she planned a vital coup which required a strong drug and this she requested of French secret agents. The drug proved pitifully ineffectual and came near to costing The Lark her life. It led to disagreement and dissatisfaction and she determined to return to Paris.

She was obliged to have German agents, who thought her one of them under cover, show her their secret pass through the Pyrenees. She arrived in France nearly frozen and more dead than alive, only to be arrested at Bouru, near Perpignan, as a German agent. She escaped a firing squad with the greatest difficulty.

In the course of this trouble she met and fell in love with an Englishman named Crampton serving with the American Red Cross. She married him and lived happily with him until his death, three years ago.

During her spying activities in Spain Mme. Crompton collected nearly $400,000 from the Germans for services they supposed she rendered. All this money she forwarded to the French government. When she was discharged from the Counter Espionage service she received thanks and a bonus of $500. The Legion of Honor decoration comes 15 years later.

FORM MONARCHY TO SAVE FRANCE! ROYALIST PLEA

Duke of Guise, Pretender to Throne, Issues Call.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A manifesto from the duke of Guise, royalist leader and pretender to the French throne, tonight called for the formation of a dictatorship in France under a monarchy.

The document, dated "in exile," says that the republican régime has shown impotence and asks Frenchmen to choose between "authority, liberty, and monarchy, and oppression, anarchy, and socialism."

The duke of Guise became the pretender to the throne on the death of the duke of Orleans, one time head of the royalists, in April, 1926. At that time the duke of Guise wrote to all friends of his predecessor that "as chief of the house of France I claim all rights, assume all responsibilities, and accept all duties" as royalist chief and pretender.

Cites High Taxes.

The duke, who now is in Brussels, declared that the French are working one day out of three to satisfy the tax needs of the republican state and that whereas ten ministers sufficed to govern France formerly, there now are 29.

The royalist organ, Action Francaise, will publish the manifesto tomorrow. The document, which is dated Jan. 30, was addressed to war veterans, state employés, and taxpayers.

It represents the first time that the duke has injected himself into a political controversy.

"I represent the principles which render to the state the fullness of impartiality, independence, and stability," he said. "When I received the guardianship of these [principles] by birth in order to transmit them intact to my son, I inherited also a duty to recall them to the French nation.

"And if it pleases God when he wills it, I shall apply them to the government of the country, utilizing the coöperation of all Frenchmen of all origins, conditions, and freely organized, who will be represented."

BARRED FROM FRANCE.

On the death of the duke of Orleans in March, 1926, the succession to the headship of the French royal family automatically went to the duke of Guise, whose continued residence in France subsequently was made impossible, since he did not renounce his claim to the throne.

The duke's ancestors held the throne in France from 1589 until the first republic was proclaimed in 1792. They reigned also from 1814 until 1848, when the second republic was formed.

By law the duke was barred from service with the French army in the world war, but did everything he could to help France. After being refused for diplomatic reasons for service in the allied armies he operated a canteen at the front.

Since being exiled, the duke has lived in Naples, Palermo, Italy, and at his estate near Brussels. Near Palermo, the duke owns the Villa d'Aumale. During recent years he has several times been in the news—once when his son, Prince Henri, count of Paris, married Princess Isabelle of Orleans.

Another time was at a royalist demonstration near Palermo, when there were shouts of "Long live the king! Long live the dauphin!"

COURTNEY SCANS STOCK OFFER BY SENATOR WRIGHT

Letter on Gold Concern Under Scrutiny.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, through his blue sky department, is investigating the stock selling activities of State Senator Harry G. Wright of De Kalb. Several inquiries, it was learned yesterday, have been made at the prosecutor's office regarding literature sent out by Senator Wright on the stationery of the general assembly.

Senator Wright, it is said, has been offering for sale shares of the National Gold corporation, which a prospectus describes as the operator of gold and silver mines near Prescott, Ariz. The stock of the corporation, according to standard sources of investment information, is not qualified for sale in Illinois and, so far as the records show, is not listed on the Chicago or New York stock exchanges.

Investigates Wright Letters.

Assistant State's Attorney James J. Cherry, it became known, has been trying to determine whether Senator Wright has sold any of the stock through a Chicago office or to any residents of the city. The letters so far gathered by Mr. Cherry were sent to residents of Woodstock, Peoria and other cities in the state.

Following are excerpts from a mimeographed letter, over a purported reproduction of Senator Wright's signature, sent on the official stationery of the 57th general assembly which shows Senator Wright as chairman of the senate appropriations committee:

"Along with almost every one else, I suffered financial loss during the past few years and in common with all others I am looking for an opportunity to regain my losses.

"Due to the representations made me and the absolute confidence I have in the honesty, integrity and ability of the management, I begun early this year making investments in the National Gold corporation of Prescott, Ariz.

Says Future Is Assured.

"From time to time I increased my holdings, and I have just returned from a two weeks' investigation of the properties, and as a result have again increased my holdings, as I am absolutely convinced it is the best investment I ever made, and will show very early and large returns, but most important, the future is positively assured and large earnings are guaranteed for many years to come."

Although the foregoing paragraph mentions a guarantee of large earnings, a postscript to the letter says that the state senator "in no sense" guarantees the statements of the manager of the company. The postscript is written separately from the mimeographed letter and contains the penned initials of Senator Wright. The postscript says:

"While in no sense do I guarantee the above statement or that of the manager, my thorough investigation of every detail convinces me they are all true and very conservative. Please do not clasp this as a prospect or promotion, but a real going institution.

Another Part of Letter Quoted.

A paragraph of the main letter says the state senator is anxious to let his friends in on the opportunity to invest in the corporation. This section of the letter reads:

"I am so delighted with my investment that I am anxious to give a few of my friends a chance to participate in what I feel certain is an outstanding opportunity. Also the wider distribution the stock has before it is listed the better and stronger the market must be and the increase in price will be faster and higher.

"For the two above mentioned reasons I was able to secure positively the last block of stock that will be sold before it goes on the market, and if you are interested and in a position to take advantage of this, as I see it—Once in a Life Time Opportunity—I will be glad to hear from you."

Dr. Breasted Starts for Egypt

Plan Air Tour

Prof. James H. Breasted, director of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, left yesterday for a three months' tour of the field expeditions which are scattered throughout Asia Minor and the Nile valley. He was accompanied by Mrs. Breasted and Reed Haythorne, camera man for the institute. Much of the trip will be made by airplane. Dr. Breasted expects to reach Persepolis, ancient capital of Persia, where palaces and stone age villages have recently been uncovered, on Feb. 20. He will return to Chicago in May.

Girl, 18, Breaks Records in Milkmaid Contest

Shelbyville, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Nellie Jo Kensel, 18 year old farm girl, broke state and national records today in winning the Illinois milkmaids' contest. Bringing her own cow, she extracted 18.4 pounds of milk in two and a half minutes. It proved the virtues of practice. Morning and night she helps her father milk thirty cows on his farm near here. The Illinois record, set last year, was 11½ pounds of milk. The national record was around 13 pounds.

KEG PARTY PLAN OF SENATOR DIES NATURAL DEATH

It Was Good Story While It Lasted.

subject of dogs in the city, which he deplores, and kiddies in the home, which he approves. Sometimes a reporter knows his alderman or county commissioner so well that he does not even trouble to look him up but just quotes him on any goofy matter which happens to occur, but it is usually better to get the direct quotations. They are goofier.

The citizens may pass the buck right back on the ground that nowadays the best men in the community take one look at the United States senate or the house and refuse to run for election. There is something to this claim at that, and the record of the present session probably will make good men more wary than ever of becoming identified with the national legislature, but the citizens are still to blame, after all. If they can't send good men they ought to pass.

Would Have Provided Background.

When Senator Dill proposed the keg party it was thoroughly understood, of course, that the 3.20 beer was no good, but nevertheless a barroom rigged up in the senate, with sawdust on the floor, might have enhanced the dignity of the present session. At least it would have provided a sympathetic background for the sometimes not quite intelligible orations of Senator Huey P. Long and the test would have shown conclusively that 3.20 beer was no good and wouldn't raise any government revenue because nobody would buy it.

The senator in that case could have used his authority to subpoena some of the more prominent determined women of the prohibition movement to witness the debauch and defy them to make practical personal tests with the 3.20 beer. The determined women of the prohibition movement are not the type who would start singing "Sweet Adeline" on 3.20 beer and the experiment would have proved that the proposed beer was not worth the bother to legalize.

Beer Bill Can Be Forgotten.

It is an odd thing about the determined ladies that, although none of them will ever admit having been even slightly plastered, they all pretend to absolute knowledge of what is a good drink and what is not and strictly forbid any drink that even sounds as though it might be good.

But the beer bill might as well be forgotten now. With the strength reduced to 3.05 it becomes a form of raspberry soda and Mr. Hoover, when he puts his veto to it, will confer a favor on the serious drinkers of the nation, though they may not think so at the time.

Perhaps Senator Dill may be credited with one conscientious stroke in connection with the beer bill. When the strength was reduced to 3.05 he further stipulated that it should be illegal to advertise this brew in the papers. The determined women of course will regard this as a triumph for their side, but others may prefer to take the more charitable view that he merely wished to prevent fraudulent and misleading advertising.

Pickpocket Sentenced to One to Ten Years in Prison

Elmer Arbuthnot, 32 years old, who has a twelve year police record as a pickpocket, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Harry A. Lewis to one to ten years in the penitentiary. Arbuthnot was found guilty by a jury several weeks ago of stealing a pocketbook containing $6 from James A. Brown, 5848 South Peoria street, on a South Halsted street car on Sept. 12. Two co-defendants, Frank Fazio, 29 years old, and Joseph Battaglia, 27 years old, were acquitted.

3 STEVENSES ARE INDICTED; CHARGE 4 MILLION FRAUD

Defendants to Surrender Today and Give Bond.

Three indictments charging James W. Stevens and his sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W., with a $4,000,000 fraud in the operation of the Illinois Life Insurance company were returned by the grand jury yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court.

Bonds of $25,000 each were fixed for the Stevenses and clerks of the Criminal court immediately drew up capiases for their arrest. This formality, however, was to be waived, for their attorney, Patrick J. Lucey, said they would surrender at 10 o'clock this morning and make bonds.

2 Charge Embezzlement.

There are two indictments charging embezzlement, the first accusing the Stevenses of embezzling $200,000 on Oct. 1, 1931, through the payment of 25 per cent stock dividends. The Stevenses, holding 80 per cent of the stock, obtained $200,000 of the $250,000 declared.

The second indictment charges the embezzlement of $1,000,000 on Feb. 9 1932, through the making of dummy loans. Of this amount $600,000 in Liberty bonds went to the Stevens hotel, it is alleged, in return for collateral consisting of worthless obligations of that hotel. A total of $13,000,000 of the Illinois Life assets were invested in securities of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, both controlled by the Stevenses. Both hotels and the life insurance company are in receivership.

The conspiracy indictment contains twelve counts, but duplication of common and statutory law reduces them to six. The first count charges conspiracy to defraud $1,000 policyholders, carrying total insurance of $140,000,000, of $4,000,000, which is inclusive of the amounts allegedly embezzled.

One count charges conspiracy to defraud policyholders by making false sworn statements to the state superintendent of insurance on Feb. 9, 1932. The Stevenses, it is charged, placed a valuation of $1,817,796 upon stocks in which the company had invested and this valuation was allegedly $1,500,000 in excess of their true value.

Excess Value on Bonds.

Security held for loans was valued at $5,874,700, and this was $5,000,000 in excess of the true value of the collateral, the true bill charges. Bonds in which the company had invested were valued at $8,654,093, and this was an excess valuation of $6,000,000, according to the indictment.

Another count charges conspiracy by subornation of perjury on the part of James W. and Raymond W. Stevens with Bert J. Stookey and Harold J. Curgel, former directors of the company. Stookey, who was a grand jury witness, and Curgel are not named defendants.

BANDIT HOLDS UP CASHIER OF STATE ST. STORE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Raymond Ramazini, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Clarence Summers, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Ernest Jones, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Francis O'Keefe, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Lawrence Lazarus, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Joseph Estelle, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

In a daring robbery yesterday a Negro bandit who invaded the F. W. Woolworth store at 18 North State street took $435 from Miss Virginia Shakerlaris, 20 years old, in charge of the basement exchange desk. More than 200 clerks were attending a sales meeting on the same floor at the time of the robbery.

The bandit produced a revolver and forced Miss Shakerlaris to hand over a bag containing money to be used in making change. He ran up a stairway without attracting the attention of other employés and made his escape by crossing to the building at 9 West Washington street through a connecting passage on the third floor. Witnesses saw him join another Negro waiting at the wheel of an automobile and speed away in Washington street.

Before witnesses were found who saw the bandit's flight police believed that he had escaped through the Chicago loop underground tunnel system.

WEDS DANCER

[Acme Photo.]

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gilbert W. Kahn, son of Otto H. Kahn, and a member of the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was married today to Miss Sara Jane Heliker, chorus girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Heliker of Jacksonville, Fla.

The wedding was a simple affair in the Kahn apartment at 912 Fifth avenue. Presiding Justice Edgar J. Lauer of the Municipal court officiated. There were ten guests, friends of the bride and groom, present. The only member of either family who attended the wedding was Roger Wolfe Kahn, the bridegroom's brother.

The ceremony was informal in every way. The bride wore a brown afternoon frock trimmed with a darker brown velvet. Mr. Kahn wore a pin stripe dark business suit.

FUGITIVE FROM 'SCHOOL' ADMITS 200 AUTO THEFTS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Court cases—Albert Clark, Charles Caiazzo, Dominick Galasso, and Joseph Turchany, all held to the grand jury for auto larceny by Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

Raymond Ramizini, 16 years old, 1830 West Chicago avenue, who has escaped four times from the St. Charles school for boys, was sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to serve one to 20 years in the Pontiac reformatory for automobile thefts. Ramizini pleaded guilty and testified that he had stolen more than 200 cars in 15 months.

"I drove them around until they ran out of gas," he said, "and then left them where my friends could find them and strip them."

Ramizini said he had stolen an average of eight cars a week for the last two months. During that time, he said, he escaped police in a number of automobile chases through Chicago streets. Judge Prystalski refused a defense plea for leniency with the remark that "this is a hard-boiled case."

WINNETKA POINTS WITH PRIDE TO A VILLAGE SURPLUS

Ascribes Solvency in Part to Its Light Plant.

Winnetka is one Cook county community which has paid its municipal employés up to date, has no tax warrants outstanding, and has a surplus in its village treasury, it was disclosed yesterday by the semi-annual audit of village finances, received by Village President William B. Moulton.

H. L. Woolhiser, village manager, ascribes the solvency of the community partly to the fact that Winnetka always has operated on a cash instead of a credit basis. The village government expenses have been paid out of the previous year's taxes instead of financing its operations by selling tax warrants on current collections. Now that tax collections are two years behind in Cook county the village has, by economies, still saved enough money to keep going on a cash basis.

Profits of Light Plant.

Another reason cited by Mr. Woolhiser for the condition of the village treasury, and also for the fact that Winnetka's tax rate for municipal purposes is lower than that of other north shore suburbs and far below that of Chicago, is the profits turned into the general funds of the village each year from the operation of the municipal electric light plant.

The village built a small plant in 1900, Mr. Woolhiser said, and has improved and extended its system out of earnings until at present the plant is carried on the village accounts at a valuation of about $1,000,000.

The village uses in its general funds $85,000 a year from the power plant earnings. The remainder of the earnings are segregated in two funds, one to care for maintenance and replacement of the present equipment, and the other an electric surplus fund for extension of the system.

The rates charged, Mr. Woolhiser said, are the same charged by private utility companies in surrounding communities.

Rates Bring Lower Taxes.

"Several times," Mr. Woolhiser said, "the village trustees have been asked by citizens to reduce the rates. But when it was pointed out that what they paid in higher rates they saved in lower taxes, most of the complaints were withdrawn."

Winnetka's tax rate for municipal purposes, not including schools, is 74 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of property. The rates of neighboring communities for the same purpose were given in the village report as follows: Kenilworth, 98 cents; Wilmette, $1.06; Glencoe, $1.18; Evanston, $1.30; Highland Park, $1.41, and Chicago [town of Rogers Park], $2.44.

Another reason for the low tax rate in Winnetka is its low bonded debt. The village has a bonding power of $650,000, but has outstanding bonds of only $95,000.

TRIPLE ATTACK ON GAMBLING IS LOOSED BY CITY

Pass Slot Machine License Law.

War on slot machine gambling in Chicago was carried out on three fronts yesterday.

1. The city council passed an ordinance requiring licenses for the operaton of all slot machines and automatic amusement, vending, and weighing devices. Every mechanism in which coins are deposited or through which money is staked or premiums won is covered by this legislation.

2. Police in the Des Plaines street district obtained from Judge Francis Borrelli a total of twenty-one warrants for the arrest of operators of machines alleged to be used for gambling purposes. Raids were made on several of the places last night.

List "Protected" Concerns.

3. The corporation counsel's office made public a list of eleven machine manufacturing concerns which are, or have been recently, protected in the operation of their devices by temporary injunctions. A pledge to work for the dissolution of all existing restraining orders has been made by Corporation Counsel Sexton.

The new anti-slot machine law forces operators to pay an annual fee of $2 for each machine. Fines of $25 to $200 are provided for persons operating without a license. Heretofore all machines, except weighing machines on the streets, have been license free.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] introduced the ordinance at the suggestion of Mayor Cermak. The mayor earlier had spoken of the difficulties the police encountered in enforcing anti-gambling laws, particularly with so many injunctions being obtained.

"With this ordinance as a weapon," he said, "the police can prevent the issuance of a license for any machine that is actually used for gambling. It will be easy to arrest owners without license and have them fined."

Raid Cigar Stores.

Among those arrested on the warrants obtained yesterday were the owners of three cigar stores: Morris Meyer, 341 South Halsted street; Angelo Mallas, 521 South Halsted street, and Harry Cohen, 529 West Madison street. In each case policemen alleged that they had gambled on the machines.

As a result of the drive the police reported that dozens of operators were already moving out their machines.

Those manufacturers or agents whose machines are now protected by temporary injunctions are Hyman Zaslawsky, D. Gottlieb & Co., American Sales corporation, William F. Burns, Claude R. Kirk, Arthur E. Robertson and R. F. Malone. Four other temporary injunctions have been dissolved. The Kirk case is to come up before Judge Dennis Sullivan today. A master in chancery has already recommended dissolution.

VINSON DRAFTS BILL FOR NAVAL SHIPBUILDING

60 Million Annually May Be Expended.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—A comprehensive warship construction program providing for the strengthening of the United States fleet through expenditure of approximately $60,000,000 annually on new combat vessels is being whipped into shape by Representative Carl A. Vinson, Democratic chairman of the house naval affairs committee.

The plan of the Democratic leader is to introduce the program at the special session of congress to be called by President Elect Roosevelt. As tentatively prepared, the bill calls for expenditure of approximately 600 million dollars over the next ten years to build the fleet up to London treaty strength.

Confers with Roosevelt.

Chairman Vinson has conferred with Roosevelt on the naval situation and will most likely confer with him again before the bill is introduced. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated a desire for an adequate navy but has not disclosed publicly the extent of the building program he would favor. It is considered possible that when his views are made known, a decision may be reached to offer the Vinson program in three sections, thus holding the size of the original bill to around 200 million dollars.

The Vinson program contains no provision for replacing any of this country's ageing battleships, several of which would have been laid down had not the life of this class of vessel been extended to twenty-five years at the London conference. Whether the Vinson decision not to include battleships represented a growing strength for the groups opposed to building ships larger than the 10,000 ton cruiser was not disclosed.

Plans to Bare Program.

In support of his program, Chairman Vinson plans hearings to bring out before the house naval committee the fact that not one new warship has been authorized during the Hoover administration. He plans to call for the now confidential navy general board warship construction program, and make it public. He has stated also that he will make a speech in the house pointing out the fact that the United States fleet is inferior to that of Great Britain and rapidly nearing a position of inferiority to Japan.

It was learned today that the navy general board program is the most ambitious worked up by that body in years. It is based upon the theory that the United States should build its fleet to parity with Britain and its proper treaty ratio with Japan in as short a time as possible. As a consequence, it calls for the laying down during the next fiscal year of forty warships involving a total cost of around 300 million dollars over three years.

Seven Cruisers on Program.

The program calls for one 8 inch gun cruiser [authorized], two aircraft carriers, seven 6 inch gun 10,000 ton cruisers, six submarines, twenty destroyers, and four destroyer leaders. These vessels would replace vessels now obsolete or bolster the fleet in categories now weak. The general board program normally would have been submitted to congress on request of the house naval committee. This committee decided against hearings when Democratic leaders agreed to postpone naval legislation to the new session. The board program has been shelved by the Republican administration.

The branch office opened by Secretary of State Hughes in the city hall was patronized yesterday by 4,405 motorists, who paid a total of $51,298 for state license plates which formerly could be obtained only from Springfield. City vehicle stickers were obtained by 8,159 persons.

Yesterday's crowd in the vehicle license lines was the largest that has appeared on any day since the 1933 stickers have been on sale. The increased attendance was credited to the activity of the police in issuing warnings to motorists that they would be subject to arrest within a few days unless city and state licenses are obtained.

A report issued by City Collector Kaindl shows that the vehicle license collections of $1,282,965 for January are $1,472,865 less than for January of last year. It was this large decrease in collections that stirred officials to action to compel motorists to take out their licenses.

She was granted a divorce on grounds of desertion from Justin H. Garr, owner of a surgical instrument store at 120 North State street. Mrs. Garr got the Gage's lake cottage as part of a $15,000 settlement.

RULES CONTRACT TO COLLECT BACK TAXES IS INVALID

Attorney General Otto Kerner made public an opinion in Springfield yesterday holding that the contract signed by the Cook county commissioners with Attorney Lee LaRochelle for the collection of delinquent personal property taxes was invalid. When the opinion was made public State's Attorney Courtney issued a statement in which he asserted that Attorney LaRochelle has asked fees totaling $307,000 for collection of $3,000,000 worth of personalty taxes since his work began in June, 1932. The lawyer already has collected $94,000, the statement disclosed. The state's attorney asserted that he has asked for an appropriation of only $20,000 for the additional employés needed if his office takes over the work done by Attorney LaRochelle.

Woman Railroad Agent Fights Robber, Saves $360

Mrs. Mary Newman, the Burlington railroad agent at the Harlem avenue station in Berwyn, saved $30 in railroad receipts by battling a robber yesterday. She had put the money inside an envelope, and then inserted the envelope between the pages of a remittance book. As she was carrying the book outside to the express messenger, a robber snatched for the money. Mrs. Newman fought him. He seized the book and fled, but the money envelope dropped to the platform and Mrs. Newman retrieved it.

HORNER NAMES STATE PRINTER TO OPEN INQUIRY

E. B. Dunigan Confirmed for Duty.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Conditions uncovered in the state printing office led Gov. Horner today to appoint as superintendent of printing—commonly known as the state printer—an expert he "borrowed" to start the investigation more than two weeks ago.

He sent to the senate, which immediately voted confirmation, the appointment of Edward B. Dunigan of Oak Park, production manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., in which capacity he has charge of millions of dollars' worth of printing of many kinds.

Appointment Unexpected.

The action was unexpected, as, ever since the resignation of H. L. Williamson, state printer, the governor has been searching for some one qualified to succeed him. Dunigan, it was something of an open secret, was investigating conditions with a view to economy and standardization but he was acting merely as a confidential agent of the governor. He had been loaned to him for a short time and was without authority to issue orders to the division, sign contracts or orders or transact other business.

The effort to find an acceptable man for a full term appointment led the governor to resort to a form of drafting with the result that he was told today that Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., had consented to the loan of Dunigan's services to the state for as long as they are needed to straighten out the tangle uncovered.

There has been nothing like a complete disclosure of what has been found in the administration of the state's expensive printing but it is known that Dunigan has called on a chemist to test much of the paper used recently and more particularly a large amount of stock now on hand.

Test Paper Stock.

This item of paper in storage alone is said to have been a shock to those who learned of it. It is reported that Williamson left about $175,000 worth of paper in a warehouse and that up until the time of his resignation was still buying large amounts. This heavy buying, it was said, was done in the face of a falling market. And it is estimated that it costs the state at the rate of $15,000 a year for storage alone while much of the stock deteriorates with age.

One of the tasks Dunigan also faces is to establish a system whereby each department will be charged up with its own printing—no more and no less. Under the previous lack of system, it is said, each department received an appropriation for its own printing but the printer lumped all of them together and charged work to departments about as he chose.

Not Worried by Suit.

The administration is not worried about the effect on the economy program from the injunction suit brought by Alice Brown Huff who was discharged recently from the insurance division. Upon assertion of her civil service standing she obtained a temporary restraining order directing Ernest Palmer, superintendent of insurance, from interfering with her, but Palmer today was in conference with Attorney General Kerner who plans to proceed immediately for a dissolution of the injunction.

The employé was dismissed by Palmer with a statement there was no work for her. Her attorney immediately leaped on the fact that Palmer because he was not the head of the department, had no authority to dismiss her. Since that time, however, Palmer has been made an acting director of trade and commerce, of which the division of insurance is a part, and over his new title again issued a discharge order. This, it is contended, is legal.

Discharge Order to Stand.

While Miss Huff is a civil service employé, lawyers say, her redress lies in applying to the civil service commission for assignment to some other office or for reinstatement on the eligible list. Whatever the immediate result of her appeal to the courts, Gov. Horner intends to let his orders stand instructing all department heads to remove all unnecessary employés.

Gov. Horner's office announced that he has received word that the representatives of the coal miners unions which he has been trying to bring into harmony will call on him tomorrow afternoon with their answers to his proposals for eliminating the friction between them.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

FARMERS LOSE $304 AT POKER; PLAYER SEIZED

Two Iowa farmers who came to Chicago on Tuesday to sell cattle at the Union stockyards departed from the yards with a total of $304, the proceeds of the sale. Instead of returning to Iowa they went to a flat at 4219 South Union avenue to take part in a poker game to which they had been invited by four strangers. They departed the flat minus their $304.

Yesterday the farmers, Amandus E. Pitzenberger of Rockwell and Robert Conlias of Pocahontas, related their story to the Stockyards police.

"After thinking it over we decided the game was queer," they said.

The police went to the flat and arrested one of the strangers, Thomas Thoresen, 41 years old. He insisted it was "only a friendly little game." His three companions are still being sought.

HE WORRIES AND WORRIES!

—can't imagine why he feels so pepless—so run-down

Slipping on the job—and in these days, too. No wonder he worries! He can't figure out what's wrong—why he wakes up more tired than when he went to bed—what causes that constant dull headache—that achy, pepless, half-alive feeling. Yet the answer is ridiculously simple. Ten to one there's nothing really wrong—nothing he cannot easily correct in just a few days.

It's ASTHENIA

Millions are in the same lamentable plight today and not one in ten can guess the cause.

That's the insidious thing about Asthenia . . it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you hardly realize you're slipping.

Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes—be ready and eager for any task—experience all the glories of this glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it.

You think that you're not the least bit clogged—you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it is only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

Decide right now to turn the tables on Old Man Gloom. Take Pluto Water every morning for ten mornings, and see a new world in ten days!

Gentle, Effective

Gently and thoroughly cleanse your system of every vestige of health-destroying impurities. Then you will understand why for nearly ninety years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this ten-day Pluto Water treatment. And why physicians everywhere recommend it as a mild and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

Two sizes—20c and 45c—at all drug counters. Bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana.

The NEW TASTELESS WAY TO TAKE PLUTO

in four-fifths glass of hot water.

are here combined with the best of medical treatment

The man with gonorrhea or syphilis who comes to the Public Health Institute for treatment is greeted by a succession of pleasant surprises.

He is delighted by the provisions which have been made for his privacy and comfort, is gratified by the kindliness and sympathetic attitude of the staff, and is impressed by the excellence and thoroughness of the medical service that is rendered despite the very low fees.

In its arrangements for privacy and comfort, the Public Health Institute has gone far beyond the average public clinic. Several attractively furnished waiting rooms, well stocked with current magazines, are provided, while numerous individual treatment rooms make it possible for every patient to be treated in absolute privacy. As an added measure of privacy, each new patient is assigned a number and thereafter is known by that number rather than by name.

Concentrating, as they do, on the treatment of venereal diseases and their complications, the physicians of the Public Health Institute are well aware of the worries that beset the sufferer from gonorrhea or syphilis. Thus they hasten to dispel unnecessary fears, and to give the patient the encouragement which he so greatly needs. In fact, the spirit of friendliness and sympathetic understanding that prevails throughout the Public Health Institute is an important reason why more than one-third of its new patients are referred to it by highly satisfied former patients.

Although low in cost, the medical service provided by the Public Health Institute is of the highest type. Its trustees sincerely believe that money cannot buy more effective treatment for venereal diseases. Surely an organization which for 13 years has specialized in gonorrhea and syphilis, and which during that time has been constantly engaged in research tending toward even better treatment, is qualified to render a medical service of undisputed dependability. Since 1920 the Institute has treated in excess of 196,000 individuals!

That it is vitally important to get dependable treatment is proved by the extreme seriousness of venereal diseases. Improperly-treated syphilis, for example, may result in heart disease, apoplexy, blindness, deafness, paralysis or even insanity! And it is recognized as being the principal cause of stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies.

Gonorrhea, too, can prove exceedingly dangerous unless completely eliminated from the system. It may lead to sterility, crippling rheumatism, prostate troubles, or other serious complications. Worse still, it is the outstanding cause of infantile blindness, and is responsible for most of the pelvic operations performed on women.

For these reasons, take no chances with your health but consult a competent private physician or come to the Public Health Institute. Organized by public spirited citizens NOT FOR PROFIT, the Institute's fee for a complete examination, including Wassermann and Kahn blood tests, is only $3.00, while six consecutive treatments for gonorrhea cost but $4.00. Even those pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those run for personal gain!

3 PRIVATE RELIEF GROUPS TO LOSE ALL STATE FUNDS

Catholic Charities, County to Dispense Aid.

Federal and state funds for the relief of the Cook county idle will be distributed in the future by the county board of public welfare and the Catholic charities if recommendations made yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission are approved by the county board.

Mr. Reynolds' recommendations are that all family relief of the idle be placed in the hands of the two organizations—the county welfare board, which is now handling most of that work, and the Catholic charities, one of the four major private family relief agencies in the county. The Catholic Charities recently was declared an accredited agency of the relief commission for the dispensing of federal and state funds.

Social Service Work.

Mr. Reynolds also recommended that no more state or federal relief funds be used to support the United Charities, Jewish Charities, and the Salvation Army and that these three private family relief agencies confine their future efforts in the main to social service work.

These last three organizations are expected to obtain part of the funds needed for social service work from private contributors. They will also be aided by contributions from the $7,500,000 Emergency Welfare fund now being raised. Mr. Reynolds' recommendations for their fund allocations for February, as made public yesterday, were as follows:

Agency—	January allocation.	February proposal.
United Charities	$ 60,000	*$233,176
Catholic Charities	140,000	150,000
Jewish Charities	20,000	*17,817
Salvation Army	10,000	*61,791

Opposes Rent Funds.

Mr. Reynolds also recommended that the county board approve an allocation of $28,900 for the Salvation Army shelters for this month, a form of relief that is separate from family relief. He urged further that no funds be set aside to pay rent for families on the relief rolls, for which $844,800 would be required, according to his estimate. He also said that monthly savings of $100,000 on coal and $71,000 on food should be effected because of lower prices.

Last month about 500 families transferred from the county relief rolls to the Catholic Charities rolls, and the $150,000 allocation Mr. Reynolds recommends anticipates an estimated total case count of 5,595 families for the Catholic Charities this month.

In addition to the $150,000 which Mr. Reynolds recommends, the Emergency Welfare fund plans to give the Catholic Charities about $83,000 to carry on its social service work, according to Frank D. Loomis, secretary of the fund.

A resolution demanding an investigation of the purchase of food given to the idle on the relief rolls from chain store organizations was introduced in the city council yesterday by Ald. Irving J. Schreiber of the 7th ward. The resolution was referred to the committee on unemployment.

DELAY INQUEST IN KANE SUICIDE; WIFE RECOVERING

An inquest into the death of Stephen D. Kane, 59 years old, 4243 Drexel boulevard, an electrician, who shot and killed himself in his flat early yesterday after seriously wounding his estranged wife, Ruby, 22 years old, was continued yesterday until Feb. 8 to allow Mrs. Kane to recover. They were married two years ago in Crown Point.

Mrs. Kane told police her husband was intensely jealous. After a movie on Tuesday night he told her he had accepted a position in Panama, she said, and asked her to accompany him.

He shot her and then turned the weapon upon himself when she showed little enthusiasm for the trip, she told police. She is in the Chicago Memorial hospital with a bullet wound in the back of her neck.

Fine Beggar for Striking Dentist Who Refused Alms

Richard Yates, 21 years old, was fined $10 and costs yesterday by Judge Samuel H. Trude for striking Dr. Harper J. Hibbe, 456 Surf street, when the latter refused him alms. Dr. Hibbe testified that he was walking in Garland court at the library Tuesday night when Yates asked him for a dime. When he refused, Dr. Hibbe said, Yates cursed him. Testimony showed that Dr. Hibbe stopped in resentment and Yates struck him. Yates said that he had been in Chicago for a week without food. He was taken to the Bridewell to serve out the fine.

APPEAL FOR NEW FRIENDS TO AID HUNGRY PUPILS

Only $32.50 Received to Feed 8,000.

The Hungry School Children's fund is in need of new friends who will help stimulate daily contributions. Only six contributors sent in gifts yesterday, a total of $32.50, although 8,000 children are depending on the gifts to provide them with lunches.

That grand total of $20,225.65 is, no doubt, misleading to many readers of THE TRIBUNE. That amount does not indicate the cash on hand. It is the money that had been raised since last September, when the fund opened for its second season. It takes considerable money to feed 8,000 children daily in 100 of these schools, and there isn't a great deal left in the fund.

Last year $48,000 was raised. At the close of the year teachers and principals were astonished at the improvement in the health and attitude among the most needy pupils who had been fed by the fund.

The need is even greater this year, although receipts are lower, according to Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education. Miss Swain administers the fund in coöperation with a citizens' committee. She has pointed out frequently that in addition to the 8,000 who are being aided, there are hundreds of others desperately in need who cannot be fed because of the limited funds.

$10.00—Mrs. Howard G. Kornbith, Mrs. Phil Morris.
$5.00—Anonymous, Collegiate Cap and Gown company.
$1.00—Mrs. L. I. Williams.
Total.....$ 32.50
Previously acknowledged..... 20,191.15

Grand total.....$20,223.65

Gifts should be made payable to the Hungry School Children's fund in care of THE TRIBUNE, and sent to Tribune Tower.

SHOWS DROP IN DUTY COLLECTED ON IMPORTS HERE

Duties collected on importations into the Chicago district have declined two-thirds during the last five years, Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs, revealed yesterday. A report which he forwarded to Washington showed that $15,692,818 was collected in 1928, as compared with $5,301,587 in 1932. Collections for 1929 were $14,808,880; for 1930 they were $9,996,780, and for 1931 the total was $7,295,730. Collector Czarnecki said that persons in the Chicago district either have stopped importing articles during the depression or have been satisfied with less costly importations.

LAWYER SEIZES TOOLS ON FARM; CHARGES FRAUDS

Appeals to Horner from Ivesdale $4.90 Sale.

Ivesdale, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—W. A. Doss, Monticello attorney and dealer in real estate mortgages, who received bids for only $4.90 on a $2,500 farm equipment mortgage sale yesterday, appeared today and seized the mortgaged property. He said that the machinery and live stock would be held at a neighboring farm until ownership is determined by court action.

The sale was held after Doss had foreclosed his mortgage on the farm of C. D. Brady near here. Irate neighbors, following the lead of other corn belt farmers, refused to permit competitive bidding on the property.

This morning Doss, with three deputy sheriffs, drove to the Brady farm in a truck. Finding no one home, he loaded the property on a truck and drove away. The action was taken after he had wired to Gov. Horner that "we are face to face with anarchy."

Charges Plot to Defraud.

"It was a conspiracy to commit fraud," Doss said after taking the property. "So I have seized the stock and machinery on a writ of replevin. If the bidders are successful in settling debts in this manner, it is simply a question of whose claim is strongest."

The Brady mortgage sale was the first in this section of Illinois in which sympathetic neighbors have restricted bids to nickels and dimes and ejected by force any one offering higher bids.

Seek Legal Compromises.

Compromise agreements to halt foreclosures on mortgaged farms were under discussion today throughout the middle west. The Iowa legislature, trying to work out compromise legislation, was caught in a disagreement between the house and senate. A mortgage arbitration bill, considered less drastic than the house measure, was approved unanimously by the senate. The measure sponsored by the Iowa house amounts virtually to a mortgage moratorium until March 1, 1935. The senate bill provides that arbitration must be resorted to before a mortgage foreclosure suit can be filed. The bill also provides that a court can take jurisdiction of property and leave the person mortgaging the property in possession if that seems advisable.

Milo Reno, leader of the Farmers' Holiday association, pronounced the house measure an "imbecile attempt to provide an alibi for the legislature's refusal to consider a legal farm moratorium."

Action in Southwest.

A ten cent sale developed in Aurora, Neb. There 300 farmers went to the W. C. Brock farm and bid in farm equipment at a mortgage sale.

The governor of Texas was requested to seek a suspension of farm mortgage foreclosures until relief legislation can be passed in a resolution adopted by the house of representatives.

SPITALE AND BITZ ARE FREED; LACK MURDER CHARGE EVIDENCE

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Lack of evidence led to the dismissal of homicide charges against Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz today, but only Spitale went free.

Bitz was held for a hearing Friday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Both were found armed with pistols when they were arrested Sunday in connection with the slaying last August of Antonio Fantano.

Spitale produced a permit signed by County Judge William E. Thorp of Greene county, however, and the gun toting charge against him was dropped. The permit was revoked today by Judge Thorp, who said he had been misinformed about Spitale's record.

Bail of $25,000 was set for Bitz on the gun carrying charge.

HIRSHIE MILLER DEFRAUDED ON BOGUS ORDERS

Federal agents revealed yesterday that Hirshie Miller, Chicago gambler, had been defrauded of more than $1,000 by the payment of a gambling debt with spurious Cuban postoffice money orders. The deal was discovered in an investigation of the case of Manuel Benemelis and Sam Sparks, who are under arrest in St. Louis on charges of counterfeiting obligations of a foreign country.

Federal officials said that Benemelis and Sparks appeared at Miller's gambling house at 601 Diversey parkway and lost $300. They paid in cash and returned the next night and lost a like sum. This time, federal agents said, the men paid their loss with eleven $100 Cuban money orders and received $800 in cash for their balance. Benemelis and Sparks reappeared at the gambling house several days later and again lost. They offered Miller 21 more of the money orders.

Miller is said to have sent one of his employés to a bank and found that the money orders were fraudulent.

WHEN you ask a Chesterfield smoker why that's his brand—he generally comes right out flat-footed and says . . . "It's because They're Milder!"

So we're going to keep on doing everything we know how to keep them that way.

That's why we look for and buy the mildest and ripest tobaccos we can get. That's why we age them in our warehouses till they're mellow and sweet.

We believe that even the shredding of the tobacco . . . and the quality of the paper it's rolled in, have a lot to do with the even-drawing, mild smoke that people enjoy in Chesterfields.

You can bank on this . . . every method known to science is used to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette that satisfies.

A PARK HOLE FOR TEN MILLION.

Some thirty years ago an army of deserving west side voters was discovered digging post holes throughout the west park system. There were no posts to go in the post holes, and if there had been any posts there would have been no use for them. Mr. Lorimer was in control of the west parks at the time and an election was approaching. That is why the post holes were dug. Such holes had been dug in the west park revenues before, and apparently there has been no time since, or few times since, when hole digging has not been the main purpose of the west park board. The audit made some months ago under the direction of the Association of Commerce and withheld from publication until Tuesday reveals that the west parks have now sunk ten million dollars in the hole and that they are apparently insolvent.

It is a shame that this important system of parks, so valuable to the life of the great west side, should have been so infrequently treated as a moral obligation and so often handled for the scurviest of political purposes. This is one of the two great park systems controlled by the governor of the state. It has fared much worse than the Lincoln park system, which also is controlled by the governor, and it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the west side people have been less on their guard than the people in the Lincoln park district. Political abuses certainly have been more prevalent on the west side and they have cut deeper into the parks. That some admirable things have survived in the west park system is to be admitted. Some of the persons charged with responsibility have not wholly abandoned decencies of conduct. But the system, comprehensively viewed, presents a picture of political spoils and unworthy conduct. This is a story of years, if not of generations.

There may be in the new disclosure of park financial management something requiring the attention of the state's attorney. It seems improbable that a management could so administer public funds without exposing itself to legal consequences. It is also apparent that the west side has been entirely too tolerant of methods which destroy not only political institutions but property values. The best remedy is in the hands of west park voters. They have supported men who have done them great injury. It is not merely theoretical injury. It is a damage which can be assessed against their properties and it is so assessed. Nothing can be done to help them until they are determined to help themselves.

Deplorable as this record is, it has more than a local significance, for it is a sample, if a rather extreme one, of what is going on all over the country.

GOOD OLD CAPE COD.

News comes from Chatham—if you put the accent on the first syllable the Cape Codder will quietly put you in your place by saying gently but correctively ChatHAM—news comes from Chatham, Massachusetts, on the cape, that the sea in a gale has cut through the peninsula of Monomoy Point and has made the point an island, separated from the mainland by a 600-foot wide channel. The Cape Codders, conscious of the fact that English North America did not really begin until the Mayflower came to anchorage in what is now Provincetown harbor, within the hand of the bent arm of the cape, have always taken life as it came to them, by sea or by land. Change, natural or human made, afflicts them as it afflicts all humanity, but they survive it, particularly where the cape narrows to the north and east and leaves behind all pretense of arable soil, giving itself over entirely to its shifting sands with their scrub oak, evergreens and wild plums, and to the beautiful mountainous dunes.

Curiously enough, this apparent permanence and durability of human institutions has survived greater admixtures and modifications than can be found in any similar area or in any numerically equivalent population in the country. But to the old Cape Codder up at the end of the peninsula a person who has spent eight months a year for thirty years on his own freehold is still a foreigner. Then there is Greenwich Village, which spills a certain number of its merriest free souls into Provincetown every summer without causing the Simon-pure native to raise an eyebrow or give one look askance. The conservative cottager visiting only during the summer months opens his house and his boathouse and never feels himself an alien, however much he may be one. The deep sea going men are dead and only the figureheads of their ships fixed somewhere on the fraying cottages remain to reveal that once the cape took to the sea for its living. Its living now comes to it in automobiles. Happily for the more fastidious sense of smell, the clock oil industry passed out not so long ago, with the last old timer who tried out the oil, and it's not often that a school of stupid blackfish gets beached. Artists have their easels all over the place, inviting the automobile, which never does, to knock them down. The Portuguese from the Azores have added their olive complexions, soft eyes and superlative bread to the old Pilgrim scene. Provincetown's monument to the landing of the Pilgrims raises its defiance to Plymouth across the bay and on a clear day Plymouth can see it and realize that historically it plays second fiddle and exists at all only because it had more springs and some soil over its rocks and sand.

The cape may be inundated by the sea and by the alien human, but it continues to offer each new generation the full concept of 1620.

JAPAN REACHES FOR ITS HAT.

Japan seems to be closer than ever to a complete break with the league of nations. The report from Tokio is that the foreign minister has the emperor's consent to recall the Japanese delegates from Geneva. It is one curious item in the history of the league that although Japan joined readily it has never been nearly so enmeshed in the league's business as has the United States, which, after much hot debate, did not join at all, although, again, Japan as a member of the league has given it in recent years its most serious problems.

If America's confirmed policy of theoretical aloofness from league entanglements were entirely sustained by our government action the withdrawal of Japan would be regarded here as a tribute to American sanity in this matter. The trouble is it is not always easy to discern the triumphant American theory in the actions of the American government. The people say we will not. Then contrariwise, the government does it. The leaguists make much of the word sanction. No American government has ever found that blessed word supporting any of its actions which in truth and effect adhered to league policy.

Very likely the United States officially will regret it if Japan withdraws from the international organization which the people of the United States have instinctively avoided. That will merely add another oddity to the whole affair.

Little that has come out of negotiations organized at Geneva or extemporized as side shows to the big top has been found to recommend this method of endeavoring to placate international animosities, reduce international strain, or solve international problems. There have been some minor and marginal achievements to be credited to the Geneva method, none of which is any more remarkable than settlements of similar character which for years had been arrived at by means of international arbitration and through the Hague tribunal. The major attempts of the league have been fizzles, and even before the league was organized it was discovered that the nature of one conference was to lead to another and that in the end the world was fortunate if the hurt pride, defeated ambitions, and diplomatic chagrin did not lead from conference to war. Indeed, the world war can be traced back to just such complications and irritations.

It has not been proved that the ordinary channels of diplomacy which lead nations to face their particular and specific problems with a view to their own interests and to the avoidance of serious consequences are not still the safest channels for the conduct of international affairs.

Certainly the league has gone nowhere in its attempts to discipline and restrain a member now apparently about to withdraw, and what good the United States has done by being both in and out of the league is entirely invisible. It can only be hoped that the evil will also remain out of the picture.

AND THIS IS TWO THATS!

"The ceding of territory is not done in the best British circles—and that is that."—From a Tribune news dispatch from London discussing British feeling evoked by cabled abstracts of impressions left by Sir Ronald Lindsay's debt talks with Mr. Roosevelt.

The satisfaction of obligations indicating value received and honored by a national signature is something that ought to be done, even in the best British circles—and that also is that.

TWICE OVER ON THE TAXPAYER.

The report of the secretary of the senate reveals that the Conscript Fathers allowed themselves, among other things, $8,000 a year for shaves. "Among other things" is a term used advisedly, and it goes as far as the imagination will take it. What the senators do not allow themselves, at public expense, is simply what they have not thought of. Given time, they will think of it and the public will pay for it.

Senators pay themselves large salaries from the public till. They fatten relatives on the national pay roll. They travel at public expense and charge a commission on their mileage.

Every time we learn about them it is to find out another rakeoff. That is why taxes are crushing and the government is broke.

NASHVILLE COMES IN.

Nashville, Tenn., will be the first of the communities of the south to enter the Golden Gloves tournament. The city youth have shown a live interest in boxing and have a strong contingent of amateurs, who we believe will make a claim upon championship honors of which Nashville and the south will be proud. The fighting qualities of southern youth in war or in the friendly combats of peace on the football field, the golf links, the tennis court need no advertisement, and in the manly sport of boxing there is no doubt the Nashville boxers will show the mettle of their race.

Editorial of the Day

[Detroit News.]

Slowly the courts are figuring out what is the responsibility of the owner of a motor car who is generous enough to let a thumb pointer ride with him and unlucky enough to have an accident in which his guest passenger gets hurt. It is common understanding that motorists are liable in such cases. But Circuit Judge William B. Brown of Grand Rapids thinks otherwise.

In a very sensible decision of such a case recently he said: "Guest passengers in private automobiles have no rights under the automobile damage laws of the state. They have two alternatives: one is to refrain from riding with others and the second is to go to Lansing and have the law changed."

The question, Judge Brown said, hinges upon interpretation of the term "willful and wanton negligence." According to the ruling of the court, negligence to be wanton and willful almost must be intentional. Naturally the cases are rare in which the owner of a car intentionally smashes it. Ten guest passenger cases, the judge said, have had decisions reversed by the Supreme court since 1929.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

MIDNIGHT WALK.

Love, I can show you a skyful of planets
Consuming the darkness—but never the bright
Curious eyes of the little white people,
The little white people who watch us tonight.

Love, I can show you a glittering midnight
Carven of crystal—but never the white
Delicate footprints of sly little people,
The sly little people that stalk us tonight.

Love, I can show you a blanket of silver
Spun from no fleece, yet as soft and as light—
But never the snare of the little white people,
The little white people who call me tonight.

Never their trail that my feet must be taking,
The trail that I follow past frost-lacquered trees,
Leaving you under the starlight, unknowing.
Much can I show you, beloved—but not these.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

SOME OF THE ECONOMICAL Republican senators (it's astonishing how economical they're getting all of a sudden) are objecting to a $50,000 White House appropriation because of the swimming pool which is to be installed for Mr. Roosevelt's use. Just so he doesn't stock it with bass and trout and go fishing we don't mind. We're so fed up with pictures of our Presidents in rubber boots standing in a pool waving a fishing rod around that photographs of a President bobbing around in a swimming pool will be a very pleasant relief. For a time, for a time. But the photographers are going to make us awful tired of it after a while. Still, why borrow trouble?

A SWIMMING POOL may sound extravagant, but if Mr. Roosevelt uses the old trick on refractory congressmen that we used to use in boyhood's happy days out at the old swimming hole it will be a great help to the country. We used to tell a new boy that he couldn't dive in and come up and say "yes." Then, while he was under the water, one of our merry group would yell, "Are you a lowdown, sheep stealing hound that ought to be kicked all the way back home?" And the new boy would pop his head up out of the pond and shout "yes." Thereby affording great merriment.

WELL, OUR IDEA for the new White House pool is that Mr. Roosevelt will get refractory members of congress who oppose his policies to go swimming in the pool. Then he says to them, "Bet you can't dive in and say 'yes' just as you come up to the top." The statesman says that of course he can. Then when he is under the water Mr. Roosevelt shouts, "From now on will you vote in favor of every bill I want passed." And when the statesman bobs up and roars "yes" then, of course, he's committed. It's a fine idea and we trust Mr. Roosevelt will adopt it. It ought to go great.

OF COURSE, the argument is going to be made that George Washington didn't ask a swimming pool appropriation from congress, but at that time congress would have screamed with horror and seen the corner stones of the Republic rocking if George had asked for a bath tub. On Saturday nights George was expected to go quietly down to the White House kitchen and take a bath in the clothes tub. If he had hinted anything about a bathroom they'd said he was trying to make himself king. "Times," as Cleopatra said laughingly to Marc Antony, "have certainly changed." "And how!" replied Marc, gloomily, as he tore up a letter he had received from the Roman senate kicking about his last expense account.

THE DREAM PLACE.

Out of the forest of trouble I run,
Faster, faster, and fleet,
To a little sheltered, sunny cove,
Where the vagrant airs are sweet,
And a myriad, myriad rainbow shells
Are lying at my feet.

But never to wither away.
The delicate fluting, the rosy heart,
The tender flushing of mauve and gray,
Will be here for a thousand years and a day.

There are twisted turrets of hyacinth,
Showered with dapples of opal and gold.
There are open fans the color of fire,
Freaked and flecked in a pattern bold,
With ebony, the color of night;
Color of darkness, fold on fold.

Beauty of darkness, beauty of light,
Blended to make a sea shell's grace—
Out of the forest of trouble I run,
To my sheltered, sea cove place—
To the rose sea shells, and the gold sea shells,
And the sea wind in my face.

"HOOVER Dam Model to Go in Operation for Chicago Fair Spectators."—Headline. Tut, tut! It may not be a perfect model and there are probably some people who dislike it because of its name, but there is really no excuse for being vulgar.

That Settles It!

(Glimpsed by Bill Yams in the Grand Prairie, Ill., Leader.)

While coming into town the other day, it suddenly dawned on Ed Noble that the depression was rapidly coming to an end. He saw a rabbit crossing the road and nobody after it.

IN REGARD to his new cabinet, Mr. Roosevelt told the reporters that he would bet them that any predictions they might make would be 80 per cent wrong. We love guessing games, but if he's going to change his plans just to win a bet then we won't play.

ADVANTAGES OF OYSTERS AS A FOOD.

THERE is something more than a possibility that oysters should be added to the small list of foods that can be used as a pleasing form of taking medicine. Since the thought of taking medicine is displeasing to many persons let us rather say: foods that are curative and preventive in certain fields. A change of words is a form of sleight of hand or legerdemain that is very popular in certain groups in their talk about health preservation. There is a well established basis for the use of oysters for the prevention of some disturbances of the thyroid gland. In Wales oysters are eaten as a cure for mild anemias. It is proposed to find broader use for them in anemias.

This bivalve is rich in most of the vitamins. Vitamin D, the one which protects against rickets, has much to do with growth, is used in spasmodic croup and other spasmodic disorders, and is supposed to help protect against colds, coughs, and pneumonias, has been reported in oysters. Since this animal feeds on the same kind of foods made use of by the cod and the halibut, investigation to determine how its vitamin D content compares with that of these fish is being made.

It is established that oysters compare well with other foods as a source of vitamin A. This growth vitamin is increasing in importance as investigation of body welfare digs deeper.

There is considerable evidence that oysters are a good source of some of the vitamins in the group called vitamin B complex. One member of this group is held to be responsible, or chiefly responsible, for pellagra, protecting against it when present, curing it when given, and resulting in it when the diet is deficient in this substance.

There is some reason for thinking there is an antagonism between goiter and pellagra. The goiter belt of America is almost free from pellagra, and vice versa. Who has ever seen the two disorders present in the same individual? There may be many who answer this question affirmatively, but up to date the record is clear.

Contrary to the implication of these facts, it is proposed to try oysters as a preventive and cure of pellagra, and salmon is a good pellagra cure. Why not oysters? This is based upon laboratory reports that oysters contain considerable amounts of the pellagra preventive vitamin and their ability to cure certain skin diseases in rats; not conclusive evidence, but somewhat promising.

Oysters have a moderate content of vitamin C. The calorie group of constituents of oyster meat is rather unusual. Pease thinks it compares favorably with milk. The proportion of protein is much higher than that of milk and the fat is lower than that of whole liquid milk, but the principal peculiarity lies in the fact that the proteins are in certain peculiar combinations with the sugars, and that they have solubilities and other characteristics quite unlike those of other meats.

The fats are more like those of egg yellow than those of fat meat and cream. Just where these peculiarities will lead when we know more about nutrition remains to be seen.

CLEAN SNOW NEEDED.

W. L. S. writes: "It is reported that the Pilgrim Fathers had cold feet. Just how they remedied this I am not prepared to state. But I recall some fifty years ago when I was a small boy hiking across the prairie to the one room district school the mercury was sometimes below zero and I was troubled with cold feet. Many times have I sat down in the snow with my back to the wind and pulled off my red topped leather boots and my socks and scrubbed my feet for a minute or so in the snow vigorously, wiped the snow off with the end of my scarf, pulled my socks and boots back on, and proceeded on my way, my feet a glow of warmth. I would not be troubled that way for the rest of the day. I realize your readers in Florida would not be able to apply that remedy. That is their misfortune.

REPLY.

MAY NEED OPERATION.

Mrs. J. H. writes: My mother has gravel in the bladder. What is best to be done? She has had three or four colic attacks so far which have left her weaker each time. She has lost considerable weight in the last few months. She is 61 years old.

REPLY.

She will need to have an operation of some kind.

MYELOID LEUCEMIA.

R. K. writes: What is myeloid leucemia? What is the cause, the symptoms, and the treatment? Is it curable?

REPLY.

Myeloid leucemia is a disease characterized by great increase in the size of the spleen and in the number of white blood cells. Nobody knows what causes it or how to cure it. Treatment by X-rays gives temporary relief.

SALT WATER.

W. M. writes: Is it harmful to use too much salt water with meals?

REPLY.

It is. Salt is a necessity of life. Salt hunger is terrible. At the same time most people eat too much of it. Most good things become harmful when overdone.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Friend of the People.]—I married a citizen in 1906, which, I understand, made me a citizen. He died in 1921. I then married an alien in 1922. Am I still a citizen? I came to this country in 1905 from Austria.

A. H. E.

If the second marriage took place before Sept. 22, 1922, the writer lost her citizenship by marriage to an alien. If the marriage took place on Sept. 22, 1922, or thereafter she is still a citizen.

OVERDUE NOTE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago my husband was employed by a firm of surveyors. When he left he was given a note for salary due him. The note was signed with the firm's name and indorsed by his employer. The firm has since been broken up and the note has been overdue for about two years, with nothing paid to my husband so far. The employer who indorsed the note is now working regularly, as is his wife. However, he puts off payment to my husband. 1. What steps must we take in order to force payment? 2. Can we garnishee his wages? 3. To what extent? 4. If this is possible, how must it be done? B. N.

1. If the maker is a partnership then the members are primarily liable. If the person whom you call the employer was not a member of the firm, so that his only liability would be as an indorser, then it would be necessary to show that the instrument was presented to the makers at the maturity and that prompt notice of the dishonor was given to the indorser. In order to enforce matters against any of the parties court proceedings would be necessary, for which you should employ an attorney.

2. Not without first securing the judgment against him.

3. The exemption to the head of a family is $20 per week.

4. Employ an attorney.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 2, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States and Germany are perilously close to a rupture of diplomatic relations tonight. President Wilson has prepared a warning to Germany, virtually an ultimatum, serving notice that if the projected indiscriminate torpedoing of merchantmen in the newly proclaimed war zones be not abandoned he will recall American Ambassador Gerard from Berlin and hand passports to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. Whether this ultimatum has actually been cabled cannot be definitely established tonight. Although the fact that the President had prepared an ultimatum is known, administration officials refused to say whether it had been dispatched to Berlin. It would occasion no surprise if it should develop tomorrow that the ultimatum is already on its way to Berlin.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American government has information to the effect that the German admiralty has ordered the destruction of all German merchantmen lying in American harbors in the event that war between the two governments appears to be imminent. This information, delivered to the United States on excellent authority, is responsible in large part for the action taken by Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, in closing the harbor last night. The administration is satisfied that the action of a German master in scuttling his craft in Charleston harbor today was taken as a result of the admiralty orders because he believed that the hour had come for action. As soon as the state department received this information extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent the execution of the admiralty orders. Secret service men have kept a close watch on the German liners. At present there are seventy vessels flying the German and Austrian flags lying in American ports.

NEW YORK.—The United States government, it was learned, has made extensive inquiries in precaution against plots and plotters in New York City and elsewhere in the event of hostilities involving this country with any in Europe. The names of more than 5,000 residents of New York have come under the attention of the confidential agents here of the department of justice. Almost any of these could be located and seized at short notice.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander in chief of the American battleship fleet, has been advised officially of the danger of a rupture with Germany and is holding his ships in readiness in Guantanamo, Cuba. His fleet is reported fully provisioned, with adequate fuel supply and no shortage of ammunition. He is understood to be considering the advisability of sending one division to the Panama Canal Zone unless Secretary Daniels believes that the presence of the submarines of the C class, which are already there, affords ample protection for emergencies which might arise.

LONDON.—The first day of the "unrestricted warfare" by the kaiser's submarines saw a heavy toll taken, no less than nine vessels being sunk, with the loss of eight lives and one man injured.

PETROGRAD.—During last night the enemy carried out three attacks against the heights east of Jacobeni, southwest of Kimpolung. He was thrown back with heavy losses.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—On the Rumanian front minor skirmishing operations are reported. The usual artillery engagements are reported from the other battle fronts, with no decisive engagements having taken place.

CHICAGO.—Two thousand persons were driven into the streets and many were killed or burned to death early this morning when an explosion of gas demolished an eighteen flat tenement and rocked whole squares in the lower west side. Men, women, and children, in their scant night clothes, were sent into the biting cold of 4 degrees below zero. Windows were shattered in every building within an area of three blocks. Débris of tin, glass, and splinters of wood rained down. Fire followed the explosion when a cloud of blue flame burst up out of the ruined tenement. The explosion took place in the basement of the building at 813-823 West 14th place. A gas main gave way with such force that not only the building was wrecked, but the street before it was torn open as by an earthquake. A great fissure opened and out of it burst the blue flame. At 3:30 this morning police and firemen estimated that sixty persons, and "possibly more," were killed. It was considered impossible to make a definite statement.

CHICAGO.—When the party of aldermen and municipal officials who invaded Europe in the summer of 1914 gave their banquet to Donald Rose of London the other night they decided to send a message of greeting to James O'Donnell Bennett, The Tribune's war correspondent with the German armies, who accompanied the "invaders" during the early stages of their trip. Yesterday the message was dispatched by wireless via Tuckerton, N. J., and Berlin at a cost of 56 cents a word.

MORE ABOUT BEER.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—While reading an accurate history of the manner of living among the Pilgrims at Plymouth, I find that for several years "no milk was obtainable in the colony" and that it was at a later date that cows were imported from Holland. Until then babies were raised on homemade beer and thereby obtained a good start on the road to vim, vigor, and vitality which fortified them to meet the hardships encountered.

The fine specimens of manhood and womanhood which endured for generations following may be attributed to the rugged constitutions inherited from their parents, who found beer a marvelous health building tonic.

It therefore seems that the best way to build up the rapidly depleting race of Americans of the old stock is to put "a barrel of beer in every home by Christmas, 1933."

Let the advertising agencies drag out the old style soap and soothing sirup advertising matter and again concentrate on the slogans "He won't be happy till he gets it" or "Babies cry for it," with a picture of a crying baby reaching for the "goods."

Some of John Alden's descendents may be shocked to know that John was in the beer business, he having been our first beer barrel maker, or maybe it sounds better to say "cooper."

A PREFERENCE IN HEMISPHERES.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—I have a youngster going to grammar school, and all she is taught in geography, history and literature is Europe. When she has studying to do at home and I hear her lessons all it is is Europe, Europe—until you think that perhaps that's where you're living instead of America. I ask any of you people to pick up your child's history or geography and see what hemisphere your children are learning about. It surely isn't this old hemisphere of ours.

About all our school children know about America is that Columbus discovered it.

UTILITY RATES.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—My gas and light bills are outrageously high, especially since our income has been cut in half. Haven't the gas and light company's expenses gone down too, or are we still paying for Mr. Insull? It seems to me that if the customers would get together and perhaps form some kind of organization we could get a reduction.

WAR WIDOW PENSIONS.

Naperville, Ill., Jan. 26.—There is a plan to lower Spanish war widows' pensions and all pensions 10 per cent. I believe through your paper you could help the real war widows and real war suffering veterans. I say real war widows and veterans because so many are drawing pensions who never saw a war nor got their ills through warfare or in the government service. I take the pension idea as an interest on what one loses in real wars for the nation's honor and protection. To see people get more pension who have not served in a war or in government service connection of any kind must mean "political pull." It takes away the honors from the ones who deserve it.

Government expenses could be greatly reduced if women who marry old soldiers long after the war could be eliminated from the pay rolls. They are not war widows. They do not deserve a pension any more than any other citizen's widow.

I hold that one is not entitled to a pension unless she was a wife of a soldier at a time when he was in a war or in government service. Too many are getting pensions who do not deserve it. The pensions of deserving war widows and war veterans and dependents would not break the government and could be doubled even and not noticed much. But the barnacles and parasites are many. Uncle Sam shouldn't pay a pension to women who marry old soldiers long after the war they fought in. Civil war widows are few. Civil war veterans' second or third wives, who are many and who never suffered on account of the civil war, draw civil war widows' pensions and more than a real Spanish war widow gets. Is it fair? I say no. War widows are not paupers. They only get interest on one-half of their loss to the nation. They should get interest till they die. Enough to live on, too. Please help the war widows. We know you can do it through The Tribune.

CALL FOR A DETECTIVE.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Regarding the mess Dick Tracy is in, I should think that a man would notice long before this whether his coat was ripped or not, and as Stooge Viller had no time to sew up the slit he made in Tracy's coat, how is this going to be explained? I don't think Tracy should go through the experience he is without having that noticed immediately. Several people I know have thought of this, so why not "Chief Brandon"?

LEAGUE CRISIS LOOMS AS JAPAN RENEWS THREATS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 1. — Another of Japan's many hints that it will withdraw from the league of nations came to Geneva today. Dr. W. W. Yen, chief Chinese delegate, sought to nullify any effect on the courage of the league by declaring that to prevent bloodshed the special committee of nineteen must publish a report on the Manchurian dispute as quickly as possible.

League circles realize, however, that the Japanese cabinet is near a showdown with the league on the whole question. The message which came today is understood to have insisted that the league regard Manchukuo as an accomplished fact and recognize the justice of Japan's actions in Manchuria. Japanese delegates here will meet tomorrow to discuss their most recent instructions.

Japan to Be Condemned.

Ten days ago the various league bodies indicated that they faced a stone wall in their efforts to apply articles and paragraphs of the league covenant which allow for mutual conciliation. Recently the leagus has been proceeding under paragraph 4 of article 15, which empowers the league to publish a report recommending a settlement, but in which the disputants have no voice. It is the general feeling that Japan will be condemned under this paragraph.

Because of today's stir by the Japanese Dr. Yen wrote the report committee:

"In view of the very grave situation which still exists today in Manchuria and on the borders of Jehol province, and which at any moment may give rise to serious bloodshed between the invading Japanese and the defending Chinese forces, the Chinese delegation once more requests the special committee to hasten procedure for publication of its final report."

Japs Send "Final Orders."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—An extraordinary session of the cabinet today discussed the phrasing of "final" instructions which were sent the Japanese delegation at Geneva. A foreign office spokesman said Japan "would be compelled to withdraw from the league," but added qualifications.

"It remains to be seen," he said, "whether the league can survive Japan's withdrawal. If it does survive, it will be a greatly changed organization."

After the cabinet had perused the instructions, Count Yasuya Uchida, foreign minister, submitted them to Emperor Hirohito, then telegraphed them to Geneva. The text is understood to have included further concessions for a possible acceptance of conciliation, but it insisted that the scope of the conciliation committee must be limited and that Manchukuo must be recognized.

Chinese Troops Poorly Clad.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—Dispatches from Nanking announce that deplorable conditions exist among both the Chinese volunteers and regulars who are expected to defend Jehol against the Japanese. The war ministry, reporting to the executive Yuan, declares the troops are poorly clad despite the sub-zero cold.

North China leaders point out pridefully that more than 100,000 men have mobilized recently without receiving or asking a single penny in extra pay. Peiping leaders assert that never before have troops consented to obey mobilization orders without first receiving "mobilization pay."

Peiping dispatches report that as a result of intimidation and transport difficulties the Palace museum's antiques and art treasures are remaining in Peiping a few days longer. At the eleventh hour truck drivers declined to function, declaring opponents of the removal plan, alleged to be intended to safeguard the treasures, were threatening violence.

BOHEMIA'S PLACE IN BREWING WILL BE SHOWN AT FAIR

An exhibit showing the economic importance of beer and the contribution made in the past by Czechoslovakia to the development of the art of brewing will be a part of the Czechoslovak group's exhibit in the Epic of America feature of A Century of Progress, it was announced yesterday.

Mayor Cermak, honorary chairman of the Czechoslovak group of the World's Fair committee on nationalities, and John A. Cervenka, city purchasing agent and chairman of the group, signed a contract yesterday morning in the mayor's office for 400 square feet of space in the Epic of America exhibit, to be placed in the Maya temple. The Epic of America will be a series of pageants and other displays portraying the contributions various nationalities have made to the development of the American civilization.

In addition to pointing out that Bohemia was the birthplace of Pilsener beer, the Czechoslovak group plans to show how the native skill in making cut glass, laces, textiles, ceramics, the musical talent of their people, and their skill in lithography have made their mark on this country. In the 1893 exposition Dvorak, who was a Bohemian, was the musical director.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ELECTROCUTED

J. A. SIBRAVA.

A loose 23,000 volt wire about which Joseph A. Sibrava, 47 years old, had complained nearly two weeks ago, caused his death by electrocution early yesterday. The accident occurred in the rear of his home at 2343 South East avenue, Berwyn.

The wire, apparently loosened by the wind, fell while Sibrava was at breakfast. It touched the wire fence in back of his home, charging it and also charging wire fences of several neighbors. Wooden posts supporting these fences caught fire.

Sibrava's sons, George, 18 years old, and Robert, 13, went into the yard Sibrava hurried to the rear door to warn them. In opening the door, he touched the wire fence, a foot away and fell dying to the ground. Robert hastened to his aid. He was shocked and held fast. The older brother, safeguarded by rubber boots, dragged both from the fence. Sibrava died a short time later. Robert was not seriously burned.

According to Frank J. Pohnan, a brother-in-law of Sibrava, the high tension wire, belonging to the Public Service company, became loose eleven days ago. It flapped against a telephone wire. Sibrava, he said, notified the telephone company, and telephone repairmen responded. They said the fault was the service company's and promised to report it to that company.

District Attorney May Keep Office.

The commissions of Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson and United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, both recess appointees of President Hoover, who have not been confirmed by the senate, will expire, under the law, at noon on March 4, when the present senate dies. The federal judges have authority to appoint an acting district attorney, but the judgeship will be vacant until President Roosevelt makes another appointment.

It was reported at the federal building yesterday that the other federal judges—George A. Carpenter, James H. Wilkerson, Charles E. Woodward, and John P. Barnes, are contemplating the appointment of Mr. Green as acting district attorney pending action by the new administration.

No definite word has been forthcoming as to what appointments President Elect Roosevelt will make, but there have been reports that Senator James Hamilton Lewis would not oppose the reappointment of Mr. Green, whose selection by former Senator Otis F. Glenn was looked upon as nonpolitical.

Judge Johnson, former district attorney, also was Senator Glenn's choice for the judgeship, and his appointment by President Hoover was regarded as a reward for his conviction of Al Capone and other gangsters and crooked politicians on charges of violating the income tax laws. His identification with the Deneen Republican faction, however, is expected to make him an unlikely choice of the Democrats.

DE VALERA PLANS TO ABOLISH OATH WITHIN 3 MONTHS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 1.—(AP)—President De Valera said tonight that "the oath of allegiance to the crown will disappear from the constitution within the next three months."

He also said the Irish Free State is ready to resume negotiations with the United Kingdom, under certain conditions, with a view to ending economic differences.

"The British ministers are aware of our desire for a just settlement of the financial dispute. We are ready to resume discussions when they are prepared to negotiate seriously," he said.

"I am not in a position to say if the British sufficiently appreciate the significance of the election results and realize that the hope hitherto held of a surrender on the part of the Irish Free State is vain. Consequently, I cannot estimate the probability of the reopening of the negotiations.

"The question of the partition of Ireland being made a prominent issue in Anglo-Irish negotiations depends on the scope of the negotiations. There can never be a final settlement or true peace between Ireland and Britain while the British government keeps Ireland divided.

"The republic was not an issue in the election. But the poll's result has undoubtedly brought it nearer to realization. We would leave the determination of the future status of the country to the people's vote."

The measure abolishing the oath has been passed by the dail, but rejected by the senate. If passed again by the dail it will become law irrespective of the senate.

J. C. DAVIS JR. IS NAMED IN LOVE SUIT FOR $100,000

The praecipe of a $100,000 damage suit against James C. Davis Jr., 424 Diversey parkway, son of the late James Carey Davis, vice president of the American Steel foundries, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday. The plaintiff was Chester Schram, 23 years old, clerk in an Evanston drug store.

Attorney C. W. Mead, counsel for Schram, said the suit would charge Davis alienated the affection of Schram's wife, Louise, 19 years old, 1118 North State street. Davis could not be reached last evening.

Mrs. Schram has a divorce bill pending in the Superior court in which she charges her husband with cruelty. Attorney Mead said yesterday that Davis has a divorce suit pending in Reno, Nev., against his wife. By the terms of his father's will, Davis was specifically denied any share in the $400,000 estate.

PROMPT REPEAL ROOSEVELT AIM, IT IS REVEALED

Jobs Would Be Withheld to Insure Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Congressmen and senators will not get any plum pie from the Roosevelt administration until they put over a repealer of the 18th amendment and other legislation on the Roosevelt program, it was indicated here today.

The President elect is specially intent, it was said, to make certain that the dry congressmen, and those on the fence, will cast their votes for the prohibition repealer, and since it has been practically conceded that a special session of congress will be called early in April, the President elect probably will hold up many job awards until after that time. Mr. Roosevelt has had experience in the New York legislature with assemblymen who promised support for legislation, were given jobs for their followers, and then made an about face on their legislative stands.

Economy Action Sought.

Mr. Roosevelt also has in mind, it was learned, that some congressmen will be inclined to balk against voting for his economy program, involving the abolishment of many posts which might be filled by Democratic henchmen, and in this respect, too, he is desirous of holding as strong a whip hand as possible over congress. He is said to feel that in the beginning of his administration he will have a better chance than later to put over his legislative program, and has planned to submit promptly several major portions of his governmental reorganization setup.

Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, looming as a possible member of the cabinet as either secretary of state or secretary of commerce, this afternoon joined Mr. Roosevelt at the warmth of his fireside, shutting out a miserably rainy day. Senator Hull, who declined to discuss the purposes of his interview with the President elect, remained for dinner with Prof. Raymond Moley, the Roosevelt economic adviser, joining the group later.

Dunham to Visit Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that his visitors tomorrow will inclue Robert Dunham of Chicago, who amassed a fortune through his invention of a process for cracking gasoline. Mr. Dunham has been reported in line for the ambassadorship to Germany.

The President elect indicated today that he would require that ambassadors receiving appointments be able to speak the language of the country to which they are assigned. He recalled several incidents in which American diplomats had been embarrassed because of their inability to converse with the people of the nations in which they served the American government.

Mr. Roosevelt also was reported of the opinion that the world economic conference could not be held until June 1 at the earliest. He has declined to comment as to whether the impending conversations with the British government, scheduled to take place in Washington in March, could possibly be completed before the world economic conference is held. It has been made to appear that the debt issue is so closely related, especially in the Roosevelt foreign program, with other world problems that the feasibility of settling any debt owed this country by a foreign nation is placed in much doubt.

COURT REJECTS LEGISLATOR'S BANKRUPT PLEA

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed a decision in which Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger refused to grant a discharge in bankruptcy to Charles A. Beggs, a Wisconsin state representative. Beggs filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on Feb. 20, 1931, in which he listed as assets $200 in Liberty bonds, $200 in clothing, and $14 equity in an automobile. All these items are exempt property that cannot be taken from the bankrupt. Also listed as an asset was an insurance policy which, according to the petition, had no cash surrender value.

Officials of the First National bank of Rice Lake, Wis., which held a judgment of $170, objected to the discharge from bankruptcy. They offered evidence that Beggs had borrowed $583 on his insurance policy several days before the bankruptcy action was started. Beggs used the money, the bank officials said, to purchase the Liberty bonds and his clothing.

It was learned that Beggs turned over an assignment for $170 due him from the state as salary to the law firm of which his son is a member. The law firm acted as Beggs' attorney in the bankrupt case.

Congress Hotel Pays Last of Bonds; Now Debt Free

The Congress hotel yesterday paid the last installment of its bonded indebtedness, a payment of $43,000. The original bond issues on the hotel amounted to more than $3,000,000 and have been retired over a period of 11 years. The hotel is now free of all indebtedness, according to H. L. Kaufman, president.

PINCHOTS ENTERTAIN MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT AT 'RELIEF' DINNER

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot tonight served a dinner at the executive mansion in honor of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President elect, from materials purchased from a commissary of the idle. The total cost of the meal, exclusive of a dessert of ice cream, was $2.72 for the fifty diners, or 5½ cents for each diner.

The food was bought from the community market at York, maintained with state and federal funds by the York county relief board.

Black bean soup, sticks of corn bread, cabbage rolls stuffed with salmon and rice, bread sticks of whole wheat flour, hamburger steak in white corn meal shells, spinach, apple and orange salad desert.

The prices paid and the community market rates for the dinner were as follows:

Twelve eggs, 17 cents; three dozen oranges, 36 cents; six pounds of beans, 11.1 cents; five pounds of cabbage, 5 cents; three pounds of salmon, 25 cents; one pound of rice, 3 cents; two pounds of corn meal, 3.2 cents; ten pounds of beef, 85 cents; 5 pounds of onions, 5 cents; 10 pounds of spinach, 50 cents; five pounds of apples, 5 cents; two pounds of lard, 11.5 cents; three quarts of milk, 15 cents. Total—$2.72.

CRUSADERS DRAW PLANS FOR LOCAL LIQUOR CONTROL

Urge Each Community to Pass Laws.

"Let the people in each state and its subdivisions determine what the new liquor laws will be."

This is the broad principle under which the Crusaders, national anti-prohibition organization, approaches the regulatory legislation in Illinois and other states, which is impending as a result of the near beer laws and the prospective repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"We have not set up any plan of control which we advocate," said Col. I. L. Reeves, western director of the organization, yesterday. "We are ready to offer help and data. We do not sponsor a standardized method. The control will return to the states. Let each state evolve its own plan, one that most nearly meets its own requirements. Otherwise we will have laws that will not be enforced.

For Nonpartisan Rum Control.

"Nonpartisan commissions should be set up in each state and should be made responsible for the enforcement of the laws in that state. These should be removed as far as possible from politics.

"The laws should be as free as possible from petty restrictions. Take the question of minors. It is agreed that there are flagrant violations of the liquor laws now by minors. As a prohibition administrator I have raided places where I have seen 150 high school boys and girls drinking. If we prohibit minors from buying the new beer they will be in a worse position than they are now. I would set the age of a minor for the purposes of this law at 18.

"There will be two general classes of places, those where beer may be bought and carried away, and those where beer may be consumed on the premises. I think the working man's club should be restored, but under restrictions, such as no standing bar. This will cut down the custom of treating, although I would have no law against treating, for it would not be obeyed. There should be no hiding behind swing doors and blinds. It should be run as a legitimate business, on the order of the old army canteen. When they were closed the soldiers were driven into dens, and the crime problem became serious.

Reveal Plan to Bar Saloons.

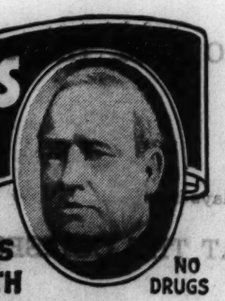

"One of the principles of our platform is opposition to the return of the saloon. We suggest a feature which we believe vital to the preservation of this principle. For example, a restaurant or hotel would be restricted in its gross alcoholic beverage sales to an amount equal to 25 per cent of its gross food sales. Any violation of this would bring about an automatic revocation of the license. This should prevent any place operating under a license from gradually drifting into a liquor selling institution which might be deemed a saloon.

"Local option should be permitted whether the beer is intoxicating or not, and we are informed that the proposed new 3.2 per cent beer compares favorably with pre-war beers. Let the people determine what they want, whether by states, municipalities or subdivisions. There should be a provision that a license to sell would not cover both drinking on the premises and carrying away. Drug stores should be allowed to sell in original containers to be carried home. No brewer or wholesaler should be permitted to have any interest, direct or indirect, in any retail liquor business."

Spinning Art Being Revived by Chicagoan

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

In the low whirr of a spinning wheel at 1922 West Adams street these twentieth century days lies one of the paradoxes of the depression. It was economic necessity that turned back the calendar more than a century for Mrs. W. F. Conlon and made her an authority on the art of Priscilla Alden and her contemporaries. No artist, though, ever bent more enthusiastically to lessons.

In the last two years months of research and weeks of practice have perfected her in every phase of the industry that has played so important a part in the progress of nations; that has built some countries to wealth, precipitated wars in the past, and may again in the future. The historic and artistic side of spinning has proved as fascinating to its newest devotee as the practical part.

Any day now friends dropping in at the Conlon home are likely to find their hostess busily at work at one of the stages of evolving soft, fleecy yarn out of virgin wool shipped to her just as it is sheared from her own flock of sheep on an Indiana farm. The difficulty of disposing of that wool first convinced the Chicago woman that learning to spin would be the only solution of her problem of turning that wool to account.

"There hasn't been any real market for wool in the last few years," she said. "So I just decided that we'd have to use it ourselves if it wasn't to prove a dead loss."

Since her resolve was made she has sought out instructors and studied each step in the procedure from the shearing of the sheep until a sweater of the finest quality yarn was slipped over her baby daughter's head or a hand knit blanket tucked around her as she lay in her crib. Now she spends many hours each day on some phase of these activities. She washes the wool in her own kitchen, cards it, "slivers" it, spins it into yarn, and then knits the yarn into the finished article.

"Washing is tremendously important," she explained. "In pioneer days the settlers washed their sheep before shearing, which is the ideal way, as it preserves most of the natural oil. This wool is washed as the second step, however, and contains about 25 per cent of the oil, which is an excellent product in itself and was used in the old days as a base for cosmetics. The commercial methods of washing wool employ chemicals to reduce expense, and consequently much of the oil is lost.

"The hand method would be so expensive, however, that, although this wool is naturally better than factories use, it could not be marketed in competition with manufacturers because it would cost twice as much to produce. It is a slow process."

Carding the wool, which means combing it out between two wooden brushes studded with curved metal bristles, is the most tedious and laborious part of the process. But it leaves the tangled masses clean and light as thistledown. It is then patted between the brushes into the long, slender roll known as a "sliver," from which it is worked directly into yarn on the spinning wheel by twisting the "sliver" between the fingers into a thread after it has been joined to the skein that is winding itself around and around the spindle as the foot treadle keeps the wheel in motion.

Mrs. Conlon, who has described her revival of spinning to various clubs in recent months, is a member of the D. A. R. and of the Colonial Coverlet Guild. Both her grandfather and great-grandfather were civil war generals in the Confederate ranks and another ancestor helped to win Texas' independence from Mexico. Her husband is a real estate man, a member of the firm of W. F. Conlon & Co., and a descendant of a family that has lived for many years on the west side.

Commercial Art Exhibit

Opens Today

Under auspices of the Art Directors Club of Chicago the first annual exhibition of Chicago commercial artists will open today in the Crystal room of the Marshall Field & Co. store. The show will be opened with a luncheon at which Edgar Miller, Chicago artist, will be the principal speaker.

Charles R. Prilik, chairman of the committee, said the purpose of the show was to present to the public for the first time a comprehensive exhibition of the work of artists in Chicago and vicinity, not as a competition, but as a means of demonstrating that these men are doing as fine work as the artists of any other locality. There will be no awards. Photography is also included in the show.

The exhibiting artists were given the privilege of submitting whatever they cared to, whether commercial work or not. The exhibition will be open to the public until Feb. 11.

Good Morning!

Frank Buck says lions and tigers never live in the same locality. Carveth Wells, in his facetious onslaughts on other men's adventures in and movies of the wilds, declares that lions are greatly maligned, and that most of them pictured as attacking humans are really only playing.

In "Nagana" practically every known variety of wild beast, including the tsetse fly, is discovered inhabiting Africa, all being engaged in a sort of concerted action to rid the country of the creatures made in God's image. If the lion in this opus is only playing, . . . well, HOW I would love to see Carveth romp with the devil!

The story's theme is reminiscent of "Arrowsmith." A doctor and his aids go down into darkest Africa to wage war against "Nagana"—sleeping sickness. [I thought it was the name of a girl.] Lined up against them are the superstitions of the natives, jungle beasts, and, though she means the best in the world, the Countess Sandra Lubeska, who is in love with Dr. Randon and who tags him about making a lovely pest of herself and frustrating his plans as fast as he can make them. You want to choke her. Despite her beauty, your heart remains consistently cold to her; your eyes are tearless and there is indubitable serenity in your expression as the natives bind her to a post in plain view and not too far from a riverful of hungry alligators. However, science triumphs in time for the good doctor to save her from her fearsome plight.

The story is weird, incredible and quite effectively staged. Two or three scenes featuring the animals are highly exciting. In one, the beasts captured for laboratory uses break out of their cages and engage in a horrible free for all. In another, Dr. Randon liberates them—to save the life of the lady who has brought them both to such dire straits.

Tira Birell is a fine actress—as she proved in "The Doomed Battalion," but she sure was playing out of luck when she drew this rôle. Melvyn Douglas is handsome, sincere, and moderately convincing as Randon. M. Morita does an excellent piece of work as the brave little Japanese assistant physician who unhesitatingly lays his life on the altar of science.

Everett Brown as Nogu, English educated son of the tribal king, perpetrates one of the most amateurish performances these eyes have seen in many a day, and is responsible for whole hearted laughter in places where it is not in the least wanted.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

These days when we are firing furnaces and ordering coal, we may be wishing that we had made the coal bin dust tight and built a dust proof partition around the furnace or boiler. Neither of these things is hard to do. Inside the coal bin you can have a man use building paper to the height of the coal. This should be safeguarded by vertical lathing. Above this point fastens the paper tightly all around. Well fitting wall board can be used to partition the furnace room. Not too near the furnace on account of fire hazard.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

DAMON IN THE DRAMA OF DEATH.

"A flickering light, through the partly opened door of Nona's room, made grotesque arabesques in the darkened corridor as I hurried past," explained Carlisle Damon, once famous actor.

Prof. Fordney smiled at his friend's impatience. The three men were discussing the tragedy that had occurred in the cheap boarding house a few doors from the actor's room.

Nothing had been touched, so Damon declared, until the arrival of Kelley and Fordney who saw, in the dim rays of a small electric lamp standing on a night table, the body of Nona Nason lying across the bed, a knife in her heart. The door offered the only means of escape from the room. The girl's hand, clutching the dagger, pointed to suicide.

"I had just passed her door when I heard a groan, hollow and sepulchral," continued Damon. "I turned. Those flickering shadows seemed a portent of death! Then a long shuddering sigh! Cold sweat stood on my forehead but I squared my shoulders and entered. She was dead! Poor girl! I suppose she found the battle too tough and . . ."

"I'd swear to that."

"Cut it out," bellowed Kelley. "Either some one did leave her room, you've made an inaccurate statement or you're involved in the murder!"

WHY DID KELLEY MAKE THIS ACCUSATION?

Y. M. Hotel Chorus Presents an Effective and Spirited Concert

Twenty men constituting the Y. M. C. A. Hotel chorus appeared at Kimball hall last night under the direction of Jacques Homier and demonstrated in a varied program that they know considerably more than the first principles of choral singing. This would seem to be a matter redounding to the credit both of Mr. Homier as trainer and themselves as material to be trained. They have a good, sturdy, and well balanced tone, between first tenor and second bass they have quite as much range as any male chorus requires, and they are controlled, exact, and expressive in its use.

Their program covered a wide range. After an absence of nearly a year, John McCormack is coming back to Orchestra hall for one of his half classic, half popular, all delightful song recitals. The event will take place on the afternoon of Sunday, Feb. 12, and the seat sale will open today.

First Spring Clothes Await Wise Shopper

Sprightly Coats Attract Attention.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Possibly your mind is completely jumbled with facts from the glib, silver tongued orators of the automobile show. You may be mumbling about complex technical details and still be in the dark as to what, when, and why the dual downdraft carburetors and other mystifying interior decorations of the 1933 super something in the way of luxurious new cars, but the sightseeing expedition that really informs you and keeps you excited is the shopping trip for new spring clothes.

You'll see some sprightly new spring coats . . . the first few daring creations featuring new, interesting fabrics such as woolens that look like old fashioned homespuns or basket weaves.

Notice the new chest protectors—the fur covered lapels or wide revers . . . one stunning battleship gray spring coat is made with a round neckline without a bit of fur at the back, but luxurious silver fox covers two wide swanky revers.

Some other interesting fabrics are heavily crinkled and puckered wools, in gray checks with black checks as a contrast. Most of these coats are furless and are to be worn over the newly arrived tailored suits. Neck scarfs in vivid shades and stripes are supplied to tie cozily around the unfurred necklines.

Suits have already stormed the town . . . every fashion wise shop is showing some of the most stunning models any suit fancier ever dreamed about. They will show you the very new combinations, such as one knockout model that is a three piece costume. The skirt is straight, slender and tremendously smart, being made of dull black wool crossed with narrow white bars in small squared formation. With this skirt you wear a pale chartreuse silk shirt blouse that is anchored around the waistline with a belt of the same material of the shirt. The long, slim, swagger coat is made of dark oxford gray wool and tops one of the smartest combinations any suit collector could possibly demand.

Another long, swagger coat costume features a vertically striped wool coat, the stripes being narrow, pale gray, pencil-like lines. The coat is made with a yoke and buttons high and close around the throatline. With it you can wear a pale silver gray blouse, or a brilliant tangerine or old gold sweater, or the fresh crisp new pique sleeveless vest blouses in either white or colors. The very straight, smart skirt is of dark iron gray . . . other skirts can be alternated with this sort of a costume.

Short jacketed suits of men's wear material have arrived in great numbers . . . look for the herringbone mixtures in dark gray and a new spicy brown shade, both cleverly accented with white. The coats are short and snappy, reaching the hipline . . . you can buy double breasted models or the chtaway affairs with all the pockets and the impeccably tailored collar that always tests the skill of an expert designer.

Black and white checked wool suits are as fascinating as ever . . . see the impudently fashioned new models, with short form fitting jackets and straight, slim skirt. And either jacket or skirt can be worn with other contrasting colored skirts or jackets all during the spring and summer months. And if you need a change of winter costume try a checked suit under your winter coat for good results.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Pictures of the new Temple of Music, to be erected this spring by the dollar contributions of 100,000 Friends of Music, have just been released by the organization.

The building will stand not far from the Adler planetarium, which will bring it into proximity with the Shedd aquarium and the Field museum. This is a change from the site originally planned. The first location was to have been about opposite 23d street. This would have been well enough for the musical activities of A Century of Progress, but was considered too remote from the center of the city to be adequate for concerts in summers to come. For it is the boast of the Friends of Music that the Temple of Music will not only be a permanent building, but will be the only permanent building of all those now going up in the group of A Century of Progress. It will be the only souvenir of the exposition and will be devoted to the art of music, just as the Art institute is the souvenir of the World's Columbian exposition of 1893, and is devoted to the arts of painting and sculpture.

A few statistics will make the possibilities of the Temple of Music a little more plain. The stage will be able to accommodate 600 persons. In other words it can house the largest orchestra or band or chorus that is considered practicable in the art of making music. It is also large enough to put up scenery and present opera or ballet of almost any dimensions, although at present the Friends of Music would seem to be considering the project less from its scenic than its musical possibilities.

Beneath and in front of the stage there will be an orchestra pit capable of seating 100 musicians. This has been done in case there should be a performance, choral, operatic, or what may be, where it seems advisable to separate the orchestra from those on the stage.

Then comes the turn of seating arrangements for the audience. One thousand five hundred will be seated theater-wise and covered by a pavilion roof. Around the sides there will be curtains which can be quickly adjusted for protection from possible wind or storm.

During pleasant weather a much larger audience can be cared for. Back of the pavilion roof a raised enclosure will seat 1,500 more, and back of that in turn a doubly terraced space for a further 2,000. Thus the total seating capacity will be about 5,000, and all seats, it is promised, will be in sight and hearing of the stage. Following the idea of the old Exposition building on the lake front during the '90s, the seating arrangements except for those directly under the pavilion will be those of tables and chairs. The Friends of Music make no further promises regarding this last, but offer their seating plan as a matter of hope.

MORT GREEN AND WIFE

Ceremony Will Be Performed at Highland Park; Couple to Go South on Wedding Trip.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN we wrote day before yesterday about Ethel Harmon having no plans for her marriage to "Eddie" Gifford, but being sure she wouldn't be a spring bride, we didn't know that her father, John Huntoon Harmon, did have plans to be a winter bridegroom, but we heard the interesting news yesterday.

His bride-to-be is Miss Edith Boynton, and they are planning to be married a week from Saturday at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Charles Theodore Boynton of 1005 South Sheridan road, Highland Park, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne of St. James Episcopal church officiating.

Miss Boynton's father, who died about ten years ago, was a notable figure in the commercial life of Chicago and the family is one of the most prominent in Highland Park. The Harmons, too, are well known Highland Park residents. In addition to Ethel, who made her debut in 1927, and whose engagement to Edmund M. Gifford of Highland Park was announced by her father last April, Mr. Harmon has two other children, a son, John H. Jr., who was graduated from Princeton last June, and a daughter, Emily Boulton, who is just entering her teens.

Mr. Harmon's brother, Arthur Loomis Harmon of New York, is visiting in Highland Park now and presumably will stay on for the wedding, which will be small and attended only by the families. Another brother, Hubert P. Harmon, and his wife and family also live in Highland Park. Miss Boynton has a sister, Mrs. Everett L. Millard, and a brother, Donald S., both of Highland Park. Mr. Harmon and his bride will go to Florida on their wedding trip.

Luncheons for Titled Englishwomen.

Two interesting affairs on Saturday's calendar of social events are luncheons for the two titled Englishwomen who will be here over the week-end, the Hon. Victoria Sackville-West and Lady Colfax—we should mention Lady Colfax first, probably, but since this is a democracy we refuse to bother with "sech" things.

The luncheon for the distinguished novelist will be given by Mrs. Robert R. McCormick at her Astor street residence and that for Lady Colfax will be given by Mrs. Howard Linn of 55 Cedar street. The Hon. Victoria arrives tomorrow night from Montreal and will be at the Drake hotel that night, where she is to talk on "Changes in English Social Life" Saturday morning at a Town Hall lecture. Her husband, Harold Nicolson, also a well known English writer, comes to town on Saturday and he and his wife will go to Lake Forest that afternoon to spend the week-end with the John P. Kelloggs, who visited them in England several months ago.

P. E. N. Club to Give Dinner.

The English couple will be back in the city, however, by Sunday night, for plans were completed yesterday for a dinner the Chicago branch of the P. E. N. club will give for the Nicolsons that night at the Casino. This will be the first party the club has had because Arthur Meeker Jr., the secretary, has been away and the executive committee thought it best to wait until he returned before starting their party-giving; meetings have been held regularly, of course, ever since the branch was formed late last spring.

Miss Fanny Butcher is president of the Chicago branch of this international society, of which the late John Galsworthy was international president. There are two other branches in the United States, the New York one headed by Robert Frost and the San Francisco one by Gertrude Atherton. There are branches in all the capitals of the world.

The executive committee of the Chicago branch numbers in its membership, in addition to Miss Butcher and Mr. Meeker, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and her sister, Mrs. Cecil Barnes; Miss Harriet Monroe, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, David Hamilton, who has moved to Detroit, and George Dillon, the young poet who was awarded a Guggenheim fellowship which has taken him to Europe. Monday night the Hon. Victoria and her husband will debate at the Sinai temple on "Marriage."

Lady Colfax arrives from New York tomorrow with David Adler, whose house guest in his chic home on North State street she will be during her brief visit to Chicago. She will leave on Sunday for the west coast. Mrs. Arthur Meeker will entertain at dinner for Lady Colfax tomorrow night and there are other things planned for her, but they will not be definite until she and Mr. Adler reach the city.

Needlework Guild Meets Today.

An important event on today's social calendar is the meeting of the Needlework and Textile guild, which will be held at 3 o'clock in the Allerton galleries of the Art institute. Miss Elizabeth McCormick will talk informally on "Explanation of Recent Importations of Costume," after which there will be a private view of her collection of rare old costumes and then tea will be served.

Today at the second causerie of the Alliance Francaise Mrs. Carter Harrison will be co-hostess with Mrs. Moise Dreyfus. During the afternoon, while the members are sewing for the Red Cross, Mme. Garibaldi will read French short stories and following tea Mrs. Helen Walton will recite a group of French poems.

The Harvard-Yale-Princeton club annual dinner tonight promises to be one of the gayest in years. About one hundred members are expected and they will arrive in the early evening to watch Harry Boakes Jr. of the University club and Louis Volpe of the Lake Forest Winter club in an exhibition squash match.

The members will have a few matches among themselves before dining. "Bill" Graff will play the piano and "Squirrel" Ashcraft again will delight his many admirers by his excellent manipulation of the accordion.

Every one interested in the Friends of Music will be glad to know that Princess Galitzine, the former Josephine Dennehy, is speaking over the radio tonight at 6:45 o'clock. She will tell about the progress of the undertaking to raise funds to build the Temple of Music.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk, Mrs. Charles G. King, and Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw are helping the pupils of Miss Harris' school dispose of the tickets for the lecture "Cousin Eve" is to give on Thursday afternoon of next week at the Casino for the benefit of the school's charity fund.

Many Parties for Mrs. Nesbit.

A visitor in town who is being entertained at luncheons, teas, and dinners every day by her many relatives and friends here is Mrs. Scott Nesbit of Warrenton, Va., the former Ruth Channon of Chicago. Her two and a half year old son, who accompanied her—her older ones are in school—is "parked" with his Aunt Dorothy (Mrs. Roy Bard) in Winnetka, having a beautiful visit with his four Bard cousins, which leaves his mother free to be with the Bards or her mother and sister in town, Mrs. James H. Channon and Miss Letitia Channon of 222 East Chestnut street, or with the junior Jerome P. Bowes family in Highland Park, or with some of her friends.

Mr. Bowes' first wife, who died, was Katharine Channon, Mrs. Nesbit's sister, and his present wife, whom he married last fall, is a sister of Mr. Nesbit. Mrs. Nesbit has been here a week and will be here another week and a half probably.

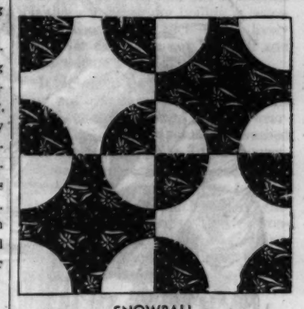

Mrs. Channon is expecting a visit from her other daughter, Mrs. William Blake (Elizabeth Channon Bendix) in April, for the Blakes, who have been living in Paris since their marriage last August, landed at Rio de Janeiro Monday and after two months there they plan to come to this country for a visit.

There is to be a tea the afternoon of the 17th at the Woman's Athletic club with Miss Jeanne Street as hostess. The following afternoon Miss Street will have Miss Cole at tea at the home of her mother, Mrs. Harry L. Street, in Winnetka. On Sunday Miss Cole will be the guest of Mrs. J.

An Interesting Quilt, Call It What You Will

SNOWBALL

BY NANCY CABOT.

When called the "Snowball" pattern, the pieces of this quilt are cut from delicate prints or pastel tints. Like many others, this pattern, too, is known by other names, such as "Mill Stream," "Mill Wheel," and "Water Wheel." In such cases it is pieced of brighter, gayer fabrics. But let's not be too concerned about the name. "A rose by any other name . . ."

For a pattern of the "Snowball" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town for a carpenter. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses a family secret. Ingy sends help and taxies home. Bart learns that the Bayleys have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter left for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake, to guard the secret and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcée, drops in on Bart frequently.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

A SECRET BORNE ALONE.

Lora stood right in front of him, heels together, flashing up at him.

"You despise me a whole lot, don't you, Bart?"

"Because."

Her full, obtrusive lips were right under his. And why did he do that silly thing? Without thought, without reason he leaned down and kissed her on the mouth. Even then he thought of Alice. But the taste was unexpectedly pleasant. It embarrassed him a little to see the color mounting to her cheeks. Gosh, did she mind? She was a sort of cousin of his, and casual girls nowadays should be used to such things.

But she went on talking as though nothing had happened. Only her speech was a little more excited than before. "Have you got over being sore at Ingy Warren?"

The major problems of life had crowded Ingy out of Bart's mind. Then he remembered a faint irritation.

"Sore? I wasn't sore. Only I think you're acting like a nut, Lora. If I were your parent or guardian——"

"Is it because you have a personal grudge against him?" she asked. "Or do you honestly think he's bad for me?"

"Do you think I'm worth plucking from the burning?" Slowly raising her languid eyes.

"I think you're a very sweet woman. But contrary as hell. Even if you were a worm you'd be too good for that bum."

"My second cousin thrice removed," she cooed, "you ought to learn some new words. Bum's faded. Try Snoot." Then, suddenly, "I think you must like me a whole lot, Bart Burgess."

"How do you get that?"

"Who, you and Ingy?"

"Sure." Blowing a long, blue ray.

"My gosh, you're not engaged to that——"

"Well," he admitted, "I do like you a whole lot or I wouldn't work over you so hard."

Then her eyes slitted keenly, and she said, "You don't like me as much as you did before——"

"Before what?" He was going to say, "Before I went to Folly Island."

"Before you lost your heart to the insurance business."

Just then Mrs. Lind came down, a furtive lady, always a little less than shabby in her struggle to keep up with Wyattville. She hurried Lora away. They'd be late for tea somewhere.

But it was well within the picture what Bart saw an hour later driving down to the village in his own runabout. An underslung car, grotesque as a submarine inbred with a racing monoplane. A streak of light and they had passed him. Ingy Warren, inanely preoccupied with his breakneck gears. Lora in her funny green hat making sprightly gestures as she talked on and on. . . . That's her life, thought Bart. And, after all, why not?

That night Mrs. Burgess stayed down for dinner; Bart made an occasion of the domestic tête-à-tête, put on his dinner coat, brought up a bottle of old claret from the cellar. They had moved their chairs together, closing the space where Trevor Burgess used to sit, and for a time Bart strengthened himself with the delusion that the ghost had quit his side. Yet deep in him there was a worry. A devoted son is so knitted into the life of his mother, and Mrs. Burgess was never more upstanding than a vine. She talked about his business, revealed her ignorance, couldn't understand the joke when he satirized himself as the office errand boy. But she was always close to the topic that ground into him.

Because of the secret he bore alone, and his vow that three women should not suffer from it, he felt more than ever tender toward her. He admired her in that dress. It was black, but it wasn't mourning. He liked the pearls glowing in her ears. Yet as he looked at her he knew that she would have preferred to go about swathed in crêpe. Life to her was a conventional symbol.

But, brightened with wine, mother spoke of Aunt Augusta Forrester, a spinster relative on the Wyatt side. Mrs. Burgess took her seriously, as she did all her kin, but without the saving grace of humor Bart could not have endured Augusta very long. She would be back again tomorrow, this time with her trunk and Hero, the little white dog which wouldn't eat anything with pepper in it. Besides keeping the family chronicles, from Charleston to Philadelphia, from Philadelphia to Newport, this elderly person had cultivated a secret vice.

"Detective stories," said mother with a thin note of disapproval. "She hides them under her pillow, and in bathroom closets, everywhere around the house. I can't understand it in a person of her taste and breeding."

"Why not?" laughed Bart, feeling that again he was bumping his head on one of mother's settled ideas. "She's old enough to know what she likes. Give her detective stories if she gets a kick out of 'em."

"Horrors!" said mother, cringing.

"That's it exactly. See Freud. Release dreams. The escape wish. If people can't get out of themselves one way, then they try another. Aunt Augusta prefers detective stories to drug store gin."

"But why should people want to get out of themselves? I never wanted to. I wouldn't like anybody to take myself away from me—any more than I'd like them to take the flowers out of my garden—without consulting me."

"Mother, dear." He laid his hand over hers. "You've had a very happy life, haven't you?"

"Yes, Bart. And people of our sort, with all our advantages, don't thrash about looking for silly adventures. Release dreams. Can you imagine a normal person—a person like your father—going out for release dreams?"

The ghost there mocking him into another lie.

Psychological Tests Can Serve Four Purposes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"The intelligence test is just a fancy gadget of modern education," is a usual attitude. What are the facts? I mean, what are the practical values of intelligence testing?

The test helps schools in the placing of children in the classes for which their abilities fit them. They also help teachers to pierce through the deceitful veil of appearances where a child is doing poor work in school. Instead of the truth being that he is dull, the tests may prove he is bright, but lacks the purpose or incentive to work. In such a case the school tries to find a way to make him achieve success with the work he has rather than to give him easier school work to do.

Another value of the test lies in the line of behavior. At first thought intelligence tests may seem to have no bearing on behavior. They can, however, help in these two ways: A child may become a behavior problem because he is so much brighter than his classmates that he has not enough to do, or is bored. On the other hand, he may be misunderstood or mismanaged because he is thought to be deliberately annoying when he is merely incapable of doing what he is required to do. The tests will reveal his degree of intelligence, and so afford him better handling.

A third way in which the tests are practical is in helping teachers or parents to lead a child into the profession or work best suited to his capacity.

Now, as to the last purposeful use of intelligence tests. It is not generally understood that they were first formulated in Europe to gauge the capacity of subnormal children, with an eye to giving them a kind and speed of education suited to their capacity. Now, the improved tests help in detecting not only normal and subnormal capacities, but also the gifted or exceptional child.

Amorous Men Make Life Hard for the Stenos

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What, I ask you in desperation, can a girl do with an employer who won't keep his hands off her in business hours as well as after hours when she has to stay to finish her work?

"Don't tell me to keep a dignified distance, or to quit my job. Neither are possible, or I should say the latter is not possible because of my finances—and the former because no amount of reserve will keep some men from attempting to fondle a girl.

"I can't take dictation without his hand seeking mine. He makes other advances. He is married, has a lovely wife and home and apparently thinks all girls like the sort of thing he subjects me to. It is disgusting to me—and no amount of dignity restrains him.

"I am helping a sister through school and need every penny I make. There is no other job for me to turn to or I would have left before. My heart aches for the wives of such men. How conceited men are to think that young girls have no more self-respect than to cheapen themselves by accepting advances from middle aged, married men.

"Do you think a plain, outspoken talk with the man would cost me my job? My position could easily be filled tomorrow, and I know it. My work is no longer interesting. It is getting on my nerves. Don't think for a moment I have, or would be indiscreet with him. I dislike him since his familiarities, as much as I admired him when I first took my position.

"I know other girls have gone through this same experience. Please tell me how to handle such a situation—and give these men publicly a piece of your mind, won't you?

"AGNES H."

We think you've done the job of giving a piece of your mind fairly well yourself, "Agnes." You've given Mr. Amorous Business Gent a good idea of what a stenographer thinks of him. How nauseating are his fondlings to a girl of any decent sensibilities—and how said stenographer looks upon said aggressor as a husband. It might surprise some of these imitation Lotharios to get a real slant on themselves and the position of pity in which their wives are put.

As we say, we think "Agnes" has done the picture up brown. We'd only suggest that you mean, silly old fools who pay a girl a small enough salary to take your dictation without asking her to stand for your advances look at yourselves as that girl in your employ sees you.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented weekly by Miss Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 next Saturday morning for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Food questions on what to buy and where to buy it are puzzlers to all of us, whether we hold forth in a one room walk up in the city or have our own country estate. I suppose once upon a time these questions didn't loom so big and fiercely on the horizon and could be answered almost any old way without the bank account feeling the pinch.

But in these times we are learning that dollar stretching is of economical importance. It takes knowledge of foods and food stores; of foodstuffs that are in and out of the market; of brands, grades, sizes, and weights; of how much to buy and how often. And I've found, since merchants are watching prices, too, it takes a wide-awake knowledge of the latest news obtainable of sales, low prices, and good values.

Being a food-wise shopper nowadays means, first of all, knowing the markets and buying food in season—when they're most abundant, cheapest, and best. But it also means knowing the markets so well that when out of season foods drop suddenly within price reach we can buy a box or a pint of them and surprise the family with a Sunday treat.

Then canny shopping frequently means buying in quantity. When room allows, a really startling saving can be made by buying nonperishable foods—canned goods, especially, in quantities. One careful marketer of whom I've told you saved 13 per cent on her canned goods bill last year by buying string beans, peas, and spinach by the dozen or the case. And here again the time to stock in on these canned goods is that particular week-end when the Saturday food prices—the latest news we shoppers can get to guide our week-end buying—announce special sales, good quality, and low prices.

Another penny saving device is the buying of canned and packaged foods in medium to large instead of small containers.

Next, up-to-date shopping means choosing a food store or stores which we can trust to give us the best foods for the lowest prices, to carry standard, reputable brands, and to stand back of them. Also it means choosing stores which will carry the greatest variety of goods with the widest range of brands and prices. Folks nowadays are too busy to shop where only half their needs can be satisfied.

Then food-wise folk are finding that it pays to shop for foods for specific purposes. Learn to buy fancy grades of peas if you want them for company dinners, and standard grades if they are to go into soup. Get small, thin skinned oranges for juice, and big, firm fellows for slicing. And all this means that we must get on a speaking acquaintance with the best known brands, the way different foods are graded, the sizes of cans, and the cuts of meat that will just suit our purpose, pocketbooks, and palates.

And then, most important of all, since prices go up and down just over night, good food shopping means securing the latest news of the best bargains in town at the last minute before we make out our market list.

Tempting prices on butter these days bring these Scotch cookies well within reach of most budgets. Or for a still more economical cookie that is almost as good, use simply a solid, sweet flavored cooking fat in place of part or all of the butter.

SCOTCH BUTTER FANS.

1 cup butter or other fat
¾ cup brown sugar, medium
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2¼ cups sifted pastry flour
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water

Cream the butter and sugar together until fluffy, perfectly blended and quite soft. Sift the dry ingredients together and add to the creamed mixture. It will be necessary to knead the dough in order to work in all the flour. Now roll out on a lightly floured board with a floured pin to one-fourth inch thickness and cut in circles with a fancy edged four inch cutter. Cut each cookie in thirds as you would cut a pie, and separate the "fans" thus made, transferring them to a floured sheet. Brush each fan with the egg yolk beaten together with the tablespoon of water, and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] for 15 to 25 minutes.

Miss Street is president of the Chicago alumæ; Mrs. Lawrence DeGolyer, vice president; Mrs. J. Beidler Camp, recording secretary, and Miss Slaughter, corresponding secretary.

Little Nancy Madlener, the Albert F. Madlener's daughter, who has been so ill from pneumonia down on the Frank O. Lowdens' Sinnissippi farm in Oregon, Ill., has returned with her mother to Chicago, quite thin but well on the road to recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Lowden are Mrs. Madlener's parents. The Madleners want to go to Florida, and though their plans are not definite, they may leave at the end of this month.

Miss Leila Withers and her father, Allen L. Withers, are leaving tonight for California. Mr. Withers will be gone only a short while, but Miss Withers will remain for six weeks visiting friends in Pasadena and Santa Barbara.

Miss Marie Swift, a debutante of this winter, who is studying at Bryn Mawr, is expected home Tuesday of next week to spend a week with her parents, the Gustavus F. Swifts.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Rufus Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Moulding and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rollins are among the Chicagons vacationing at Coral Gables, Fla.

Mrs. Murdoch Wingfield and her daughter, Miss Jean Wingfield, are leaving Sunday for a visit of several months in San Francisco. Mrs. Wingfield is a member of the Murdoch banking family in the west coast city. Both she and her daughter expect to return east in time for the opening of A Century of Progress in June.

Chadwick Party at Palm Beach.

From Palm Beach comes word of the part Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick is playing in the social life of that winter resort, and from what our correspondent writes it is a very large part. Last Sunday night she gave a dinner in the Orange Gardens of the Everglades club for her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. George Djongoroff of New York, whose wedding in France she attended last summer.

Mrs. Djongoroff was the former Mrs. Marcus Daly II, and is a sister-in-law of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany. Before her marriage last summer she was an annual visitor to Palm Beach and the smart winter colony there is busy now entertaining her and her husband.

Mrs. Chadwick will have another house guest on Saturday of this week, for Mrs. Jacob Baur is arriving there on that day to visit Mrs. Chadwick in her stunning modern residence, Villa Today. Mrs. Baur has been with Mrs. Freeman Hinckley in Brookline and in Washington. She will not return to Chicago until the end February.

The Franklin Millers have taken a house at 158 Seaspray avenue, Palm Beach, for the season, and Mrs. Miller already is there. Mr. Miller will join her in a week.

From Santa Barbara comes the word that Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal of Winnetka have arrived in Montecito and are the guests of Mrs. Boal's mother, Mrs. Lorenzo M. Johnson, at Las Olas. Mr. and Mrs. Boal motored to California, stopping in San Antonio, Tex., for a visit.

Bouton McDougal on Florida Cruise.

Bouton McDougal, son of the Robert McDougals of 4804 Woodlawn avenue, is cruising in Florida waters in his four cabin launch that used to be the property of the Studebaker family. Due to his recent illness Mr. McDougal decided on the purchase of the boat instead of a round the world trip which his doctors advised might subject him to strange bills of fare in far corners of Asia and Africa. The McDougals have been at their winter home on Tampa bay since the middle of December.

Hot news from Germany—the resignation of Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher and the appointment of Adolph Hitler as head of the German cabinet—is the reason for a special meeting of the Chicago council on foreign relations Saturday noon at the Palmer house. Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the former imperial secretary of foreign affairs, who last night addressed the inaugural dinner of the Chicago branch of the Carl Schurz Memorial foundation, will speak on "Germany Under Hitler."

Gilbert Ends Big Salary Era in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—With completion of his current picture, "Rivets," John Gilbert will wind up his eighth and last lucrative year as a $500,000 per annum star at MGM studios, while the studio will close its books on one of the most expensive film contracts ever written for an actor.

Gilbert's contract stipulated $250,000 a picture, two pictures a year. This salary continued through more than three years of depression. John never will get even the major fraction of this much money again. Neither, perhaps, will any other film star. In that sense, the termination of Jack Gilbert's contract marks the close of an era—the flamboyant salary era—in motion pictures.

What Gilbert will do in the future remains to be seen. His ambition is to become a director. But first he would like to loaf a little and perhaps travel. At the rate directors are paid here nowadays, even ace directors, Jack's directorial ambition means he will be taking a salary cut from $10,000 a week to something ranging between $1,000 to $2,500, which is what successful directors draw per week.

At one time the actor had planned to go to Europe, but this plan will be held in abeyance because he and his bride, Virginia Bruce, prefer to have their baby born in Hollywood.

Gilbert once was a cowboy in old Bill Hart films. His first rôle was in 1917 in the old Ince film, "Apostle of Vengeance."

The change from silent to sound films changed the chuckles of the MGM bosses to groans, when John's voice proved to have less appeal than his dimples, his big dark eyes, and his curly hair, but John snapped out of a bad start in the talkies, and his "Down Stairs," produced last year from a plot of his own writing, took some of the financial sag out of the studio's books on the account of "Gilbert versus $800,000 a year."

It is interesting to note that Gilbert's film career has outlasted that of each one of his four successive wives, all of whom were actresses and active in the profession when John married them.

None of the four ex-Mrs. Gilberts is any longer active in the films. They were Olivia Burwell, Leatrice Joy, Ina Claire, who is, of course, still busy on the stage, and Virginia Bruce. Miss Bruce gave up her MGM contract and announced her retirement several months ago after finishing "Congo."

Mae Clarke, who is leading woman in "Rivets," says her ex-sister-in-law, Fanny Brice, ought to get a lot of credit for showing Mae how to dress to best advantage and how to sing for the public.

Evening Wraps from Paris Ateliers Stop at the Waist or Just Below

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The floor-length evening cloak is worn in Paris only when the evening is very grand and formal, and even then some of the smartest women prefer their coats to be much shorter. As styles are on the wing toward spring, the short evening cloak and the evening jacket are more logical anyway, and the French woman is a creature of clothes logic.

Generally when a jacket is worn, it matches the dress in color, though there is no style law about it. However, unless you are divinely tall it is better that any short wrap you wear match your dress, as a break in color cuts your height, optically speaking.

The jacket at the top is made of red velveteen, ties on surplice fashion, and ends at the waistline. The sleeves are gathered and tucked into bands and puffs and ruffles where they end just below the elbows.

Egg Masks Not for Gals with Dry Complexion

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A couple of girls tell about how, with an evening on their hands, they decide on a beautifying orgy. A face mask was the inspiration for a big time. Eggs were the only thing handy for the experiment. But the girls didn't know whether you beat them or not. One suggested that maybe you had to boil them first, or fry or coddle them.

Anyway, the girl with the dry skin, the one who rarely uses anything but cream for cleansing, swabbed her face with the unbeaten white of two eggs. She tells me she suffered the agonies of the damned when the stuff began to pull.

Now she'd like to know what you use an egg mask for, anyway!

Girls will be girls and beauty experimenters always, now, won't they?

The egg mask is proposed to erase tiny lines or wipe the skin free of those tired shadows that beset a strenuous shopping face. But it is not proposed for a skin so fine and dry that it can be washed only with a cleansing cream or oil. Better leave all of these masks, in fun or seriousness, to women of husky skins or coarser. A good little home brewed cream facial will do the dry skinned one more good, using her gentle fingers, palm laden with a skin food.

The egg mask is an old form of treatment for those who need it. The yolk and white are separated. The white is slightly beaten, or it may remain unbeaten. It makes little difference. And this egg white is applied with clean, clean fingers, or a bit of cotton, to a thoroughly cleaned skin.

The white remains on until it hardens. But if your skin is sensitive it will draw like the merry Old Nick. Some find it expedient to paint on the yellow of the egg over this white base, but I don't know that this has any benefit, since the white has become a sort of enamel now. The egg mask is left on for a half hour and then washed off with warm water, the face then creamed and lightly massaged.

One of the screen stars told me that, being a brunette, she used the egg yolk for a mask treatment and liked it a lot.

THE STAGE

The Abbey theater company of Dublin, popularly known in this country as the Irish Players, will begin an engagement at the Harris theater on Feb. 26. They will offer a repertory of comedies and dramas, including J. M. Synge's masterpiece, "The Playboy of the Western World," and will change the bill for every performance.

The company, which has had a long run in New York, is composed of the following players: Michael J. Dolan, Eileen Crowe, F. J. McCormick, May Craig, Arthur Shields, Maureen Delaney, Barry Fitzgerald, Kate Curling, U. Wright, Ria Mooney, P. J. Carolan, Joan Sullivan, and Denis O'Dea.

Charlotte Lansing's engagement with the Chicago Operetta company will end next Saturday night. For the prima donna's rôle in "The Desert Song," which Miss Lansing was expected to sing, the management has secured Electa Leonard, a graduate of touring "Desert Song" companies. Miss Leonard joined the company for rehearsals yesterday.

The other members of the cast for this production at the Civic Opera house, opening next Monday night, will be Greek Evans, Forrest Huff, John Dunsmure, Richard Rolph, Nat Burns, George Sweet, James Liddy, Olga Rosenova, Fordyce Waldo, and Marion Palmer. C. C.

Here is the sort of dress you can wear to school, the office, or for daytime. Its lines are very smart, and will be fine when spring comes to wear without a coat. Plaided woolen in a rich rust mixture made the original, and the guimpe was in a plain toning shade of wool crêpe.

The pattern, No. 3336, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material for the dress, and 1⅝ yards of 35 inch material for the blouse.

Chicagoans Awarded Prizes at Meeting of Junior League

Cleveland, O., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—An exhibition of production books, sketches of costumes and scenes, puppets and marionettes has been arranged by delegates to the Junior league conference on children's plays and is a feature of the four day meeting which has brought Junior leaguers from all parts of the country to this city.

Ribbons and honorable mention have been awarded for these exhibitions.

The Junior league of Chicago's production of "The Secret Garden" won a blue ribbon for Miss Gloria Chandler and Mrs. Ronald Chinnock for the splendid book they constructed dealing with every detail of that play.

NO MORE ROUGH, RED HANDS On WASHDAY
New kind of soap easy on hands—clothes, too
WOMEN everywhere are talking about the amazing new kind of soap that saves the hands on washday. No matter how big the wash — how soiled the clothes—there's no danger of red, rough hands when this soap is used.
For the dirt is soaked out of clothes. Neither scrubbing nor boiling is necessary. Rinso gives such thick, lively suds that dirt floats out by itself and clothes come 4 to 5 shades whiter.
It is clear to see that this "scrubless" way not only saves the hands but the clothes as well. Women say that wearing apparel and household linens washed in Rinso suds last 2 to 3 times longer.
Here's another way the economy of Rinso can be measured: cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. They're wonderful suds for dishes and all cleaning. No wonder Rinso is the biggest-selling package soap in America.
Try Rinso Free
If you never have tried Rinso, send a clipping of this offer with your name and address to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. T77, Cambridge, Mass. A full-sized package will be sent you without cost.

BODIES OF 929 BOLIVIANS FOUND IN GRAN CHACO

Reports Say Thousands Being Slaughtered.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The minister of war announced tonight that a Bolivian attack at Fort Nanawa [Ayala] in the Gran Chaco, starting at 10:30 o'clock last night and ending at 12:30 a. m. today, was repulsed by Paraguayan troops, with the enemy suffering heavy casualties.

Bodies were piled in heaps after the battle, the minister said.

The Bolivians also launched a furious counter-attack at Fort Corrales, he said, but were routed, leaving 150 dead.

Earlier today a Paraguayan communique said that 929 Bolivian soldiers were killed yesterday on the Gran Chaco battlefields near Forts Herrera, Corrales, and Nanawa.

Commander Sends Report.

Col. Jose Estigarribia, commander in the Chaco region, reported: "In the Herrera sector were counted the bodies of 215 enemy soldiers and 14 officers. Two hundred bodies were counted at Corrales, while more than 500 remained at Nanawa.

"The mountains of bodies piled in front of our positions showed the indifference with which soldiers of fortune are gaining control of the Bolivian army and are making the Chaco a slaughter house for the execution of Bolivians."

Reports Thousands Slain.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Dr. Arthur E. Elliott, American missionary in Paraguay and president of the International college at Asuncion, said today that the "undeclared war" between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco has reached enormous proportions.

"More thousands have been killed than anybody cares to tell," he wrote in a letter to supporters of his mission here, "and other thousands have died of thirst, starvation, and disease. Each country has 50,000 men under arms.

"Asuncion is a city of hospitals. Thousands of Paraguayans have been wounded, even greater numbers are sick, and Bolivia's wounded are still more numerous. The International college, the National college, the Normal school, and the churches have been turned into hospitals. Young women students from the best homes in Asuncion who have never worked before are dressing wounds, sweeping, and cooking for the soldiers."

Peru Accepts Part of Peace Plan.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 1.—(AP)—In a note to Secretary of State Stimson today, Dr. José M. Manzanilla, Peruvian premier and foreign minister, said his government had unconditionally accepted two of the three proposals Brazil has made for settling the dispute with Colombia over Leticia.

Secretary Stimson had asked Peru and Colombia to settle their differences over the Amazon border city without recourse to arms. Brazil suggested that the two nations conciliate their differences and that Leticia be taken over by Brazil for a short time and then returned to Colombia.

Today's note asked that Leticia be put under Brazilian administration throughout the peace negotiations, "not only at Peru's but also at Colombia's request."

"This would mean theoretically," the message continued, "that Colombia exercise its sovereignty at Leticia, thus safeguarding what she considers a question of national feeling when she urges Leticia's delivery to her.

"With this communication and arbitration proposal, Peru believes she is giving new proof of her love for peace and her friendship towards Colombia."

Hint at Deadlock.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Official optimism regarding settlement of the Leticia situation prevailed here today, although Peru had not formally accepted the Brazilian suggestions for solving the dispute.

Officials declined to comment on a possibility of a last minute deadlock in the peace negotiations. Peru's principal objection to the proposal concerns Brazil's announced intention of delivering Leticia back to Colombia as soon as possible after taking it over. This was taken to mean that Brazil is not willing to be in charge of the port during the negotiations.

Meanwhile a Colombian flotilla remained tonight near Tabatinga, a Brazilian port a short distance from Leticia.

Launch Anti-War Pact.

MENDOZA, Argentina, Feb. 1.—(AP)—This fruitgrowing town, under the Andean peak on which stands a huge statue of Christ symbolizing an unbroken Argentine-Chilean peace, became a little South American Lausanne today as foreign ministers of the two nations met to discuss peace and commerce.

Chancellors Saavedra Lamas and Miguel Cruchaga of Argentina and Chile, respectively, conferred twice today. They announced tonight that Chile will sign an Argentine anti-war pact and plans to send a plenipotentiary minister to Buenos Aires to sign simultaneously with Brazil.

40 Smiling Patients' Welfare at Stake.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Mrs. Carrie A. Post, superintendent of the Martha Washington home for crippled and dependent children at 4448 South Michigan avenue, is looking forward to Feb. 24, the anniversary date of the founding of the Martha Washington club which sponsors the home.

Mrs. Post said yesterday that the anniversary means more than a birthday this year, because the proceeds from a card party to be given on that day at the Palmer house are expected to provide the necessities and equipment for the forty handicapped children in the home.

Smile Despite Handicaps.

"Hello, lady," sang out the child. Then followed a hurried scramble down the stairs accompanied by a creaking of steel braces. A five year old boy bestowed a friendly smile as he hobbled up. A second face appeared over the banister simultaneously with a crash of something dropped from above.

"That's Lolita's doll," volunteered the boy. "I'll take it back to her." He scooted back up the stair with the plaything.

A few minutes later the recreation room at the foot of the stairs swarmed with children. Some of them came along on crutches, others limped, some dragged along a useless foot, but every last one of them smiled at every one else, or called a greeting to attendants.

Go to School in Buses.

"They've just come in from school," Mrs. Post said. "The bus drivers are so careful lifting them in and out. Then they all stop in the kitchen to get a little snack to tide them over until dinner."

The home was founded at the suggestion of surgeons who felt that crippled children needed normal home life and care after operative work.

Mrs. F. E. Weber is chairman of the card party benefit and Mrs. F. W. Quayle and Miss Marie A. Becker are co-chairmen. Mrs. W. H. Vallette is president of the club. Mrs. R. K. Packard, president of the home.

LOSES HIS $10,000 ROLL ON A MONEY MAKING MACHINE

Albany Park police are searching for three men, one a pseudo German chemist, who swindled Frank Wagner, 3933 North Bernard street, out of $10,000 on a money making machine.

Wagner, who owns a malt and hops shop at 3136 Clybourn avenue, met one of the trio, Ray Finalle, last week. Finalle introduced him to the other two, one of them identified as "Silly Willie" and the other as Victor Lustig, the German chemist. Lustig is Frank Gardner in police files.

The bogus Lustig produced his money making machine. He ground $20 bills out of $2 bills and tens out of singles. Wagner was impressed, and when given a chance to get into the scheme for a mere $10,000 he put up the money. That was two days ago. The money, men, and machine disappeared.

UPHOLD KILLING OF BANDIT.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday at the inquest into the death of Michael Giamarusti, 17 years old, 1315 Arthington street, who was shot to death Monday night when he attempted to rob Policeman Albion Jones in front of 1338 West Randolph street.

SALES AT AUTO SHOW MAY PASS $1,300,000 MARK

Attendance Continues Best for Four Years.

BY HAL FOUST.

Attendance at the National Automobile show at the Coliseum continued yesterday and last night to break the records of 1932, '31, and '30, and to compare favorably with turn stile tallies in the boom years.

Sales, while not as great as in the era of easy money, are surpassing the reasonable hopes of the conservative manufacturers. If orders continue as they have in the first five days of the show, it is estimated that $1,300,000 worth of automobiles will have been sold when the exhibition closes on Saturday night.

General Motors Show Popular.

Similar reports came from General Motors' special exhibit in the Stevens hotel. There was a constant stream of men and women through the carpeted aisles between rows of new models, and salesmen were seen taking names and addresses for demonstrations, if not for deliveries.

"There are many leaders in the automobile industry," said N. E. McDarby, vice president of the Auburn Automobile company, "who consider this Chicago show an accurate barometer of motor car business. For this reason the decided demonstration of public interest in the 1933 models has been most encouraging to the manufacturers.

"The attendance at the shows is even more significant than the reports of sales. The crowds indicate clearly that there are large numbers planning to buy new cars this year."

Today Is Ladies' Day.

Today has been designated by the management of the national show as "ladies' day." Exhibits and exhibitors will give special attention to women visitors. Women have shown interest in the improvements, mechanical as well as aesthetic.

At the General Motors show, women as well as men are showing particular interest in the exhibits from the corporation's research laboratories. These include a scale so delicate that it measures the bend in a railroad T rail from the pressure of a hand; an instrument that graphs the intensity of a voice speaking into a microphone, and gauges for vibration.

BRIGGS STRIKERS RAID TRUCK; DUMP PARTS FOR FORD

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Trucks which the Briggs Manufacturing company said were delivering parts for the Ford Motor company were raided in the streets today by men who, police said, were members of the 6,000 Briggs employés who went on strike a week ago.

Two trucks were set upon by the men as the drivers moved from the company's plant. A mob of 300, police reported, scattered the contents of one truck into the street before police intervened, while at another location a few men halted a truck in the streets and pulled the driver from his cab. They were dispersed before they damaged the contents.

The Briggs company, however, declared they were "in full production" again after the strike which forced the Ford factories to suspend when their supply of auto bodies was cut off.

Police, aided by federal and county officials, have begun an investigation of what, if any, communist agitation was involved in the strike. More than a score of men have been arrested since the strike began. Among them is Philip Raymond, one time communist candidate for mayor of Detroit, who was engaged by the strikers' hastily formed committee, to help in organization work.

MINE RESCUE SUPERINTENDENT DIES.

Auto Show Notes

Bert Baston, Minneapolis Chevrolet dealer, all-American football player at the University of Minnesota and an ex-marine with a distinguished service cross, mixed metaphors to describe the motor show as going over the top for a touchdown.

Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, another world war veteran, now president of Stutz, is boosting his Pak-Age-Car as a vehicle that will drive the "old gray mare" from the street. The engine is in the rear and the wheels are individually sprung; modern engineering for a delivery truck.

H. R. Levy, Chicago Studebaker and Rockne distributor, yesterday reported sales 20 per cent over last year.

W. J. Black, Santa Fé traffic manager, told the automobile men yesterday that railroads have stepped up their freight service so a cross-country tourist can ride the Pullmans and have his motor car at the end of his rail trip.

URGES PUBLIC TO QUIT CALLING POLICEMEN 'COPS'

Cincinnati Official Talks at Conference.

Abolition of the word "cop" and a greater dignity for policemen was urged yesterday by John B. Blandford Jr., director of public safety in Cincinnati, speaking at the opening session of the Midwest Conference on Police Problems and Methods on the Northwestern university campus. The policeman shrinks from the name "cop" and that of "flatfoot," the speaker said, interpreting them as terms of derision.

If the public must have a slang term to describe the constabulary, the speaker said, it would better address the policeman as "bobby" or "civic guard."

"The public should have the highest respect for the police force," the speaker said. "In order to attain that end, we must have policemen who are courteous, honest, intelligent, sympathetic, and who have a sense of humor and a natural dignity."

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, speaking at the luncheon session at the North Shore hotel, advocated a new method for the selection of state's attorney. He urged that applicants for the position submit their petitions to a committee of the county bar association. This committee, Mr. Loesch said, should select the three men best qualified and send their names to the governor, who would name the state's attorney.

"One of our difficulties in prosecuting cases now," said Mr. Loesch, "is that the assistant state's attorneys do not have time to prepare for a trial. Many of the cases are badly handled because the arresting officers want to give the prisoner a break and do not coöperate fully with the prosecutors. Then too, many of the assistant prosecutors are mere fledglings in their legal swaddling clothes. An assistant state's attorney should be a man of experience."

The conference is being held for police from the midwest states under the auspices of Northwestern university and the Evanston police department. It will continue until Saturday.

TONIGHT'S GAME.
8:15 p. m.—Cochran vs. Bozeman.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jay Bozeman, the sensational young three cushion billiardist from Vallejo, Cal., hopped back into the thick of the fight for the world's championship last night when he swamped the old champion, Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, 50 to 30, in a record breaking performance.

While kicking the stuffing out of the champion, Bozeman shattered two records of the present tournament. His victory came in 28 innings, which was seven innings shorter than any other game played. In the 13th inning he smashed out a run of 13 points, which is the high run of the tournament. Bozeman had Kieckhefer out in exactly 52 minutes. This was by far the fastest game of the tournament in elapsed time. Had there been any other records to break, Bozeman more than likely would have broken them.

Score by innings:
KIECKHEFER — 0 0 1 0 5 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 5 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 6 1 1 1 0 2 3. Total, 30. High run, 5. Innings, 27.

May Go Into Lead.

After the last cheer for Bozeman had echoed down from the rafters the championship situation was as follows:

If Bozeman beats Cochran tonight he will go into the lead with seven games won and two lost. Then if Layton beats Cochran on Friday night Johnny will tie the California youngster. Then Bozeman and Layton will meet in the championship match on Monday night.

If Cochran beats Bozeman tonight he takes the lead with 7 games won and one lost. Then he must play Layton on Friday night. If Cochran beats Layton he becomes the champion. If he loses to Layton he will be tied for first place with Layton. In that event he will play Layton for the title again on Monday night. Strange methods, indeed, the cueists adopt in arranging their schedules.

Good News for Tiff.

The defeat dropped Kieckhefer into sixth place and moved Tiff Denton of Kansas City into fourth. This turn of affairs caused Mr. Denton, a noted Arkansas squirrel shooter, to do considerable celebrating for it means that he will not have to qualify to enter the championship play next season.

Bozeman was complete master of the ivories from the time he made the opening shot in the first inning. He had a cluster of five to his credit before he gave Kieckhefer a chance to shoot. Augie missed his first try and Bozeman came back with another run of seven. He came along in the sixth inning and ran seven more. Then he made eight more in the next six innings and was leading 28 to 9.

Next came his record breaking run of 13 in the 13th inning, which caused the game to become a complete rout. Most of Bozeman's shots in the record run were easy so well did he play for position. His 12th billiard was one of the great shots of the tournament.

Bozeman's cue ball and the red ball were in the right hand corner at the head of the table about one diamond from each rail and they were only an inch apart. Kieckhefer's cue ball was in the left hand corner at the same end of the table a diamond and a half from each cushion.

Bozeman could not hit the white ball, so he drew from the red ball to the right hand side rail. His ball skipped on to the head rail, went on over to the left side rail, and clicked against the white ball.

Four Short of Record.

The crowd was in an uproar, for the high run record of 11 held by Layton had been shattered. Bozeman made another perfect shot before the long run ended. He was just four billiards short of the world's high run record of 17 held by Gus Copulos.

Bozeman couldn't maintain the terrific pace, but was leading, 47 to 23, in the twenty-second. He missed in the twenty-third, went to 49 points in the twenty-fourth inning, but couldn't end the one sided struggle until the twenty-eighth.

There wasn't much at stake when Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia and Art Thurnblad of Chicago clashed in the afternoon. However, it developed into one of the most exciting matches of the entire tournament when Reiselt came from behind and won, 50 to 49, in the 58th inning.

GOLF FOR GOLF'S SAKE BALANCES CLUBS' BUDGETS

Also Reduces Dues, Gets Members.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The trend to reduction in all golfing items, as exemplified during the last two years, in equipment, green fees, and club dues, will be sustained throughout the 1933 season, the busiest ever experienced by the Chicago district, judging by the advance activities of a number of the largest clubs in these parts.

Economy is not new to clubs of the Chicago district, a number of them having begun the practice at the opening of the 1932 season, and with considerable profit to themselves. Several district clubs will either continue this policy or begin it during the forthcoming season. The inclination to do away with the social activities common among most clubs since the war and conduct the club on the basis of golf for golf's sake has taken hold throughout the country and will be emphasized particularly in these parts.

Midlothian Joins Up.

Not the least of the new converts will be Midlothian, one of the oldest golf organizations in the United States. The principal factor in Midlothian's plans for the A Century of Progress year was the reduction of annual dues from $200 to $125, no small slice for a club of the south side layout's reputation and character.

How well these methods have produced results at Midlothian was revealed yesterday by David Johnson, president of the club, who brought forth the startling statement that since Nov. 1, 97 new members have joined. One of the important selling points in the membership campaign was the watering and drainage system which has been in operation at Midlothian for the last four years. The club showed a profit during the 1932 season, will have no assessments this year, and has already balanced its budget for 1933. It plans to hold its annual derby, a veteran among invitational tournaments, the latter part of May.

North Shore Trims Budget.

North Shore, which on June 8, 9, and 10 will become the center of the golfing universe with the holding of the United States Open tournament, will trim its operating budget from 15 to 20 per cent, according to Ralph Boozer, president of the club.

The plan to trim costs in general at North Shore alone is worthy of mention, considering the burden that will be put upon the club in preparing for and conducting the open. North Shore has not required an assessment in the last five years and plans none for 1933.

Briargate is another north side club which will go into the new campaign with reduced dues, the amount having been cut from $200 to $150 last October, according to Oscar Meredith, president of the club. The greens fees, which were trimmed last season for $2 weekdays and $4 for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays to $1.50 and $2.50, will probably be retained, and a movement is afoot to reduce the caddy fees for the coming year. The curtailed dining room prices in effect in 1932 also are expected to hold over.

The Cut Is General.

Directors at Skokie met at the clubhouse Tuesday night and decided on a general reduction in operating expenses, with a trim in dues a likelihood during the season.

Olympia Fields, the largest golf development in the world, also has announced a reduction in dues, dropping from the $180 of last year to $144 for 1932. The big south side club introduced a campaign of economy last year which already has brought it a number of new members and enabled it to anticipate a fairway watering system on No. 1 course, such as is already functioning on the No. 4 course. The 1932 greens fees of $2 on week days and $3 on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, also will be continued, with special attention to members of out of town clubs visiting the Century of Progress.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SCHMELING AND BAER.

MAX SCHMELING and Max Baer are signed to meet in a 15 round bout in June. It's about the most attractive heavyweight affair on the horizon—even more attractive in possibilities than a return contest between Champion Jack Sharkey and Schmeling. Choice of site for the battle lies between Chicago and New York.

Now The Wake does not think Chicago will suffer commercially or that the Century of Progress necessarily will be a frost if this particular fistic engagement is held elsewhere. It is a contest, however, which in advance appeals strongly to those who enjoy fisticuffs between the topnotchers.

This city has not had many really attractive bouts among the big fellows since the second Tunney-Dempsey affair at Soldiers' field. As a matter of fact, there have not been many really attractive bouts in this class anywhere.

Chicago is distinctly eligible for the coming bout. When the now retired Tunney and Dempsey met here, Chicago proved it was a great city for a big attraction, setting an all-time gate receipts record of $2,658,660. Of course, that record still stands and probably will stand for many years to come. No such gate would be realized in Chicago this June, or anywhere else for that matter. The point is that Chicago and its tributary territory will pay for what it wants to see.

Promoter Jack Dempsey always has been friendly to Chicago. Joey Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, always has wanted Schmeling to appear here because of the large population of German origin. Moreover, he has some managerial grievances in New York. Naturally this pair is shopping about for the site. The Baer party will trail along with Dempsey and Jacobs.

Officially, Dempsey wants assurance the go can be 15 rounds, at present allowed in this state only for title battles. With Mayor Cermak favorable to making the fight a World's Fair attraction and a state legislature more liberal than for many sessions, such assurance should not be difficult.

One unofficial assurance wanted is that there be no "chiseling" of the promoters after announcement is made and arrangements are under way. That is important, as many promoters vending their entertainment in strange cities have found. It was an assurance required by the late Tex Rickard before the Tunney-Dempsey bout. That is one reason why civic leaders and the mayor are brought into the picture.

There is also said to be suggestion of a "substantial guarantee," also unofficial. Whether this is supposed to be an advance for preliminary expenses or a guarantee against possible deficit, by interference, we are not informed. When such guarantees are arranged they usually are underwritten by a coterie of sportsmen or some local promoter.

That obstacle, if an obstacle, likewise should not be difficult to overcome if consideration of Chicago as a site is as sincere as it appears. The Wake weighs apparent sincerity by probability of profit, and Chicago offers as good opportunity on that score as New York.

Because the Schmeling-Baer bout is the most promising now in sight, we'd like to see it held here in June.

Brand Comes Back to Get Golden Glove

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Don Brand of Fort Dodge, Ia. Remember him? One year ago Don hitch-hiked to Chicago and landed here in time for White City Golden Gloves trials. He found lodging with friends, spent his few dimes for barely enough food to keep him going and proceeded to win a qualifying berth in the lightweight class for the Tournament of Champions.

Brand was eliminated on a decision in that tournament more because he wasn't in the best of physical condition than because he couldn't fight as well as his opponents.

Brand still believes he's the best amateur lightweight in Chicagoland. His entry for the White City Golden Gloves trials arrived in yesterday's mail.

"Times are tough and I'm still out of work," Don writes. "But this time I'm going to win a golden glove to take back to Fort Dodge. I still am the best lightweight in Iowa and I'm going to be the best lightweight in the Tournament of Champions."

Jimmy Christy, the young featherweight who flashed superior skill and stamina coupled with a fighting heart to win him a host of friends in the Catholic Youth tournament, is after a Golden Gloves title. Jimmy's entered in the open division. He is now in Panama with the Catholic Youth team, but will be back for Golden Gloves.

The recent investigation of professionalism by the Central association of the A. A. U. has eliminated a number of well known amateurs from competition. Some, however, have been reinstated and are eligible again. In the list released yesterday by Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the registration committee, is the name of Leo Rodak, 1931 Golden Gloves 112 pound champion and 1932 Golden Gloves 118 pound champion.

Leo was captain of the 1932 team. He fought in the international bouts as a featherweight. Others listed as eligible are Frank Sanello, Lynn Thompson, Fred Caserio, George Engel and several boys from East Moline who had been suspended.

Caserio, national A. A. U. middleweight champion and a member of the United States Olympic boxing team last summer, also captained the

Owen, Illinois Captain, Fails in Exam; Ineligible

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Boyd [Red] Owen, captain of the University of Illinois basketball team, is ineligible scholastically to compete for the rest of the season.

Laid up in a hospital for three weeks with an abscessed ear in December Owen fell behind in a course in education and a failure was recorded against him in the recent midyear examinations.

Owen has played guard for three seasons. He also won a football letter in 1930. He is working his way through college, driving a cheese truck in the summer and undertaking various jobs in winter. He is president of the Tribe of Illini, organization of varsity letter men.

Cas Bennett, another veteran and higher scorer on the basketball squad, also is in scholastic difficulties, along with Fred Fencl. Bennett is rated one of the best forwards in the conference.

Faced with these losses, Coach Craig Ruby tonight began to rebuild his five. If Guttschow, sophomore forward from Bloomington, is available he probably will appear against St. Louis Tuesday.

ADD BASKETBALL PERILS; TIMER SHOOTS A GUARD

Macomb, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Lawrence Laedigs, guard on the Western Teachers' team, believes he is the first basketball player to be wounded in action by firearms.

Laedigs was about to get back in the game against Carthage last night, with only five seconds of the game left. The timer had his pistol poised and ready to fire the final shot. As Laedigs started to rush in, the gun exploded. Laedigs was burned about the thigh and will be out of the game for some time.

Joie Ray Breaks Ankle After Dancing 41 Days

C. Y. O. Boxers Win Panama Bouts, 5 to 3

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, C. Z., Feb. 1.—Boxing champions of the Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago tonight defeated a team composed of the best battlers of the army and navy stationed in the Canal Zone, in an interteam match, five bouts to three.

Oscar O'Hanion of Waukegan, Ill., a flyweight, gave the Chicago team its first victory with a decision over Ernie Dapice of Fort Davis. John Ginter, Chicago bantamweight, demonstrated easily his superiority over Johnny Rooney of the quartermaster corps at Corozal in winning the second bout.

Leo Rodak, C. Y. O. featherweight, defeated Mickey Gromach of Fort Sherman after a grueling battle which brought the fans to their feet. Rodak drove strong left jabs to the soldier's face and head. Gromach's nose was bleeding toward the end of the second round. He was weakening and just hanging on as the bout ended.

Sailor Whips O'Connell.

Henry Rothier, C. Y. O. welterweight, had a comparatively easy time in whipping Sailor Rebel of the U. S. S. Chewink. Rothier took all three rounds and landed stinging blows to the head with a powerful left. The sailor was on the floor as the final bell rang, saving him from a knockout.

A middleweight sailor, Al Brown, beat Bill Nurczyk of the C. Y. O. in a slow bout, letting the visitor take the lead, but beating him to the punch. Brown piled up a lead in the second and third rounds.

Marek Loses Decision.

K. O. Snyder, a light heavyweight champion of the army, won by outpointing Max Marek following a fierce battle from bell to bell. Snyder had the edge over Marek until the final round, when the Chicagoan, trying for a knockout, gave Snyder a severe thumping.

In the heavyweight class Chester Bukowski of the C. Y. O. won a decision over Jack Byrnes of France field. It was a tame bout.

The bouts were held at Vaughn field, Coco Solo, before 5,000, mainly service men. As the visiting team entered the ring for their introduction the band played "Wearing of the Green" and when the service men entered it was "Hail to the Chief."

Krause's Basket in Final Second Triumphs.

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—A basket by Ed Krause, shot just as the final gun sounded, gave Notre Dame a 37 to 35 victory over Carnegie Tech tonight before a crowd of 5,000.

Krause, who made 17 points, tipped the ball in after Johnny Jordan, sophomore forward, had missed a long shot from the side, the ball dropping in the basket after the gun had gone off.

A free throw by Leo Crowe a moment previous had tied the score at 35-all. Carnegie disputed the final basket, claiming the gun had failed to go off the first time the timer pulled the trigger. The fans, who had started for the exits, returned for the anticipated over time. The protest was disallowed, however.

Notre Dame led 23 to 15 at the half after the lead had changed hands twice. The score was tied four times in a final period in which Carnegie's fast breaking offense and long, accurate passes drove through the Irish defense time and again for set-up shots.

N. U. FACES WABASH

Northwestern's basketball team, minus the services of Al Kawal, sophomore guard, who has been declared ineligible because of low grades, will resume activities Saturday against Wabash college.

Loss of Kawal is a severe blow to Northwestern, now in the midst of the conference title race. Kawal has been a regular since the Purdue game when he took the place of Moonshower, who was forced out because of injuries. His showing in succeeding games was such that he continued in the lineup after Moonshower's recovery.

Either Moonshower or Ed Manske, a junior, will work into the place vacated by Kawal.

The Wildcats expect to encounter stiff opposition from Wabash, which has a strong record against conference teams this year. Wabash upset Illinois earlier in the season and came within one point of tying Indiana.

BRADLEY SCORES TWO VICTORIES AT HIALEAH PARK

Algeria Captures Mount Dora Purse.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—E. R. Bradley, who recently became a part owner of Hialeah Park, scored a double today, his Algeria winning the featured Mount Dora purse and Broad Meadows finishing first in the Fernandina, fifth on the program. Algeria is the John P. Grier-Jyntee miss which Bradley acquired from Joseph E. Widener.

Going smoothly the entire six furlongs, Algeria carried 101 pounds and won by a length and a half at $10.50 for $2.00. Zorana was second, a nose ahead of Moon Shy, the favorite, which had a rough trip. There was a good deal of bumping in the race.

Bradley Changes Jockeys.

Algeria was timed in 1:12 1-5 and now has won both her starts here. She was handled by Don Mendo.

Broad Meadows beat I Pass a length. Barcelona Pete was third. In his last race Barcelona Pete ran so well that he was odds-on favorite today. Bradley put Jockey J. Smith on Broad Meadows while his contract jockey, Meade, had the mount on I Pass, the contender. The time for the mile was 1:38. The winner paid $7.90.

Sea Fox Wins.

J. F. Sommerville's Man o' War gelding, Sea Fox, made a runaway of the third race, winning by six lengths. His time for a mile was 1:38 1-5.

1931 Golden Gloves team which whipped New York 13 bouts to 3 at the Chicago Stadium. Freddie is considering entering the tournament this year so he may have another crack at Phil Dardell or Mark Hough, ranking New York 160 pounders.

"It's going to be easier to qualify this year in the open division," Caserio said, "for the novices will be grouped together. There won't be so many bouts and the physical strain will be less."

Two boys in each weight in each of Chicago's four sections qualify for the Tournament of Champions. Only one novice boxer in each weight will qualify from each section for the semifinals of the novice division, which will be held in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions.

Forty-eight amateurs in Illinois have taken out licenses as professionals since a year ago. In this list are such former stars as Johnny Phagan, Nick Scialaba, Tony Muscarello, Danny Neenan, Jimmy Ellopoulos, Laddie Tonelli, and Duffy Dvonch. One hundred and forty-two boys now are under suspension.

Entries for the west side Golden Gloves trials at Guyon's Paradise close next Monday. The west side tournament will be held Feb. 13 and 14. All sectional qualifiers in the open division will receive medals and all amateurs who report for their first bouts will be given souvenir buttons.

Admission at all sectionals this year will be 60 cents, including tax. There are no reserved seats. Tickets for the Tournament of Champions and the finals on March 8 will be reserved. Orders now will be accepted by mail. Send check or money order to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill.

INDIANA ENTRY LARGE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Entries for the Indianapolis section of the Golden Gloves tournament are being received in such numbers as to indicate that more than a hundred amateur boxers will be on hand when the competition begins Feb. 9.

Tomlinson hall has been selected by the Indianapolis Times, which is in charge of the event, as the site of the bouts. It is expected that the tournament will cover three evenings, Feb. 9, 16, and 23. All finalists in the eight classes will be sent to Chicago for the Golden Gloves finals later in February.

Among the sport celebrities who will act as referees or judges are Donie Bush, manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Chuck Klein, National league home run champion, and Harry Geisel, veteran American league umpire. All are residents of Indianapolis.

Maroons Face Six Opponents This Week-end

Five University of Chicago teams will face opposition in Chicago tomorrow and Saturday, while a sixth, the fencers, will travel to Purdue, making the week-end the busiest thus far this winter. The Maroons anticipate victory in half the program.

Tomorrow evening the Maroon track team opposes Purdue at the fieldhouse in its first Big Ten meet. The improved Chicago squad, better balanced than last year and with good performers in the shorter races, is expected to outpoint the Boilermakers, who have not succeeded in bringing track up to a par with other major sports at Lafayette.

Saturday Busy Day.

Saturday's home schedule brings the Notre Dame basketball team to the fieldhouse in the evening; the University of Iowa swimming and water polo teams to the Bartlett natatorium in the afternoon; the University of Illinois wrestling team to Bartlett gym in the evening, and the Iowa State equestrian polo team to the 124th Field artillery armory in the evening.

The Maroons expect to win at both forms of polo, while the swimming meet, probably, and the basketball and wrestling matches almost certainly will be defeats.

Page's Absence Hurts Team.

Loss of Pat Page Jr., who transferred to the University of Oklahoma last week, leaves the Maroon basketball team with only two dependable guards, Porter and Wegner. Parsons, Evans, and little Tommy Flinn will comprise the rest of the starting lineup which will seek to stem the attack of Ed Krause and his South Bend colleagues.

The Maroon wrestlers, firmly put down at Champaign two weeks ago, will probably be unable to cope with the Illini in the return engagement Saturday.

Chicago Gets National Weight Lifting Tourney

Charles M. Postl of Chicago yesterday announced this city has been awarded the national weight lifting tournament to be held some time next summer on dates to be selected later. Mr. Postl sent out an appeal to weight lifters in the Central A. A. U. division informing them that the A. A. U. tournament will be held in Kimball hall the night of Feb. 25 and asking them to send applications to him, as chairman, at 312 South Wabash avenue.

IS YOUR UPPER LIP HARD TO SHAVE?

"Tears frequently spring to my eyes when I shave my upper lip." This is what one man told us before he tried the double-edge Probak blade. Now his razor glides over the sensitive spots without a bit of pull or discomfort.

Are you one of the many men who find shaving a decidedly unpleasant task? Do you almost wince when you draw your razor across the tender areas? In short—is yours a difficult beard? If so, Probak is the blade for you. Probak's edges are distinctly different—especially made for hard-to-shave men. Even the steel is tempered for this particular purpose. Try Probak and learn for yourself. Get unmatched shaving comfort. Buy a package tonight.

MAYOR PLEDGES PROMPT ACTION ON BAER BATTLE

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that immediate steps would be taken to obtain legalization of a 15 round limit for the Max Schmeling-Max Baer bout, which Promoter Jack Dempsey hopes to present at Soldier field on June 12, 13, or 14. The state law limiting non-title bouts to ten rounds is regarded as the only obstacle in the way of offering the bout in Chicago.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, has drawn up an amendment to the state law. The mayor has asked Gen. Clinnin to deliver the amendment to him today. Then he will route it over a short cut into the state senate, where Richey Graham, president pro tem., will present it next Tuesday.

Before leaving for Minneapolis, Minn., last night Dempsey announced plans for a lightweight title match between Champion Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross, to be held at Soldiers' field some time in August, probably on Aug. 21. The only hitch in previous attempts to close the match came from Ross, who didn't believe he was ready for the champion. Barney accepted the offer from Dempsey.

Johnny Phagan, former international Golden Gloves champion, is expected to meet the hardest test of his career as a professional boxer tomorrow night at Cicero stadium against Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight. The bout is a six round affair. Phagan is undefeated in six professional bouts. He was held to a draw by Solly Dukelsky, but beat Herb Peterson, Harvey Carothers, Henry Hamburg, Harry Schuman, and Bobby Vernon.

Weinert has lost three contests in 35. He never has been knocked out and has been knocked down only once. Puggy is the type who should give Phagan trouble. He is an aggressive body puncher.

Both fighters finished boxing yesterday without injury.

Considerable interest is being created in the six round semi-final between Kid Irish and Little Pal, featherweights. Irish stopped Charley Cerminaro in his last bout and Pal defeated Jimmy Richards in his latest.

Paul Dazzo did loosening up exercises yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round match with Varias Milling at the Washington Boulevard arena Monday. He will begin boxing today against Joey Bozak, who will appear on the same card against Joey Palazzola of Detroit. Milling boxed several rounds with Bill Reardon at Trafton's gym yesterday.

An interclub amateur card will be offered tonight at Paradise hall, 5139 South Damen avenue. Johnny Liston and Eddie Steigel meet in the windup. Seven other bouts are scheduled.

Johnny Coulon, Rainbo Fronton matchmaker, last night announced four of the seven matches which will be offered tomorrow. Jackie Parker and Mickey O'Shea will meet in a six rounder. Four round bouts are: George Shrosbree vs. Jack O'Brien, Art Mitchell vs. Sammy Morales, Willie Davies vs. Jack Delmar.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, has left for Miami Beach, Fla., where he expects to box on Feb. 14 and Feb. 23. He was accompanied by his bantamweight brother, Tony Shea . . Frankie O'Brien will head the show at White City on Feb. 13 . . . Sammy Levine, west side 126 pounder, started training yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium after a layoff of a month.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gary college defeated the De Paul university freshman basketball team tonight, 38 to 28. Gary led at the half, 14 to 9, but was pressed by a belated De Paul rally, which at one time cut the Gary lead to 2 points. Vowell led the Gary attack with 15 points.

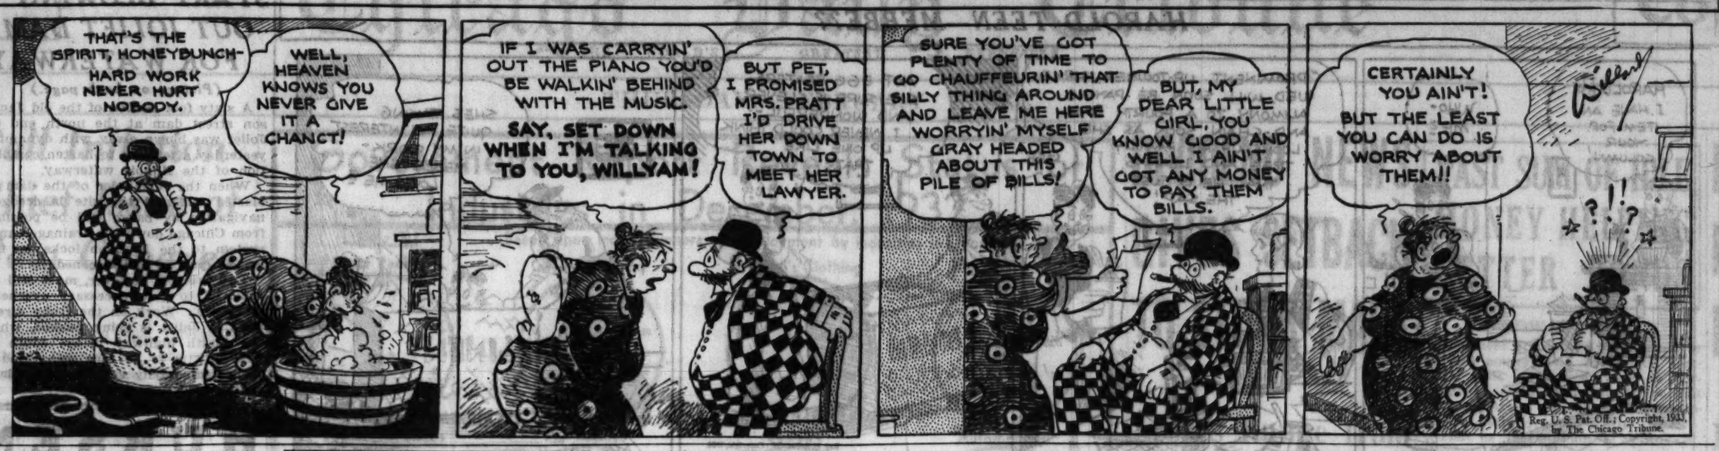

Wilce Admits Offer as Coach from Chicago

Admitting that he had been approached on the subject of the job at the Midway "as probably 20 or more other coaches have," Dr. Wilce today said that he knew nothing definite on the coaching situation at Chicago, and was well satisfied with the practice which he has developed here.

Dr. Wilce was football coach at Ohio State university here from 1913 to 1928, tutoring three western conference champions, in 1916, 1917, and 1920.

MOON MULLINS—MAKING HIM DO HIS BIT

Mount Ida, Ark., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—A stranger with a camera was in this town the other day, asking the way to the Warneke place, which is out by the schoolhouse just off the Norman road, about four miles from here.

The fellow, who said he was an author and photographer from Little Rock named Martin, found Lonnie, the National league's leading pitcher, at home with the folks. It was reported here that the young picture taker from the city had a right nice visit with Lonnie, or Dick, as he's always been known here in the Ouachita hills.

Lon has invested some of his baseball earnings in a 300 acre ranch and he and his pappy are partners in the ownership of a herd of two or three hundred head of cattle, which is branching out some, Lon until recently having been partial to raising hogs.

Welcome, Stranger, Says Lou.

When the city visitor reached the Warneke place he found the homestead perched on the first hill beyond the schoolhouse. It's a pretty nice dwelling, more or less typical of the farm architecture of Montgomery county.

According to what the visitor said when he stopped in at the gas station here on his way home the first thing that Lon showed off was his guns and a revolver. He exhibited his .22 squirrel gun which he's always talking about, the one that a firearms house gave him after he became famous.

When it came to posing for pictures Lon wanted one sitting on Buck, his horse. The horse is gentle but not too gentle and gets along with Lon fine as do his three dogs, all of which made up with the stranger on Lon's orders.

Lon reported he was feeling fine, completely rid of the misery in his back that bothered him some last season and his arm is feeling good, too.

Lon works some almost every day, especially when his pappy, whose name is Luke, suggests it would be a good idea. For keeping in shape he goes in mostly for hunting and square dancing. There have been no reports of the famous athlete sparking any gal in particular, most of his dancing being for the sheer love of dancing and calling the numbers. He is a great hand for fiddle, guitar, and mandolin music, too.

Loyola Varsity Track Team Defeats Freshmen, 43-18

The Loyola university track team defeated the freshmen, 43 to 18, yesterday in a dual meet in the university gymnasium. The meet marked the official debut as head track coach of Alex Wilson, Notre Dame and Canadian Olympic distance star. Seymour Lieberman led the varsity with firsts in the high and low hurdles and the 45 yard dash. He established a new track record in the dash, running the distance in 5 seconds.

Pirates Reduce Price of Season Box Seats $50

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A reduction of $50 each in the price of season box seats was announced tonight by the Pittsburgh Pirates' management. The new price of $150 plus $15 war tax, is the same that was in effect in 1925. The old price was $200 plus $20 tax. There was no indication that any other reduction will be made.

Bush Confirms Selection of Ens as Reds' Coach

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Donie Bush, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, today confirmed the earlier appointment of Jewel Ens as coach of the Reds. Ens, who was one of Bush's coaches while Donie was boss at Pittsburgh, and who succeeded him as Pirate manager, informally was selected for the Cincinnati job during the minor league meetings at Columbus in December.

"'MOIST THROAT' STOPPED MY COUGHING SPELLS!"

"I'm certainly glad I learned about 'moist throat'!" writes Miss A. S., of New York City.

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny "bottles" continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these pores clog. Phlegm collects. Dangerous germs find a breeding place. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

To cure your cough you must increase the flow of your throat's natural moisture, loosening the phlegm so it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely "deaden" the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble!

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of throat moisture and brings quick relief naturally.

If your throat's raw or dry, take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN now. It's safe, even for children. At drug stores, 60¢.

Woods and Waters by Bob Becker

Albany, Ga., Feb. 1.—How these southern hunters do like their dove shootin'. It's one of the major sports down here and the eagerness with which these hunters sally forth for a morning's bombardment will more than likely surprise a northerner who has been unfamiliar with this sport.

Ever since we arrived in this part of Georgia we have heard hunters talking about their "shoots." When you come from Illinois where thousands of sportsmen consider waterfowl hunting a major shotgun sport; where many more thousands of hunting enthusiasts devote much of their time to pheasant and rabbit hunting when the open season is on, and where comparatively little attention is given the migratory dove, you are surprised to hear so much conversation about dove shooting.

It appears as if these southern sportsmen who have few opportunities for waterfowl hunting and rarely if ever get a chance to turn a dog loose on pheasants, naturally have centered their attention on quail and doves, both of which usually are plentiful in this part of the south. However, after seeing one of these southern dove shoots we believe we have found other reasons for its popularity. In the first place the sport is a sociable one. As many as 10 or 15 sportsmen will be within talking distance of each other when popping away at flying doves, thus making a party where you can kid your neighbor and laugh all you wish.

The dove shoot which we attended started when a colored boy routed us out of bed at 5 o'clock. After a quick breakfast with about 10 Albany and Atlanta sportsmen we piled into cars for the hunting grounds. The sun was throwing rich shafts of pink into the clouds when we arrived at the field where the sport was to open up at sunrise. The birds were known to be feeding in an old peanut field. Around this tract of ground was fairly open pine woods.

Several minutes before sunup everybody had a station around this field. That is, each hunter had picked a big pine tree or a clump of brush, laid out shells, and had acquired a colored boy "caddy" to pick up birds.

When the doves started coming in from all directions, some flying a top speed with a strong wind, others zooming down from a good height, and singles skimming low through the pines, the number of shots roaring across the field made us think of the mud hen barrage at Grass lake, Ill., on the first day of the waterfowl season.

The way the colored caddies called the shots was the most amusing feature to us. When one of them yelled: "Righ' ovah yuh, Mistah Roy," it meant that a certain "Mistah Roy" should look out for a bird that was about to knock off his cars. It was a gay party and a sociable one, too. Moreover, this dove hunt enabled the boys to fire hundreds of rounds of ammunition. Thus there are several reasons why southern sportsmen like dove shooting parties.

LA BARBA WILL RE-ENTER SCHOOL; THEN HE'LL WRITE

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Fidel La Barba is going back to Leland Stanford university next September. He came to that decision after he was defeated by Seaman Tom Watson, British featherweight champion, last week. This time he plans to remain at the university until he obtains a degree. Then he hopes to make his mark as a writer.

It will be La Barba's second stab at higher education. He quit boxing as flyweight champion in 1927 to enroll at Stanford. At that time he planned to enter the brokerage business when he was graduated.

The erstwhile flyweight's quest for the featherweight title was not successful. He saw his big chance slip away early this winter when he lost a decision to Kid Chocolate. After dropping another close one to Tommy Paul in Chicago, La Barba returned east to fill the shoes of Chocolate against Watson, Chocolate having been denied admission to the country from his native Cuba.

Civic Course Greenskeeper Has His Woes

The woes of an average municipal golf course greenkeeper yesterday were laid before several hundred coworkers at a meeting of the National Association of Greenkeepers in the Sherman hotel by Harold E. Stodola of St. Paul, Minn.

Even without the interference of municipal officials, who are ignorant of the work involved, the maintenance of the public owned course is a huge task, as outlined by Stodola.

The much heralded "forgotten man" is actually the greenkeeper, his speech indicated. Players who heap imprecations on the head of the course manager when their ball comes to rest in an unlooked-for rut or bounces crazily out of line on the green, fail to consider that the municipal course greenskeeper has "bosses" in every branch of the municipal government, and is not allowed to hire his own men or buy his own material, said Stodola.

The newest problem on city or other local government owned courses is the use of welfare labor, he said.

"Receivers of grocery orders work out the amount they get on the golf course," Stodola said. "They stay three or four days and others are sent out. A crew may consist or bricklayers or bank clerks. Many of them are too weak to work. Some won't work and others can't seem to learn to do manual labor. They have to be watched continually because they have a habit of picking up golf balls. It is impossible to discharge them."

In better times, he said, many municipal courses were able to make a 20 per cent return on the investment. Instead of keeping some of the surplus for poor years or reinvestment in maintenance of the course, the money was taken to support other park projects.

"These government overseers are satisfied with the condition of a course as long as the receipts stay up to past standards, and feel little inclined to pay out money for maintenance," he said.

Loyola Seeks 10th Victory at Wisconsin

Loyola university's basketball team seeks its tenth victory of the season tomorrow night when it meets the University of Wisconsin five at Madison. It will be Loyola's first Big Ten game since February, 1930, when Purdue won, 25 to 20, in overtime.

Loyola has won nine and lost three games this season. The Badgers rank third in the Big Ten conference standings with three victories and one defeat, although Carleton college and Marquette university, nonconference teams, have defeated them.

Wisconsin will have a slight height advantage at every position except center, where it is a tossup. Both Robert Knake of Wisconsin and Harold Motz of Loyola, sophomores, are 6 feet 3 inches tall. Knake weighs 177 and Motz 183 pounds. Wisconsin has 12 players on its squad of 19 who stand 6 feet or more in height, while Loyola has only six on its squad of 15 who reach that mark.

LARSON RESIGNS FROM ATHLETIC BOARD AT IOWA

Professor's Move Follows Break, Blackmer Ouster

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Prof. Henning Larson, one of three members of the University of Iowa athletic board under fire because of the ineligibility of Edward Break and Ivan Blackmer, members of the basketball squad, has tendered his resignation from the board.

It was learned today that Larson resigned on Jan. 4, the morning after a stormy session, in which the board reversed the action of its eligibility committee.

Newspaper Asks New Deal.

Larson was a member of the eligibility committee, with Dean C. C. Williams and Prof. F. G. Higbee. The resignations of the entire committee have been demanded by the Daily Iowan, student newspaper, and petitions circulated among alumni. Its reasons were that "a board divided against itself on a matter of principle cannot function properly."

President Walter A. Jessup confirmed the announcement of the resignation, but asserted that he had not acted upon it.

Conference Denies Reinstatement.

The eligibility committee has been criticised throughout the state for ruling Break and Blackmer ineligible from Dec. 30. On Jan. 3 the athletic board rescinded the committee's action, leaving the status of the two players up to the western conference. They have since been ruled ineligible by the conference and reinstatement denied.

Giant McCarthy will meet Big Glenn Munn, youngest of the Munn brothers of University of Nebraska football and mat fame.

AUDRY CAMPBELL RECEIVES SHARE IN LEITER ESTATE

Granddaughter of Pioneer Merchant Now 19.

In a chatty little conference lasting a scant 20 minutes yesterday in the chambers of Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Miss Audry Nancy Campbell received the legal right to take over her inheritance from her brother, Colin Campbell.

Technically it was a hearing in Superior court. Actually it was the completion of an amicable arrangement in which the granddaughter of Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer merchant prince of Chicago, relieved her brother of the custody of her properties and guardianship.

Testify Across Table.

Only perfunctory testimony was given across the table where Judge Sullivan sat facing the brother and sister and their aunt, Mrs. Joseph Leiter of 44 Banks street. All three were sworn and, after the court had read the pleading in the case, answered questions put to them by Miss Campbell's attorney, Alfred Rogers, of the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt. John C. Slade of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, for Colin Campbell, had stated the facts and assured Judge Sullivan that the action was friendly.

The heiress, a slender girl of nineteen, with silky blonde hair curling up around a tiny brown velvet hat, sat beside her aunt, with whom she now makes her home, and answered the queries of the lawyers in a soft little voice. She wore a high collared wrap of mink over a beige wool dress, brown kid pumps and glasses, which she removed as the hearing ended.

She testified that her brother was appointed guardian and executor of her estate in the Superior court at Santa Barbara, Cal., where her mother died on June 22, 1930. She came to Chicago in June of 1931 to reside with her aunt, and intends to make Illinois her home. She was 19 last June 20.

Brother Is Californian.

Transfer of the guardianship of the estate to herself was asked because her brother still retains his residence on the west coast and spends six months of each year there. Since the income from her share of the Leiter estate, one-twelfth of her grandfather's fortune, is sent from Chicago to California and returned to her by her brother, it would simplify matters to have it delivered direct to her.

Although the estate of her mother, Mrs. Nancy Carver Campbell, is probated in California, it is to be closed soon, Colin Campbell told the court. Because he travels much of the time difficulties have arisen in getting in touch with him on matters pertaining to both estates that would be obviated by giving Miss Campbell the custody. Her share in her mother's estate is placed at one-third of the $2,000,000 involved.

The California law establishes 21 as the legal age for women. In Illinois they are of age at eighteen.

Judge Sullivan said that he would enter an order directing Colin Campbell to turn over his sister's share of the Leiter estate, and also of her mother's, the latter with the approval of the Probate court in California.

GIRL'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Miss Ruth Berman, 27 years old, 1836 South Hamlin avenue, who died from poisoning in a room at the Hoover hotel, 3358 Jackson boulevard, on Monday night.

JIGSAW BOOM IS NO PUZZLE TO MANUFACTURERS

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Why the jigsaw puzzle industry recently has become a booming one, with circulating puzzle libraries and mounting individual sales recorded over the country is no puzzle to the puzzle manufacturers' representatives displaying their wares in the Palmer house. They are exhibiting at the Eastern Manufacturers and Importers' exhibit there.

To the question, "Why jigsaw puzzles?" propounded to several exhibitors, the answer was: "The depression. It's made the populace poor but wholesome. Poverty peps up the puzzle business."

Society Takes to Puzzles.

Mrs. Anne C. Wilmerding of New York, a manufacturer's representative, marked the place in the book she was relaxing on in between spurts of jigsaw puzzle concentration. The book was "The Fountain." Mrs. Wilmerding explained that "The Fountain" was no more puzzling than "Strange Interlude" to persons who understand it. It was easy reading for her after the brain exercise of putting a puzzle together, she said.

"The most brilliant society in New York has gone mad over jigsaw puzzles," she said. "Outside the best rental puzzle libraries the chauffeurs park their mistresses' limousines and go to fetch them new puzzles.

"But the puzzle fans are not all women. Men who have lost their wealth can't endure complete idleness What are they doing? They're working jigsaw puzzles where they used to spend money on night clubs, theaters, opera, yachting and so on."

Revive Old Favorites.

Jigsaw puzzles, made of from 65 to 2,000 pieces of wood, were a fad 20 years ago, then dropped from favor. The present vogue for games extends not only to puzzles, but also to anagrams, jackstraws, backgammon, roulette, "The Three Musketeers," which is a combination of chess and checkers, and such old fashioned games as lotto and the egg-and-spoon race.

"These wholesome games are bringing people together in informal, neighborly parties," Mrs. Wilmerding said. "They are for adults now, and adults meet in groups and play. Perhaps misery loves company. But games make you forget hard times."

"What types of persons like the puzzles?" she was asked.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

G. LILIENTHAL, AIR PIONEER, DIES IN GERMANY AT 83

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Gustav Lilienthal, 83, a pioneer in German aviation and a brother of the famous Otto Lilienthal, died today. The brothers were engaged in aviation experiments in the 1890's, concentrating on a bird-like machine with flapping wings. Otto was killed when one of his planes crashed in 1896.

The two were experimenting with flying machines before the Wright brothers began their conquest of the air. Gustav and his brother, who was a year older than he, built their first machine when they were both boys. Throughout their lives they worked together, Otto the brains, and Gustav the artisan. Together they watched the birds in flight, evolving several types of sail planes.

Gustav became a versatile inventor in other fields as well, turning out a box of building bricks for children and a material for weatherproofing buildings in the tropics. For five years he was in the employ of the British government in England and later in Australia.

Attorney Asks Cermak to Speed Taxi Ordinance

Lee Daniels, attorney for the Public Taxi Service company, a cut rate concern, yesterday sent letters to Mayor Cermak and members of the city council complaining against the "inactivity" of the council in drafting a new ordinance to regulate the taxicab industry in Chicago. He proposed also that the city increase the annual fee of $5 which the city collects for each cab in operation, to $25 per cab. On a basis of 5,000 cabs the proposal would give the city an additional $100,000 in annual revenues. The Public company is operating 24 cabs under an agreement with the council pending the passage of the new ordinance.

This is Groundhog day and the weather news is that if Old Man Groundhog starts looking for his shadow he probably will see it. Official Forecaster C. A. Donnel, who doesn't believe in the efficiency of such animals or the wishbone of a goose either, said that the day will be fair and the temperature about normal, with a maximum of 30 above zero.

"We'll have a variety of weather for the next six weeks," the forecaster added, "no matter whether the sun shines today or not. I suspect that a lot of it will be wintry weather, too."

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and children love its taste.

When the remainder of the dam is blasted out and the site is dredged navigation by barge will be possible from Chicago down the drainage canal system to the Brandon locks, so far as the channel is concerned.

Two bridges, however, must still be removed to give necessary overhead clearance. Work on the Ruby street span in Joliet is being pushed, while the Smith highway bridge south of that city is to be torn away and a ferry temporarily substituted while a higher structure is built.

TAX CUTTING IN TWO STATES EASES BURDENS

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Evidence that the popular protest against the high cost of government is having some effect comes from a number of communities. There, despite extra burdens resulting from depression relief work, substantial progress in reducing budgets is noted.

Three recent reports telling of substantial savings have been received from the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce; the county board of tax adjustment, Tippecanoe county, Lafayette, Indiana, and the city council of Kenosha, Wis., in its tenth annual statement to citizens.

The Wisconsin state chamber states that reports from mayors, county treasurers, and other officials for 155 local units of government show 91 cities have reduced their 1933 tax levies $8,019,843 from the 1932 total and that 49 counties have decreased their levies by $2,408,304. Eight cities and seven counties report increases.

Milwaukee Cutting Taxes.

The largest single decrease was that made by the city of Milwaukee, which reported a $4,693,875 decrease in its tax levy for 1933 as compared with 1932. The 1933 levy is $20,587,113. The 1933 tax rate is $22.40, compared with $25.96 for 1932.

Last year 101 Wisconsin cities reported a tax levy for 1932 which was $5,302,213 less than 1931, while 53 counties reported a tax reduction of $5,304,128.

Commenting on this, the chamber of commerce, which has been active in working for tax reduction, says:

"The 1932 decreases, together with the decreases this year, make an excellent showing. Relief work of cities and counties has very greatly increased the cost of government during the last year, so this record is doubly encouraging."

Savings in Indiana.

Then, in Tippecanoe county, Indiana, the county board of tax adjustment, headed by David E. Ross, chairman of the board of trustees of Purdue university, has completed a notable task in supervising the setting up of the 1933 budget, which reduces the tax bill of the community substantially. In accomplishing this, members of the board worked from 12 to 14 hours daily for three weeks without pay. They held meetings which were attended by large numbers of citizens, one bringing about 5,000. At that meeting details of the work were discussed. Finally they paid for a report clearly outlining the financial position of the county.

The report shows how taxes increased from $691,892 in 1909 to approximately $2,028,927 in 1932—a gain of 208 per cent, with the high point reached in 1929. The 1933 tax bill will be $1,428,106, or an approximate reduction of 28.8 per cent from 1932. Savings were partially effected through salary reductions, some of which were voluntary. In addition to Mr. Ross, other members on the board were William E. Widmer, William H. Sanders, Lynn Miller, Henry J. Ebershoff, W. R. McQueen, and C. F. Jamison, county auditor.

Situation in Kenosha.

In its report to the citizens of Kenosha the council stated that despite a 78 per cent increase in the appropriation for the poor relief department, a loan of $125,000 made to the poor relief department, which must be repaid in 1933, and loss in revenues, the budget for 1933 asks for $335,798 less than in 1932. The 1933 budget is $2,328,181.71, compared with $2,723,-930.39 last year. This reduction was made despite unprecedented demands for poor relief.

An interesting feature of the report is a statement that when in 1932 it was found that anticipated revenues were off $291,364, the various department heads of the city were called in. They reduced their budgets sufficiently to make up for the deficit. This partly was accomplished by cutting salaries 15 per cent, and this year salaries are reduced an additional 10 per cent.

Members of the council signing the report were George S. White, chairman; John Burns, Jasper Gentile, Jacob Herrmann, Fred Joerndt, Sydney Jones, and A. G. Sharpe.

Morris Levinkind, real estate and insurance man, yesterday filed a petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities of $4,278,422 and assets of $115. Edward Rothbart, attorney for Mr. Levinkind, explained the wide difference between the liabilities and assets by saying:

"Mr. Levinkind formerly was vice president of the Capital Mortgage company. This company sold a large number of bonds. The old popular conception was that the seller of bonds would agree to buy them back, which would have been a large order in this case. Mr. Levinkind also was a stockholder in a number of banks. So while we were at it we thought we might as well make a good party, hence the large amount scheduled."

STANDARD OF N. J. TO PAY 25 CENTS; PASSES EXTRA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today voted to omit the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share, but declared the regular quarterly dividend of the same amount.

Officials recalled that the annual report for 1931 warned that the company could not continue to pay the dividend indefinitely out of surplus. The extra has been paid since the second quarter of 1929.

Call Inflation Chief Issue of New Congress

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Currency inflation was forecast as a stirring issue of the next congress tonight by its sponsors, who predicted that the tremendous influx of new members would give them extensive reënforcements.

Hearings that began today on proposals for expanding the currency by remonetization of silver served to emphasize that the newer members of the national legislature form the bulk of those behind the move.

Both they and opponents of inflation agreed privately that the new congress, meeting probably in April, will have to decide whether it wants to cheapen the dollar. Some predicted that the question might furnish the first big disagreement between President Elect Roosevelt and congress.

Witnesses Newcomers.

The men who testified before the house committee for silver inflation bills today were comparatively new comers to congress. They were Representative Cross [Dem., Tex.] and the Democratic Bankhead brothers from Alabama—representative and senator.

Representative Bankhead earlier had predicted flatly to newspaper men that the next congress will vote for inflation. He did not, however, say what he thought President Roosevelt would do about it. Mr. Roosevelt so far has said nothing but that he favors sound currency.

Cross and Representative Bankhead insisted in testimony before the coinage committee that the new silver currency they favor would be sound. They pointed out that federal reserve notes under present law may be secured by only 40 per cent gold, but that the new silver certificate they propose to issue against purchased reserves of that metal would be redeemable in a full gold dollar's worth of silver at a ratio fixed by law.

Call Silver Dollar Sound.

He and Senator Bankhead argued that although their bills proposed that the United States treasury purchase all silver bullion presented to it and pay for it with silver certificates, the metal would not be dumped into the United States.

The Bankhead bill, said the senator, has safeguards against the dumping. These provide that silver already coined by another country not be purchased, that none of the metal be bought from nations which do not use silver as money and that the treasury may suspend purchase if it thinks "corners" are developing fictitious prices.

"With those three safeguards," the senator testified, "we are amply and fully protected against being made a dumping ground for silver. My fear is that we will not get enough."

The trade advantages that would accrue to the United States in Mexico, South America, the Far East and India through an increase in the price of silver also were emphasized by the three witnesses as reasons for remonetization of the metal.

DRUG, INC., VOTES DIVIDEND ON $3 YEARLY BASIS

A quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share was declared by directors of Drug, Inc., yesterday. The common stock was thus placed on a $3 annual dividend basis, as compared with the $4 rate which had been in effect since the company was formed. The new dividend is payable March 1 to stockholders of record Feb. 14.

Officials of the company stated that there would be no curtailment in its expenditures for national advertising during 1933 and that for some of its products appropriations would even be increased.

BUILDING IN BIG PACIFIC CITIES IS TRIPLE 1932

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Building permits in the Pacific coast's five largest cities jumped 263 per cent from December to January, according to the monthly permit figures issued by the city building authorities.

The total permits for San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland, Seattle, and Portland were $15,633,000 in round numbers, compared with $4,314,000 in December. The gain over January of last year was 224 per cent. In that month permits totaled $4,874,000.

Government Report Reveals Status of Industries in December, 1932

Chicago Area Spurt Helps Steel Industry

A sharp spurt in production in the Chicago district was in part responsible for a two point gain in steel production throughout the nation last week, according to the weekly summary of conditions in the industry by Iron Age. For the country as a whole, production increased around 2 points to fully 19 per cent of capacity, the paper estimates, while production in the Chicago district advanced from 14 to 18 per cent.

Officials of steel companies here recently attributed the increase in the Chicago district to expansion of small orders. They saw in this development a favorable sign, saying that orders from smaller buyers usually precede the larger ones.

Iron Age also states that there has been a substantial increase in the valley sections of Ohio, where one plant has stepped up steel making to fill a rush order for 14,000 tons of pipe line and another plant, inactive for some time, has resumed operations. A moderate increase in the Birmingham district was also noted.

Lose Ground in Some Places.

"Operations both in steel making and finished departments have lost ground at Cleveland and Detroit and have no more than held their own at Pittsburgh," Iron Age continues. "The Cleveland and Detroit districts are principally affected by Ford suspension and a falling off in the volume of new business from other motor car manufacturers. The Cleveland rate has dropped from 44 to 38 per cent of capacity.

"Although January has brought a moderate improvement in the steel industry, it was less than might have been expected considering that seasonal tendencies usually begin to exert themselves more forcibly at this time of the year. However, the fact that steel ingot production has risen from 12 or 13 per cent in the first week of December to 19 per cent beginning with February, with no important aid from the railroads or from building construction, gives some reason for mild encouragement.

"The performance of the automobile industry continues to attract the most attention to the steel trade, since it is the most tangible prospect for tonnage to sustain the present operations of many mills."

Hardware Prices Dip.

The most noteworthy development in the hardware business during January was the downward revision of prices in many lines, according to the Hardware Age.

"Of paramount interest among the price changes have been the general reductions on nails and wire products," the paper says. "These are expected to be a material aid in enabling distributors to meet price competition engendered by foreign made wire products, which has been troublesome for some time. Other downward revisions have lately become effective on sheet steel, certain types of ammunition, electrical appliances, asphalt shingles and roofing, jack screws, plumbing goods, and air rifles. In contrast prices on electrical wiring devices have advanced in an effort to place quotations on a more profitable basis."

JAPANESE OFF GOLD BASIS, BUT 125,000 FISH ARRIVE TODAY

A consignment of 7,850 pounds of gold fish from Japan is due to arrive at the Union station this morning on the Olympian, Milwaukee road limited train, which is bringing them from Seattle. An official of the Milwaukee road estimated that each fish weighs about an ounce so the shipment should comprise about 125,000 fish.

"Since Japan is off the gold standard maybe that country is now paying in gold fish," the Milwaukee road official remarked.

"The fish are carried across the Pacific in tubs," he continued. "In Seattle they are put into containers for convenience in handling in an express car. A Japanese attendant comes along with the shipment to feed and change the water.

Another consignment being brought to the city on the same train is a shipment of raw silk. Usually these shipments go directly through the city, but one express car is to be opened here and 115 bales are to be delivered to a Chicago company. Unusual precautions will be taken to prevent hijackers from seizing the shipment. The price of silk varies from $1.15 to $1.60 a pound and from 135 to 145 pounds in a bale. Figuring the value at the lowest price the worth of the Chicago shipment would be about $17,500.

NEW YORK BONDS ADVANCE ON CUT IN CITY'S BUDGET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Traders in New York City bonds came to work early today and engaged in feverish activity during the first hour or two of business, with prices showing an overnight gain of about 1 to 3 points as a result of Mayor O'Brien's $40,000,000 cut in the budget.

Trading fell off subsequently and prices eased from their peaks. However, at the close of business the active issues stood fractionally above the previous day's final quotations.

The city's various issues of long term 4⅛s closed at a bid price of 97; the 4½s, 93 bid. The 6s due 1935 and the 6s due 1936 finished unchanged. The 6s due 1937, however, on the basis of closing prices of 104¾ bid, were up ¼ of a point.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Plant Opens; 300 Get Jobs

Henryetta, Okla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Plate Glass company's plant here has resumed operations after a shutdown of more than seven months. Approximately 300 men returned to work in the factory.

Stocks Take Upward Path Last 60 Days

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Moving within a narrower area than in either of the two previous months, stocks in January made a small gain in values, making it the second consecutive month of advances, although the appreciation in January was the smallest for any month since August, 1931.

As measured by the movement of 240 issues, comprised in twenty groups, the enhancement in values for January was $100,837,635, less than one per cent, compared with a gain of $417,377,318 made in December, equal to 3 per cent. In January last year the same number of issues depreciated $257,297,187, or 2 per cent.

Eleven Groups Gain.

Eleven of the twenty groups established gains in values last month, with the most conspicuous groups, the rails and tobaccos. Both showed an average advance of more than 2½ points for the issues used under each classification. In the previous month, the most impressive groups were the chemicals and public utilities.

Within thirteen of the groups, irregularity of movements occurred, while, in the remaining seven, the trend was pronounced throughout the month. Amusement shares and chain stores, two of the weakest groups, were adversely affected by the receivership proceedings in several large units; both leather and mail order stocks were all strong.

Rail Issues Higher.

Railroad stocks, with the exception of Canadian Pacific, which declined 3¼ points, were higher, as were the sugars. The majority of public utility issues showed losses.

In only fifteen months since the end of September, 1929, have gains been made in stock prices; four in 1930, five in 1931, and four last year, aside from a gain in December, 1929, and last month's advance. Prices are now about 25 per cent of what they were at the end of September, 1929.

New York, Feb. 1.—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, was added to the advisory board of the National Broadcasting company, according to the announcement made today by President Aylesworth of the N. B. C.

The N. B. C.'s total income for 1932 showed a decrease of $500,000 from the figures of the year before. Last year it took in $29,000,000, against $29,500,000 for the previous year.

Under date of December 20, 1932, we requested holders of the above issue, as well as holders of our Guaranteed 6½% Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, known as Issue A, to deposit their bonds under proposals described in our letters dated December 20, 1932, under which holders were asked only to reduce the Sinking Fund requirements of their bonds.

The proposals involve no change in the interest rate on the bonds. Interest on each series will continue to be payable at the full rate of 6½% per annum if the proposal for such series becomes operative.

Interest due January 1, 1933 on the Issue A bonds was not paid. Funds to pay the interest coupons due April 1, 1933 on the Issue B bonds will not be available unless and until the proposal becomes operative.

By reason of the fact that the names and addresses of a large number of the holders of Issue B bonds are not known to us, deposits of this issue are not at present sufficient to declare the proposal operative, although the response from the known holders of Issue B bonds has been most satisfactory. The response from the holders of Issue A bonds, with most of whom we have been able to establish a contact, has also been most satisfactory.

In view of the foregoing, Lehman Brothers and Redmond & Co., as the Committee, have, with our consent, extended the period during which both issues may be deposited to the close of business on February 21, 1933. Holders of Issue B bonds, particularly, are urged to procure a copy of the proposal from LEHMAN BROTHERS, ONE WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y., and to deposit their bonds immediately so that the proposal may be declared operative. Otherwise funds will not be available to pay the interest coupons due April 1, 1933 on these bonds.

DIVIDEND NEWS GIVES SETBACK TO STOCK MART

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Wintry blasts beat upon the stock market from various quarters of the compass today. "Bad news" from an unusual number of more or less important dividend meetings; the fresh outbreak of weakness in Canadian exchange; the move to dissolve the reichstag, and the news from London that Great Britain does not intend to make any trade concessions in return for a reduction of the war debt she owes this country, were some of the chief burdens.

The announcement by some of the large insurance companies that they were constrained to ease up on the farmers served to call attention to the seriousness of the farm mortgage situation and added to the general feeling of cheerlessness.

Rails Are Strongest.

Selling went on steadily with the exception of an interim just before mid-day and losses of from 1 to 3 points or so were numerous. No group escaped entirely, but the rails, on the whole, put up the stoutest front against their undoers.

Volume was the heaviest in months, approximately 1,200,000 shares.

The market's worst trouble came from the batch of dividend meetings beginning with that of the United States Steel corporation yesterday afternoon at which the corporation's preferred rate was cut to a $2 annual basis from $7 and continuing with adverse action by such outstanding industrial concerns as Standard Oil of New Jersey, Borden's and Drug, Inc.

The shock of the Steel rate cut, which was a good deal more drastic than the street had anticipated, caused a general break of from a half to a point in the opening and subsequent selling widened losses in many directions to as much as 2 points. There was some evidence of support in the first hour and some buying undoubtedly took place on the theory that the market would brace up after its initial flurry.

Blue Chips Give Ground.

Selling broke out afresh throughout the list and continued unchecked to the close. Even the rails had to give up their early gains and such blue chip favorites of the group as New York Central, Illinois Central, Union Pacific and the like finished showing net losses of from a fraction to a point. Norfolk and Western slipped back nearly 4 points below its previous close.

Automobile shares were little liked. Auburn ran into an air pocket and broke nearly six points. The closing sale was at 42¾, off 3½. General Motor, Chrysler and Studebaker receded fractionally, the last named getting a little extra jolt from omission of its preferred dividend.

Utilities had their troubles as usual and the oils sagged, Standard of New Jersey dropping nearly 4 points on the bad news from its board meeting.

Both the "big Steel" issues were sharply lower, the preferred giving up nearly 5 points net and the common falling back to 26¾, off 1½.

VAST SUM OF IDLE MONEY HELPING BETTER BONDS

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The sheer pressure of the vast stores of idle money held by banks, combined with the lack of yield on government bonds, will shortly be felt in the market for high grade corporation, railway, and utility issues.

That is the opinion of Frank M. Gordon, vice president in charge of the bond department of the First National-First Union Trust banks and president of the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Asked yesterday for his views on the status of the bond market, Mr. Gordon said:

"I make no predictions. I do find, however, a better feeling among investors. Investors who have been considering nothing but government bonds for a long time are beginning to ask about good corporate issues.

Bond Business Expects Upturn After March.

"The bond business looks for a turn for the better after March 4, but it wouldn't be surprised if it occurred a little before that."

Particularly encouraging, he said, was the reception accorded the Cincinnati Union Terminal bonds brought out this week at par by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. Yesterday these bonds closed in New York at two points above the offering price.

"There is a better feeling in the air," Mr. Gordon said. "Rather than invest in government bonds with almost no return people are beginning to inquire about other bonds.

"The extreme liquidity of banks, easy money, the investors' need for return on their capital, and the greater stability of business since last June all make for a turn for the better in bonds."

The president of a life insurance company complained yesterday that "there has been a lot of loose talk about the effect of poor railroad earnings on the financial condition of life insurance companies."

"People don't stop to consider that soundly managed life insurance companies have invested in the more conservative railroad issues which have kept out of trouble.

"Instead, somebody tells them that 40 per cent of all railroad bonds are in jeopardy and they immediately conclude that 40 per cent of the rail bonds held by insurance companies are in a bad way. Nothing could be further from the truth."

Whereupon he summoned a statistician who had prepared a list of listed railroad bonds which on Dec. 31, 1932, were selling for higher prices than they were quoted at on June 30, 1929, at the peak of prosperity.

A., T. & S. F. 4s, '95	91	94
C. & O. 5s, '39	102	104½

Eastman Hopeful of Roads' Future.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Before a senate subcommittee which was dubious about the future of the railroads and the advisability of lending them government support, Joseph B. Eastman, interstate commerce commissioner, and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, today defended R. F. C. railroad loans and expressed confidence that the railroads would rise with the general tide of prosperity—when it begins to turn.

DANIEL WILLARD.

Into the hearing on the Couzens resolution to suspend further finance corporation loans to railroads, a picture of the Baltimore and Ohio was introduced as one typical of railroad financing and railroad expansion, and of the plight in which the country's carriers now find themselves.

"The important thing," said Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], pointing out the aim of his resolution, "is for what purpose the loans are made. It to maintain transportation and service there might be no criticism. If for other purposes, there might be criticism.

"Certain creditors are getting preference. You loan so the roads can pay off bondholders and banks, leaving other creditors in a less favorable position.

"I fail to see why a manufacturer selling to a railroad should get government help when a manufacturer selling to other enterprises gets none."

Question of Economy.

"And I would like to ask," said Senator John J. Blaine, Wisconsin radical, "whether you consider it good economy for the government to sustain a physically inflated institution that attempts to exist against the power of what the people want?"

To Senator Couzens, Commissioner Eastman replied that the loans to railroads had kept many from receivership. It would not save all of them, he said, but would spread out the period of reorganization and spare shaken public confidence a dangerous shock.

"It is customary to refer to the plight of the railroads," he said. "As a matter of fact, this condition is shared by many other institutions."

Tonnage of Roads.

Over Senator Couzens' insistence that the decline of the railroads began long before the depression, the commissioner declared:

"If and when the country comes out of the depression, the roads will get their tonnage back."

"You say 'if and when,'" chided Senator Couzens.

STOCK EXCHANGE STARTS INQUIRY ON AUDIT METHOD

Seeks Greater Public Safeguards.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The New York stock exchange has asked all companies whose securities are listed on the exchange to supply it with information concerning their auditing methods in furtherance of its studies to provide safeguards for investors. That was announced today.

The data may guide the exchange later in formulating policies in regard to audit requirements. For the time being, however, the information is sought solely to enable it to observe auditing practices among the companies canvassed.

Tells Why Some Object.

President Richard Whitney of the exchange said it long had encouraged quarterly earnings reports, in addition to annual reports, but some companies regarded quarterly reports as impracticable, citing seasonal changes and the world-wide scope of their business.

The information which Whitney asked company heads to secure from their auditors on completion of the 1932 audits and incorporate in a letter to the committee on listing follows:

1. Whether the scope of the audit conducted by them is as extensive as that contemplated in the federal reserve bulletin, "Verification of Financial Statements."

2. Whether all subsidiary companies controlled by your company have been audited by them. If not, it is desired that the letter should indicate the relative importance of subsidiaries not audited as measured by the amount of assets and earnings of such companies in comparison with the total consolidated assets and earnings, and should also indicate clearly on what evidence auditors have relied in respect to such subsidiaries.

3. Whether all the information essential to an efficient audit has been furnished them.

Further Accounting Features.

4. Whether in their opinion the form of the balance sheet and of the income or profit and loss accounts is such as fairly to present the financial position and results of operation.

5. Whether the accounts are in their opinion fairly determined on the basis of consistent application of the system of accounting regularly employed by the company.

S. S. Kresge company is one of the large variety chain store systems. At the close of 1932 it operated 681 stores in the United States and 42 in Canada.

Sales for 1932 were $124,421,000, a 14.65 per cent decrease from sales of $145,785,000 for 1931. Sales for 1930 were $150,508,000, against $156,457,000 for 1929. Net income for 1932 was $5,657,000. In 1931 the company earned its fixed charges 7.56 times, against 9.19 times in 1930. As the first 5s, due 1945, are dated June 1, 1930, fixed charges prior to that date are not strictly comparable. Net income for 1929 was $14,952,000.

President Van Dusen was quoted on Jan. 14, 1933, as saying that the company finished 1932 "with no bank or commercial paper loans," "and with net cash of $3,500,000." On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $21,245,000 and current liabilities were $7,583,000. Cash assets were $4,594,000 and notes payable were $2,000,000. Working capital was $13,663,000, against $21,974,000 the year before.

There are outstanding $1,950,000 first mortgage 5s, due 1945. They are a direct liability of the company and are specifically secured by a first mortgage on the company's administration building in Detroit. Other long term debt payable totals $22,384,000. The 5s, due 1945, are sound.

Birmingham Electric.

Kindly give me your opinion on Birmingham Electric company 7 per cent cumulative preferred.—S. C. G.

Birmingham Electric company, a subsidiary of National Power and Light company, furnishes electricity and transportation to a population of 337,000 in Birmingham and eight other Alabama communities.

Operating revenues for the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1932, were $6,417,000 and net income was $762,000. Preferred dividends were $435,000. For the preceding twelve months operating revenues were $7,645,000 and net income was $1,376,000. Preferred dividends were $420,000.

Operating revenues for 1931 were $7,343,000, against $8,240,000 for 1930, $9,443,000 for 1929 and $10,723,000 for 1928. Part of the decline is due to sale of gas properties in March, 1929. Net income in 1931 was $1,310,000, or $20.11 per preferred share, against net of $1,569,000 for 1930. Net for 1929 was $2,097,000.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $1,269,000 and current liabilities were $3,466,000. Cash was $316,000 and notes and loans payable were $1,831,000.

Funded debt totals $12,200,000. There are outstanding 65,125 shares of combined $7 and $6 no par cumulative preferred. Both classes are medium grade and somewhat speculative.

INSULL INQUIRY USED AS WEAPON IN BUDGET ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The federal trade commission's current inquiry into the Insull collapse became a weapon today in the hands of congressmen opposed to a proposed million dollar slash in appropriations for the government investigative agency.

The independent offices supply bill now before the house carries $510,000 for the trade commission in 1934—a reduction of $956,500 from the amount appropriated for it last year and a cut of $599,550 from the amount requested for next year by the budget bureau. Explaining the slash, the appropriations subcommittee which reported the bill stated that it "did not approve of the initiation of new economic investigations at this time," and declared that it felt the other activities of the commission could also "be substantially curtailed without injury to the public interest."

Others Fight Reduction.

Members of the house opposed to the reduction seized the Insull investigation as an argument for the commission's continued activity. Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] declared he "considered it especially important that the commission be permitted to continue its investigation of the methods which resulted in the Insull scandal."

His protest was echoed even more emphatically by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rad., N. Y.], leader of the house radical bloc, with the declaration that the "interests seeking to cripple the commission are those confidence men masquerading as financiers, who defrauded American investors out of billions with their crooked practices."

"It appears to me," La Guardia said, "that the appropriations committee has unwittingly allowed itself to be used as the tool of some of the crookedest interests in this country. The propaganda and bribery department of the power trust recently disbanded, but it was incorporated under a new name."

Refers to Edison Institute.

Should the effort to defeat the proposed cut fail in the house, it was considered virtually certain that a number of senators will make strenuous efforts to reinstate the deleted fund when the bill reaches the higher body. Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] and Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] are understood to be prepared to make a fight against the economy move if the house insists on leaving the cut in the bill.

According to the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the independent offices bill, the economic division of the trade commission expects to complete its current investigations before July 1. In anticipation of the completion of that work, the subcommittee declared, the commission recently adopted resolutions calling for new inquiries which would keep the economic division busy throughout the next fiscal year.

SHARES OF GOLD MINES BOOM IN BRITISH MARKETS

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Recovery of gold mine stocks was a feature of the stock exchange session today, but in the street market as darkness fell there were wild scenes as one of the largest crowds in many years gathered for a huge business in mining shares.

Several issues changed hands with considerable freedom and there was a sharp increase in prices.

Similar in South Africa.

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Announcement of sharp increases between December and January in the profits of many mining companies sent the price of mine stocks skyrocketing today. City Deep mines earned £6,000 in December and £40,000 in January. Earnings of Chukow mines were £104,000 in December, and £260,000 in January.

Trust Writes Off $3,108,278 National Republic Invest.

The National Republic Investment Trust has written down to $1 its $3,108,278 investment in the shares of the National Republic Bancorporation. Largely because of this adjustment the net worth of the trust has been reduced to $367,634 as of Dec. 31 from $3,579,927 at the close of 1931. The trust reports net income of $28,000 for 1932 against $176,000 in 1931. The bank stock firm was organized in 1929 by George Woodruff, former head of the National Bank of Republic, to hold shares of smaller banks in the Chicago district.

WORLD GOLD OUTPUT FOR 1932 IS EXPECTED TO SET NEW RECORD

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It seems certain that last year's gold production will prove to have set a record, according to Sharps & Wilkins bullion circular.

This estimates the output at 23,500,000 ounces, valued at $484,200,000, an increase of 700,000 ounces compared with 1931, which had the previous highest mark.

Production expanded steadily in the last decade, having stood at 17,790,597 ounces in 1923. Increasing output in the Transvaal and Canada was chiefly responsible for the improvement. In both cases production in 1932 constituted a record, the Transvaal showing an increase of 6.2 per cent and Canada 13.2 per cent over 1931.

Canada, with an estimated production of 3,050,000 ounces, must now be regarded as the second producer in the world.

"Although the enhanced sterling price of gold during the last 15 months has acted as a stimulant to production in those countries which abandoned the gold standard," says the circular, "the steady fall in the price of commodities in recent years—reducing the cost of recovering the metal and also enabling the working of lower grade ores—has been largely responsible for the growing expansion of the world's gold output."

LABOR OFFICIAL URGES FEDERAL TRADE CHARTERS

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A plan whereby all corporations doing an interstate business would be incorporated nationally and licensed by the federal government was urged tonight by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

The labor official told the Bond Club of New York, "In that way an effective regulation may be established wherein both organized industry, labor, and government will contribute equally of their experience, knowledge, and administrative abilities."

"Unless industry shortly is revived," Woll added, "unless our processes of falling wages, prices, and values are arrested, our national government ultimately will be required to assume title to and operate private properties and institutions upon such a broad and extensive basis as will amaze even the most ardent advocate of socialism and certainly give weight to the advocates of communism."

Woll asserted that America's "load of national credit and growing indebtedness" was becoming "almost a crushing burden on productive industry." He urged the removal of the legal restrictions which the Sherman and Clayton acts impose on industry.

POWER OUTPUT RUNS 7.5 PER CENT BELOW YEAR AGO

Power production in the United States last week ran 7.5 per cent below the output for the corresponding week of 1932 according to the weekly report issued yesterday. The spread from last year is slightly wider than the previous week this year when production was off 7.1 per cent from 1932.

The Chicago district comparison was more favorable than that of the country as a whole. Production here was down 7.3 per cent against a decline of 8.6 per cent in the preceding week. The comparative showing in this district has improved consistently in the last four weeks. The darker weather this year explains in part the showing. January production ran 9.8 per cent below last year which is attributed to the unusually warm weather during the month.

ATLANTIC SHIP LINES POSTPONE RATES MEETING

BRUSSELS, Feb. 1.—The general meeting of the North Atlantic Shipping conference set for today here was postponed until March 2 in Paris. The conference's permanent secretariat here explained the blanket 5 per cent increase in passenger fares for all classes has been effective since the last meeting in London and is satisfactory to all lines.

It also was agreed to restore the old practice of raising minimum rates effective early in April for all classes of passenger accommodations during the summer months.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Secretary of the Treasury Mills announced today that the treasury will sell to the highest bidder $75,000,000 of the 91 day bills dated Feb. 8, to refinance a similar issue which matures on the same day. Tenders will be accepted by federal reserve banks and their branches up to 2 p. m., eastern standard time, on Feb. 6, the secretary said.

Public Utilities Off Sharply on Chicago Stock Exchange

Trading expanded and prices sold off rather sharply on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday. Conspicuous losers were the public utility shares. Commonwealth Edison broke 2½ points to 73⅛. The no par common of Public Service of Northern Illinois lost 2¾. Other losses were confined to a one point margin. Trade totaled 24,000 shares.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Shell Union Oil company of New York was dismissed today as a defendant in the suit brought by seven independent gasoline dealers, charging nine major producers with an attempt to create a gasoline monopoly in this section of Ohio. That company has no offices in the state, and transacts no business in Ohio.

DESIGN CONTEST STARTS AS SPUR FOR FACTORIES

Chicagoans Sponsor National Project.

National competition to improve the design of manufactured products, as a business stimulant, is being launched by the Association of Arts and Industries, William Nelson Pelouze, president of that organization, announced yesterday.

The movement is being sponsored by a group of Chicago manufacturers and others who are seeking new forms and new uses for factory products. It is expected that 2,000 designers and 150 manufacturers will participate in the competition.

Prizes Probably in Cash.

There will be a series of cash awards for those submitting the winning designs, Mr. Pelouze said. No sums were announced, but it was stated that the first prize would be a large cash sum. New designs in packages, improvements in form and utility will be stressed.

The executive committee conducting the competition will meet today to discuss plans for the contest. The committee includes Mr. Pelouze, who is president of the Pelouze Manufacturing company; George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce; Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Illinois Manufacturers association; E. H. Powell, secretary and treasurer of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Paul Schulze, president Schulze Baking company.

Plans for Meeting.

The meeting will be held in the offices of the Illinois Manufacturers association. Several well known designers will meet with the committee.

The competition is intended to arouse manufacturers to the possibility of awakening new interest in their products by improving their form.

ABEL DAVIS AND C. H. EIB NAMED IN BOND CONTEST

Suit to recover approximately $478,865 in bonds of the bankrupt Pettibone-Mulliken company and demanding a complete report of the activities of the receivers, Abel Davis and C. H. Eib, president of the company at the time the receivers were appointed in December, has been filed in the federal court by a bondholders' protective committee.

The petition alleges that between September, 1931, and July, 1932, approximately $500,000 was paid out by the officers of the company to various individuals and to Peabody & Co., a La Salle street bond house.

The suit names other individuals from whom the committee seeks to collect sums paid out for commissions and expenses on stock transactions. The suit was filed by Attorney Frederick A. Brown.

TWO BIG WIRE COMPANIES MAKE SAVINGS IN RENT

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Western Union Telegraph company and Postal Telegraph-Cable company have obtained rent concessions on a large percentage of their offices throughout the country, it was learned today.

Western Union is said to have effected savings totaling $500,000 a year, while Postal's rent economies are figured at more than $400,000 a year. The reductions were obtained as a result of negotiations carried on over the last few months.

The telegraph companies are among the largest real estate renters in the country. Western Union has approximately 5,000 branches and the Postal system about 2,000.

MOSSER LEATHER, ARMOUR UNIT, REPORTS LOSS

The J. K. Mosser Leather company, controlled by Armour & Co., yesterday reported a net deficit of $1,137,000 for 1932. This is smaller than the loss of $1,492,000 reported in 1931. Harry W. Boyd, president, laid the deficit to the difficulty of selling leather goods, particularly the better grades, and the continued decline in prices. The year end balance sheet showed current assets of $10,205,000 and current liabilities of $218,197. This compares with $13,324,000 and $2,287,000 a year earlier.

Bill Proposes Full Revision of Illinois Corporation Law

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A bill calling for a complete revision of the state corporation law was introduced today by Senator Arthur A. Huebsch of Brookfield. The bill is the result of the work of a commission named at the last session of the legislature.

CANADIAN DOLLARS SAG TO 20% DISCOUNT, BUT RECOVER TO 83½

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The spotlight in money marts was centered today on Canadian exchange owing to its sudden weakness beginning yesterday and accelerating early today, particularly in London.

After closing last night at a discount of 16¼ cents here, the Canadian dollar fell sharply nearly 4 cents in London to a discount at one time of 20 cents. By the time when the New York market opened it had rallied to 18½ cents and continued its recovery here to 16½ cents, or about its closing price of last night.

The trading was quite active and the volume large, a sizeable part of which evidently was speculation on the short side followed by covering by the shorts which caused the rally.

The movement appeared to be based on some talk of further deflation among Canadian farmers, heavy loans maturing this year largely held in the United States and circulation of guesses in Europe that the dollar would go to a parity with sterling. On that basis the dollar would be worth about 70 cents here.

Canadians have asserted that there was no basis for that report but it seems to be used at least for speculative purposes. Up to a few weeks ago, the majority of the speculative element was on the long side, but it appears now to have shifted to the bear side. Considerable part of the selling is said to have taken place in London.

U. S. PUBLIC DEBT NEARS 21 BILLION WITH NEW ISSUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The public debt today moved up into the neighborhood of 21 billion dollars as the treasury issued 250 million dollars of five year notes.

The debt actually stood at $20,907,000,000 today, treasury records show. Issuance of the notes dated today increased the debt by $105,500,000; the remainder of the 250 million issue went to retire a maturing issue of certificates, and therefore did not add to the debt.

Each Person Owes $167.30.

Figured on the basis of this new total, the per capita indebtedness for each person in the country advanced to $167.30, the highest since 1926. Since the last fiscal year closed on June 30, 1932, the per capita indebtedness has advanced $11.18 and the total outstanding debt has been increased by $1,746,000,000.

Borrowing of these additional funds which have increased the debt has been made necessary by the unbalanced budget which had run up a $1,272,000,000 deficit for the current fiscal year by Jan. 20. Since June 30, 1930, when the debt stood at $16,185,000,000, the government's yearly deficits have caused a net increase of $4,722,000,000 in the debt.

Cut 3 Billions in 12 Years.

The incoming Democratic administration, taking over the $20,907,000,000 public debt, will have on its hands a debt only about 3 billions smaller than the one which the last Democratic secretary of the treasury handed over to the Harding administration in 1921. The debt is only about $5,700,000,000 smaller than the all time record of $26,600,000,000, which it set in 1919, just after the close of the war.

Handling of the public debt and of the deficit which is causing it to increase will be one of the major tasks of the new secretary and will be the principal stumbling block confronting the administration's efforts to provide relief. About four-sevenths of the debt, roughly 12 billion dollars, will have to be refinanced before the administration leaves office.

To accomplish this task in the bond market and still provide through other bond issues for relief funds without breaking the market completely will tax the abilities of the incoming secretary.

BUTTER TRADING DURING JANUARY SETS NEW RECORD

Butter and egg futures trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange advanced sharply last month over trading in January, 1931 and 1932, the exchange reports. January trading in butter futures was the largest ever recorded for that month. Sales during the month totaled 708 cars of eggs and 3,688 cars of butter. The previous record in butter sales was made in 1925 when 3,324 cars were moved. Butter sales for this year were 1,677 cars greater than in January, 1932, and 1,100 cars greater than in January, 1931.

Prices declined sharply during January. Butter closed at new lows for deliveries, with February at 16½ cents and March at 16⅞ cents. These prices represented losses of $90 per car lot for the month. Eggs lost from $700 to $1,200 per car lot.

INTERNAT'L PAPER TO DISCUSS WAGE CUTS IN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Feb. 1.—The International Power and Paper company, according to an announcement by Prime Minister Frederick C. Alderdice, is sending officials from New York to discuss with a committee of the government and the ministry of labor the cut in wages at its newsprint mill at Corner Brook.

Wage cuts of 15 per cent on higher salaries and 10 per cent on the lower brackets are posted to take effect tomorrow.

The company asserts its inability to do other than cut wages under the present condition of newsprint prices. The cut is in line with the company's policy at all their Canadian mills, but a return to old rates is promised on the recovery of world prices.

WHEAT PRICES DIP AS CANADIAN EXCHANGE SLIPS

World Market Fluctuates in Erratic Manner.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A sharp break in Canadian foreign exchange rates threw the world's wheat market into confusion for a brief period yesterday but they quickly recovered their equilibrium, but not until after there had been very erratic fluctuations in both Chicago and Winnipeg.

Readjustment to the new exchange rate caused an advance in Winnipeg wheat prices at the opening while Chicago was slightly lower. Later both markets advanced somewhat, but there was a rush of selling here against purchases at Winnipeg by spreaders which quickly started the local market on the downgrade. At the inside May sold at 46⅝c, off 1c from Tuesday's finish, the market breaking out of the 1c range in which it had held for four consecutive days.

On the decline there was free buying against bids and on resting orders and by shorts which absorbed the surplus in the pit and the local market rallied toward the last to close ⅛@½c lower for the day. May was 47⅛@47⅜c; July, 47⅜@47½c, and September, 48⅜@48⅜c. According to trade gossip the selling here against purchases at Winnipeg was to take profits on spreads put out some time ago.

Winnipeg Wheat Steady.

Fluctuations in Winnipeg were as erratic as they were in Chicago, but at no time were prices there off more than a fraction from the previous close, heavy buying by exporters who were removing hedges against export sales of around 2,000,000 bu Manitobas being partly responsible for the relative strength as indicated by blackboard quotations. However, the early difference of about 3 points in the exchange rate was equal to about 1½c per bu when reduced to United States funds.

Winnipeg wheat closed unchanged to ⅛c lower for the day, with May at 46⅞c in Canadian funds. There was a rally in the latter late in the session and the price in United States funds at the close was 39⅛c per bu, or ½c under that of Tuesday.

As a result of the lower rate of exchange, trade leaders after the close expressed the belief Canada was in a position to make very large sales of wheat abroad in competition with Argentina. Buenos Aires was ⅛@¼c lower for the day. Fluctuations in foreign exchange are expected to have considerable influence in all leading world's wheat markets during the next few days.

Corn Market Quiet.

Corn futures held within a range of around ⅜c, with an easier undertone, the May selling within ⅝@¾c of the lowest figure of the season, and the close was at net losses of ⅛@¼c. Trade was largely of a local character. Final sales were 25⅞c on May, while July was 27½c, and September, 28⅝c. Nothing was heard regarding export demand for American corn, and the latter lost part of its discount as compared with Argentina in the Liverpool market.

Weakness in other grains had a depressing effect on oats, with the July selling at 16⅝c, a new low for the season. The finish was ¼c lower, with May 16⅝c and July 16⅞c. While rye was affected to some extent by the action of wheat, the former closed unchanged to ⅝c lower, May being 34½c and July 33½c. Barley closed ½c lower with May at 27¼c.

NEW LOW ON COTTON DUE TO LIQUIDATION

Cotton was under pressure of liquidators a good part of the day and prices declined irregularly to new low levels. Weakness in grain and stocks tended to unsettle confidence of holders inducing them to unload and at the same time there was nothing in the news or the general situation except that prices were extremely low, to induce new investment buying in volume that would sustain higher price levels.

The trade is looking for an increase in acreage based on continued reports to that effect from the south. Cotton goods are passing into consumption at a good rate because of low prices with mill centers reporting a fair average of business.

Closing trades on futures in Chicago were at losses of 8@11 points, and at other markets of 10@14 points. Spots were off 10 points with New York at 5.90c, the first time it has been below the 6c level in some time. New Orleans and Galveston were down to 5.80c and Houston at 5.70c. Liverpool closed 2@4 points net lower.

Thomson & McKinnon remain moderately favorable to the buying side on breaks, while J. E. Bennett & Co. said the tone of the market seemed easy and prices may sag further. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS EASY

Butter and egg futures continued easier on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday. Butter closed ¼c lower, with eggs ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower. Liquidation continued heavy in February butter and switching likewise continued heavy. March was under new selling pressure. Mixed storage news tended to hold the markets within a narrow range. The Land O' Lakes association reported production 10 per cent less than last year, but the four markets showed a net inward movement of storage stocks which compared with an outward movement last year. Receipts of eggs in Chicago and New York again were extremely heavy, more than double the year ago arrivals. However, the Chicago spot market was steadier and support was moderate in the futures. October struck a new low for the year. Sales: butter, 342 cars; eggs, 38 cars. Deliveries: butter, 39 cars; eggs, 6 cars. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A good volume of business on cotton gray goods was offered to mills today, but they were unwilling to accept the low price ideas of buyers. The result was that actual sales were moderate. Rayon cloths continued firm in price, but demand was slackening. Burlap quotations were slightly stronger.

TECHNOCRACY IS ONLY IGNORANCE, SAYS ECONOMIST

Charge Conclusions Preceded Research.

Technocracy's claims are held up as due to failure to understand the elementary principles of money, credit, cost of production, and other phases of economics in a pamphlet titled "The Economics of Technocracy" and written by Dr. Aaron Director of the department of economics of the University of Chicago. This document is the second in a series of "public policy" pamphlets published by the University of Chicago Press.

"Technical progress is not incompatible with full employment, for labor saving devices, by reducing costs will create a surplus of purchasing power which can be used to buy new commodities or services, and so provide for workers who are displaced in any one line," Dr. Director states. "The difficulty at present is that this transition of workers is not immediately achieved and much remains to be done to facilitate the progress.

Claims Unsound Economically.

"There is no economic merit to the claim of the technocrats that the present depression is the result of technical changes which have taken place, and that existing conditions are symptomatic of a permanent situation under which the price system must collapse. The mere fact that technical change is gradual and the decline in employment since 1930 was sudden throws in itself some doubt on the relationship.

Dr. Director holds that this depression is no different from previous times of stress except in factors such as the war, resulting debts and tariffs, analyzing the collapse in terms of the process of inflation which caused a maladjustment between cost of producing commodities which people want and the price at which they can be sold.

The writer recalls that Howard Scott, head of the technocrats, in 1920 acted as director of research for the industrial research bureau of the I. W. W., contributing two articles, "The Scourge of Politics in a Land of Manna" and "Political Schemes in Industry," which appeared in The One Big Union Monthly.

Conclusions Came First.

"This connection is significant, not because it shows that Mr. Scott was employed by a radical organization, but because it shows that long before any 'research' was undertaken Mr. Scott already had all of his conclusions.

"In the two articles will be found all the gibberish about energy, the incompetence of the politicians, the need for a national organization under the control of engineers, and the need for a currency based on energy."

Continuing, Dr. Director says there is no basis for belief that the introduction of machinery leads to ever increasing amounts of unemployment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Abrupt recessions from 1 to more than 4 points in German and Canadian issues today brought a halt to the bond market's slow advance which has been in progress for more than a week.

The setback in German obligations was directly traceable to further disturbing political news from Berlin. Speculators in reich dollar issues took a beating as prices dissolved rapidly on the announcement of dissolution of the reichstag.

Losses extended to about three points in the government 5½s and 7s, and were of about the same size in the rank and file of German municipal and corporation bonds.

Upset in Canadian Bonds.

A sharp upset in Canadian bonds, resulting in losses of one to four points in issues of both the dominion and of its railway systems, followed close on the heels of a severe slump in Canadian exchange, attributed to a wide variety of causes.

Losses of several points occurred in the Dominion 4s, due 1960, and the 5s, due 1952, while issues of the Canadian National railway system lost heavily. Canadian Northern 6½s were down more than 2 points.

Price swings in other parts of the bond market were less violent, though recessions from early high prices were the rule in the majority of domestic issues. United States government issues continued firm.

Most of Selling Here.

Most of the selling in German bonds, according to dealers here, came from this country rather than abroad, leading to the view that the present reversal is largely a fade out of the speculative following which has been attracted to German issues during the recent sustained advance.

Contributing to the uneasiness of German bondholders was an intimation contained in dispatches received here today that the new cabinet may include in its outline of general policy steps to scale down interest on Germany's private obligations abroad.

"WE WON'T PLANT," SAY 40,000 FARMERS; STRIKE IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A strike began today in which 35,000 to 50,000 farmers have pledged themselves not to plant crops during the coming season unless their grievances have been removed. The government moved at once to assist Agrarians in Santa Fé and Cordoba provinces, where the strike is most widespread, as well as in Entre Rios, which already had been promised relief needed as the result of locusts and drought.

The minister of agriculture named a commission to study a relief program for the provinces. The strikers want a moratorium on debts, reduction in taxation appraisals, standard rentals, a cut in interest to 4 or 5 per cent, and a fixed price for corn—or government storage of the current crop—to raise prices.

The effectiveness of the strike may be tested when the corn harvest arrives if growers refuse, as they have sometimes in the past, to harvest the crop, preferring to burn it if any attempt is made to force them.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—There were 9,646 bales of wool offered at the auction today of which 9,000 were sold. Offerings met a good demand from the home trade and Germany at steady prices. Withdrawals were smaller and chiefly among lower graded greasy crossbreds and slipes.

LIGHT RECEIPTS BOOST CATTLE AND HOG PRICES

Better Position of Pork Aids Market.

Light receipts and colder weather lifted hog quotations 10@15c in yesterday's lively trading. Top sales were up 15c to $3.60, within 5c of the highest marks since November. The general average price at $3.45 made a new high for the last 11 weeks and stood 23 per cent above the low day a month ago.

The improved position of the wholesale market for fresh pork which has finally responded mildly to the continued small receipts, also contributed to the advance in hogs. The trade looks for light supplies for midweek and some sellers were holding stock off the market for later in the week, in hopes that the starvation supplies may keep prices headed upward despite the obvious inability of the trade to handle even normal winter receipts.

Receipts at 11 markets for the first half of this week at 268,000 show a decrease of 15 per cent compared with a week ago. Reports from the five leading points show a 10 per cent shortage in the movement for today.

Cattle Rule Stronger.

Cattle showed signs of a general recovery yesterday when receipts fell short again. Steers ruled strong to 25c higher, the better grades going up 15@25c on lively bidding in midsession and later. Closing rounds in all branches of the trade were strongest of the day.

Aggregate cattle receipts at the leading markets showed a decrease of 25 per cent compared with the previous Wednesday. The run at Chicago at 6,500 was smallest for Wednesday since middle of December.

The top sale in the cattle alleys at $6.75 stood highest since last Thursday. This price obtained 56 choice 1,076 lb long yearlings for the United Dressed Beef company, a New York concern. Medium weight steers averaging 1,243 lbs sold up to $6.25 and 1,376 lb averages cashed at $6.00.

Lambs Slightly Lower.

Lambs ruled steady to 10c lower in a late afternoon market that did not develop until near the close of the session. Packers bought the bulk of the crop of good light and handyweight fed westerns around $5.85, getting good 95 lb averages at $5.50 and 94 lb lambs at $5.60. Action was lacking, but there was plenty of resistance to the decline.

Lambs are the only meat animals selling in line with a year ago. The general average price of lambs for January at $5.95 was exactly the same as a year ago, and compared with $5.70 in December. The hog average for January at $3.15 was 5c above the December average, but compared with $4.00 a year ago. Beef steers averaged $5.00, against $5.50 in December and $6.80 a year ago.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE WANT AD SECTION

J. B. Eastman Is Hopeful of Roads' Future.

when I don't like to speak too confidently of the future," Mr. Eastman answered. But he refused to be as pessimistic as his questioners. He foresaw railroads meeting truck competition with their own trucks. He believed invention, such perhaps as rubber tired coaches, might win back passenger traffic.

Mr. Willard wanted loans to continue because his road, which has already received R. F. C. advances of 39 millions, is to get 31½ millions more to help meet 63 millions of bonds maturing March 1.

Those bonds and others, he explained, were issued because the public demanded more service under threat of government ownership. The B. & O., which failed to meet fixed charges of 6½ millions last year, is running only 50 per cent of capacity, he said.

He told how his company's expansion had been achieved largely through the flotation of bonds covering 80 per cent of the improvements they bought, maturing in 1995, and without sinking fund.

Raps Rail Securities.

"How stupid the public and insurance companies must be to buy such securities," snorted Senator Couzens "I certainly don't want my insurance supported by them."

Mr. Willard disagreed—mildly, but emphatically. The public, he explained, didn't want sinking fund bonds. You had to get them out of the safe when they were called, and that was bothersome.

"Moreover," he said, "I am not worried about the railroads unless this is going to be a 50 per cent country from now on, and I can't believe that."

MEN.

No Man Who Wants to Work, Who Is Adaptable and Responsible, Need Be Listed as "Unemployed."

WE WILL TAKE ON A LIMITED NUMBER OF MEN WHO NEED EMPLOYMENT AND WHO WISH TO TRY TO SEE IF THEY CAN DO THIS WORK. THOSE WHO QUALIFY CAN MAKE $35.00 TO $50.00 PER WEEK IMMEDIATELY. WE WILL FURNISH FULL EQUIPMENT WITH NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED.

If you are out of work and honestly seeking gainful employment—

If you're ready to take on honest work and forget that you were once manager of this-or-that, or a banker, or a $10,000 or $5,000-a-year-man—

If you're ready to plant your feet on the ground and take your head out of the clouds—

In other words—if you are ready to acknowledge that what you really need is an opportunity TO MAKE A DECENT LIVING—

Then come in for a personal interview. We have a job for you that will last as long as you are willing to work. We want only married men with a clean record who are of an age and in a condition of health that will enable them to work every day—and plenty of hours each day.

This work—if you are selected, we'll thoroughly train you in it—should pay you to start $30.00 to $40.00 a week while you are learning and working to prepare yourself for the larger earnings made by qualified men in our branches throughout the entire country. This company is a large national corporation with unlimited resources and has just completed the biggest six months in all its history. 1932 was our THIRD SUCCESSIVE SALES YEAR.

Most of our men never had any selling experience. These men were once unemployed. Not today. They are facing their families with checks, not with alibis. They are not seeking sympathy, nor are they feeling sorry for themselves. They are now permanently connected. Their future is bright and their opportunities to make real money were never better.

Come in Thursday morning, Feb. 2, for personal interview, and then if you feel qualified to do this work, hear the story from their own lips. Hear them tell what they think of the "Electrolux Forward" idea. Apply 9 to 1 at 430 Hyde Park-Kenwood Bank Building, 53d and Lake Park-av.

A $25 JOB

for a man with direct sales experience who is interested in a moderate income every week in preference to a get rich quick scheme. Man selected for this position will not be required to sell merchandise, but must have a good personality and be open to accept training for work in connection with our outside advertising division. Applicant must be over 25 years of age.

Apply 10 a. m. to 12 noon only.
